Mayor J. Stitt Wilson Breaks Down, Following Death of His Son

Mrs. Wilson Contracts Diphtheria and Her Eyesight Is Threatened

BERKELEY, Dec. 7.—Continued care of his little son until the boy's death from diphtheria and later of his wife, who was also afflicted, has resulted in the collapse of Mayor J. Stitt Wilson, according to the admission today of his physician, Dr. J. J. Benton.

Mayor Wilson has been confined to his bed for several days, but had rallied somewhat today. Dr. Benton believes the Mayor will be able to quit his bed by the end of next week and return to his official duties, in case the quarantine on his home can be raised by that time.

"Mayor Wilson is the only member of his family who has not shown signs of diphtheria on the throat swabs," said Dr. Benton today. "This does not mean, however, that they have actually come down with the disease. Seven members of the household, excepting only the mayor have shown infection.

The mayor is, however, in a very weak condition and has been confined to his home for several days. The strain has been very hard upon him and he has collapsed. It is probable he will be able to get up toward the end of the week."

Mrs. Wilson, who contracted the disease from her son before his death, is rapidly recovering from her affliction. Mrs. Wilson's eye became affected, and it was feared for a time that she would lose her sight. She has been kept in a darkened room, however, and shows steady signs of improvement.

Mayor Wilson issued over the telephone today a statement thanking the public for many kindnesses shown him, and especially for the many telegram and letters of sympathy of which he has been in receipt.

Stolen Registered Mail Sack Is Found

Contents of Pouch Secured by Bandits Are Found Undisturbed.

REDDING, Dec. 7.—The sack of registered mail stolen at Delta on the night of November 8 when the Shasta Limited was held up by two bandits, was found a quarter of a mile down the river from Delta this afternoon.

The contents of the sack were apparently undisturbed.

The sack was found hanging to a bush on the east side of the river by Charles Smith, a local hunter, who went across the river to get some traps. The sack had apparently been washed to a lodgment by a high water that ran on the night of the hold-up. The letters do not appear to have been rifled at all.

Church Discovers Advertising Pays

The First Baptist Congregation Raises $187 for Purchase of Printers' Ink.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 8.—Because of the belief of the Rev. S. Frazer Langford, pastor of the First Baptist Church, that churches as well as other institutions should be well advertised, his congregation has raised $187 to be expended in display advertising in the local newspapers during the coming year. The fund will be used in the main in announcing sermons on special topics which the Rev. Mr. Langford will deliver from time to time.

To Cut $6,000,000 From State Expense Estimates

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 7.—The State Board of Control and the State Controller were busy today preparing the State budget for the next biennial period to be submitted to the Governor. This budget will contain recommendations for appropriations which are necessary. It has been determined, so it was announced today, that the total appropriations of the next Legislature would not go above $16,000,000 and that is the figure the Board will submit to the Governor. This budget will contain recommendations for appropriations which are necessary. It has been determined, so it was announced today,

Playtime Affair Revives With Mockery History-Making Political Events

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The battle of Armageddon was re-staged and re-enacted for the benefit of the statesmen of the nation who assembled at the Gridiron Club dinner tonight. The man who stood at Armageddon 3000 years after the fight was not present.

Besides the struggle which was discovered and made famous by the colonel, there was a bull mose fight, a meeting for a vice-presidential goat, a meeting of the Senate committee that is trying to find out who paid campaign contributions and why, the organization of a new party to be known as the Sons of the Landslide, the Gridiron guide to office seekers and many topical songs.

The strike of the waiters, one of the features, happened just before the fish course. The manager of the New Willard breezed into the room, wearing an air of trouble and a business suit of clothes. He held an anxious conversation with Secretary Shriver and both went over to President Garthe, who told the guests solemnly that, owing to a little difficulty with the help, the dinner would go merrily on without the food and drink, which the guests felt they of right ought to expect.

OF COURSE THEY HOWLED. When a howl from the guests arose at this information the club members arose en masse and went out and got the terrapin, which is always the star feature of the dinner. So ably did they perform that the waiters, according to the manager, became jealous and ran back on the job.

After crying their victim last night, the two men went through his pockets, taking $12.50 in change. They then looted the till of $32. Further search resulted in their finding $300 in a tin box which had been hidden beneath the counter.

ROBBER ESCAPED. A short time afterward the proprietor was aroused one night when he heard some one attempting to open the door. Adams fired a shot from a revolver. The bullet went through the glass of the door but lodged in a screen outside. The man escaped.

After crying their victim last night, the two men went through his pockets, taking $12.50 in change. They then looted the till of $32. Further search resulted in their finding $300 in a tin box which had been hidden beneath the counter.

DESCRIPTION-FURNISHED. Warning their victim to make no outcry and hastily gathering their loot the man departed and had evidently gone some distance before the alarm was spread. A good description of the man and their general appearance was furnished the police and a strenuous effort is being made to apprehend them. It is believed that they may have been the same parties who visited the place on other occasions. They showed considerable familiarity with the premises.

The robbery occurred in a rather lonesome spot in an outlying grocery store located opposite Boulard Park, shortly before 8 o'clock.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL NOT TO BE INVESTIGATED

WICKERSHAM SATISFIES THE REPRESENTATIVES FROM TEXAS THAT HE IS ACTIVE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Attorney-General Wickersham is not to be investigated by the House of Representatives because he ordered United States Marshal Henkel of New York not to serve a warrant or arrest on John D. Archbold and other officials of the Standard Oil Company, indicted by a Texas federal grand jury on charges of violating antitrust laws.

Representatives Beal and Garner of Texas were convinced by Wickersham today that he was having a thorough investigation of the cases against Archbold and others made and that with full information in his possession he would act promptly.

Millionaire Packer's Wife Arrives in Private Car

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, wife of the millionaire meat packer, arrived in Oakland today in the private car "Milwaukee," coming across the country via the Southern Pacific. Mrs. Armour expects to meet her husband in San Francisco and cross the bay at once with a party of friends who had made the trip with her. Armour came to the coast by the way of Portland.

Rancher Is Wounded in Hard Battle With Eagle

CHICO, Dec. 7.—After battling for nearly half an hour with a huge bald eagle on the Harris ranch in Big Chico canyon yesterday, H. C. Shuffleton succeeded in killing the bird, but not before it had given him several severe scratches and threatened to get the better of him in the fight.

Shuffleton recently purchased the Harris property. He was out yesterday looking after his cattle and heard a peculiar noise behind him. Looking around he was confronted by the monster bird, with outspread wings and talons ready to grab at him. The eagle struck this afternoon by a Southern Pacific train at Shattuck avenue and Dwight way. She is attended by Dr. G. W. Peck, who fears grave results, especially because of her advanced years.

Mrs. Turner has been visiting a daughter in Northbrae for several days. This afternoon she was at Dwight way station on business and started to cross the tracks, apparently not noticing the approaching train or hearing the whistle. When she did see the train she tried to hurry across ahead of it, but was struck and buried in one side of the tracks.

She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, a half block away, where she is lying in bed recovering from the fall.

The eagle measured six feet six inches from tip to tip and weighed twenty-four pounds.

Students Do Good Luck Stunt as Steamer Slides Down the Ways.

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 7.—Fifty fair-haired girl students of the Washington Irving School of New York stood with their fingers crossed on the sponsor's platform as the new steamer Washington Irving of the Hudson river day line slid down the ways at the yard of the New York Shipbuilding company here today.

E. B. ELLIOTT, president of the line, also had liberated twenty homing pigeons to bring the vessel good luck, but he regarded the Titian locks of the fair students as his best "hunch." A number of years ago a sextet of red-haired girls of the Washington Irving High School formed "magic circle" and by their efforts persuaded the New York Board of Education to vote for a new building, which the board steadfastly refused. Mr. Elliott has since prided red-haired girls as the best of all mascots. Mrs. Elliott acted as the steamer's sponsor today.

Among the guests at the launching were Sir Thomas Lipton, Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad, Mayor Blankenburg of Philadelphia and several representatives of the family of Washington Irving.

Austria, Germany and Italy Resume the Triple Alliance Without Alteration

PARIS, Dec. 7.—A rumor in circulation here places the diplomats of Romania and Bulgaria in the position of trying to bring about peace in the Balkans by the arrangement of a double marriage. They are working hard, it is said, to bring about an alliance, hard, it is said, to bring about an alliance between the eldest son of the prince of Roumania, Prince Carol, aged 19, and Princess Eudoxia, aged 16, eldest daughter of King Ferdinand, and on the other side, and on the other between Prince Boris, aged 19, the future king of the Bulgars and the Roumanian Princess Elizabeth of Hohenzollern, aged 19, sister of Prince Carol.

If this plan is realized it will result in a remarkable solution of one phase of the Balkan problem.

Oakland Baseball Association is given as the reason for the resignation

yesterday by President E. N. Walter.

"Yes, I resigned today," declared Walter. "There are not going to be any satisfaction in the club. I will not stay any more now, but I may have a good deal to tell. I will surely retain my interest in the club."

The move was unexpected.

Secretary Jack Cook asserted that he was much surprised by it.

COOK SURPRISED.

It may be that private business caused Walter to resign, he asserted.

"What I do not know is any reason for the action. I never heard of any dissatisfaction and I have heard of no one resigning. We have taken no action at all regarding the resignation and no possible successor has even been considered."

The resignation of Walter was filed at five o'clock in the afternoon with Assistant Secretary McFarlin, and took effect immediately. A meeting of the board of directors will be held Monday to discuss the situation.

Walter also claimed yesterday that the deal whereby Oakland was acquired a new ball ground was that he was not taken into the conficiation is believed to have precipitated his resignation.

The victory such as was won by Taft in the great states of Utah and Vermont was commemorated in the following Limerick:

Every man's a stand-patter in Ute,
And his ten wives are voters to boot.
They all went east.
Over William H. Taft.
He's the biggest man next to Reed Smoot.

In the Green Mountain state, recollect,
Old Taft won out by a neck.

And we'd elected him.

"CARMEN" SONG.

Donnas and prima donnas sang in travesty on "Carmen." Dan Champ, Don Gaetano, Parkerino, and Don Taftio took part.

The battle of Armageddon revealed Sam, who really was there telling just how it all happened.

Here's some of the dialogue:

Sam—Look, look! There on the swelling plain the combatants clash and slay. To the right the general on the antlered animal dashes toward the large general seated on the putting green. Many men with strange weapons follow the bull Moose.

Pinchot—They are the rabbis cabinet.

Bourne—There is a man on the side lines who seems to be sitting on a money chest.

Clarke—That's Thomas F. Ryan.

Bourne—Why does he sit there idle?

Clarke—He's waiting for the battle to end so he can settle all unpaid bills of the campaign.

Waterson—Is the man who is shouting and waving his arms a Dervish?

Loose—No; that is Senator Dixon practicing for his appearance before the Clapp committee.

Sau—Who are the nine men surrounding the large man?

Bourne—They are members of the Taft cabinet.

Sau—Why are they not in the battle?

Bourne—They will get into the battle just after it is over.

THEN SOMETHING BROKE.

There was a large burst of laughter a minute afterward when some one observed that the dawn was breaking.

"Oh, no," was the reply, "that is not the dawn; that is Colonel Jim Hain Lewis."

Then instead of Joan of Arc, Albert
J. Beveridge was discovered disguised as Mary of Vine Clad cottage. Bill Filin was seen leading his forces to the music of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," while the Peninsular Legion advanced to the singing of "Hall, Hall!
the Gang's All Here!"

GATHER UP RUBBISH.

The travesty on the Clapp committee was full of good things; so was the gathering up of campaign rubbish by a white winged street cleaner, who found moose horns, empty wallets marked "dope" from the press agents.

The guests at the dinner voted it the

HONOR RETIRING JUDGE AND DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Bar Association Members Pay Tribute to Ellsworth and Donahue

Honor was paid Superior Judge William H. Donahue last night by the members of the Alameda County Bar Association when 75 attorneys and judges of the Supreme and Appellate bench met in Barnum's restaurant for their annual banquet.

The occasion was one of the memorable gatherings of the association for the reason that Judge Ellsworth, who for the last 24 years has occupied a seat on the Superior bench, is about to retire. His term of office will end on January 1. At that time William H. Donahue, former district attorney, will take his place.

Both judges were paid a high compliment by the men who have practiced with them and under them during many years. Nothing but words of praise and felicitations flew from the lips of the many distinguished men who were present during the evening.
There was a friendly mingling of the sincerity of the occasion. All made in commemoration of past meetings in which Judge Ellsworth had taken a prominent part and each speaker dwelt upon the many admirable traits of their character as a citizen and a jurist.

ORATORY FLOWS.

Melville C. Chapman, president of the Bar Association, acted as toast master of the evening. Speeches were made by Robert M. Fitzgerald, Ben F. Woolner, Henry A. Melvin, Justice of the Supreme Court; Samuel P.
Hall, Justice of the Appellate Court;
District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes,
George S. De Golia and others.

"It is about thirty years since I first saw John Ellsworth," said Chapman.
"He was a fine looking man then; he is a finer looking man now. At that time, I presume, Judge Donahue was a bright, curly-haired little chap, who had some influence in the barroom in and about Pleasanton and Alameda."

"I never shun'd to understand why Judge Ellsworth should give up his position he held when he had election within his grasp. I dismissed all thought of the recall having any application to his action, knowing him to have been a soldier and to have pledged his life to his country, for I know that he was not apprehensive of the recall.

"It may be said, gentlemen, that the severing of his relations to the bar of John Ellsworth would be a painful matter if we did not know that after he has retired he will still be held firm opinions and bravely discharged
his duties and was never afraid.

"But whether he will be with us or not we will always remember that he held firm opinions and bravely discharged
his duties and was never afraid.

"But whether he will be with us or not we will always remember that he held firm opinions and bravely discharged
his duties and was never afraid.

"However, this is not funereal. Well all will come three weeks hence old dear honest Judge Ellsworth from town if we're to all a loss in the way of a gentleman who has a better capacity to minimize that loss than William H. Donahue. Stand shoulder to shoulder to Judge Donahue and the other judges of the superior bench in behalf of the young men who are new members of the association, we want you to feel that your assistance is necessary in all its affairs and that you are expected to participate in all its activities.

New blood must take the place of old and we must have to rely upon you to fill our place in the future."

Ben F. Woolner entertained with a satirical paper dealing with alleged political factions and giving the "inside" on how superior judges wear monarchs.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON IN CASE

Wm. McKay Accused of Arranging Gunboat Party
by Manicure's Mother.

VALLEJO, Dec. 7.—Two sons of one of the wealthiest families of Solano country were mentioned yesterday in the probing of the clandestine wine party held late Thursday night in the wardroom of the United States gunboat Vicksburg, at the conclusion of which one of the two women guests mysteriously sustained a fractured skull.

The young men who, it is claimed, can throw light on the accident which brought the surreptitious gayeties of the naval officers to the attention of the authorities, are William McKay, son of Alec McKay, Brentwood millionaire, and Thomas Mc-Kee, his cousin.

"The McKay boys can tell all about this affair, which has been grossly misrepresented," said Mrs. F. F. Gibbons, the mother of Jessie Gibbons, one of the two young women of Vallejo, who were entertained by the gunboat officers.

"Why haven't they come forward and admitted their part in it? I haven't seen their names mentioned in any account."

As to his successor I can say that it was William H. Donahue, who is to be of assistance to the young attorney.

"No man has ever spoken a word against Judge Ellsworth," said Judge Hall of the appellate bench. "For my part I have known him all these years. In my duties I often come across his decisions. Judge Ellsworth once remarked in regard to an appeal that it came from Judge Ellsworth he would be pretty slow to hand down a reversal.
We have always been on the right side."

W. H. J. Ilynes, successor to District Attorney Donahue, said that Judge Ellsworth had never failed to be of assistance to the young attorney.

GIRLS ACTED IN GOOD FAITH.

"These two girls acted in perfect good faith," Mrs. Gibbons said. "William Mc-Kee, who has been keeping company with my daughter, telephoned to our house Thursday evening and said that he had fetch them in his automobile."

Mrs. Gibbons, who is the mother of William H. Donahue, was present when the accident occurred. In the event of a court martial for the officers implicated they will probably be called upon to testify.

Beautiful Bridge With Mission Arcade To Span Eighth-Street Entrance to Lake

A beautiful bridge on Eighth street over the channel which runs into Lake Merritt and the removal of the lake flood gates from Twelfth street to Eighth street are included in plans for the beautification of the lake district. These plans are in the hands of Commissioner of Streets W. J. Baucus and have been informally approved by other members of the council, the Oakland park commission and by a number of interested citizens who have viewed the preliminary drawings.

With the removal of the gates from Twelfth street to Eighth street, a channel four blocks long and ending in a lagoon at Eighth street will be added to the area of Lake Merritt. The channel will be an enormous concrete waterway paralleling the lake.

Plans for the Eighth street bridge include an arcade in the Mission style of architecture, covering a six-foot walk.

At each end of the arcade will be hand-some stone columns which will be under a separate roof from the main arcade which connects them. Eighteen columns will support the arcade roof. A short balustrade between the columns will be a guard. From the tenaces at the ends flights of stairs will lead to the edge of the water, the park and boulevard. Recesses in the arcade will form seats and the entrances will also have seats on one side with drinking fountains open to the public.

Outside the roofed arcade will be sidewalk, 14 feet in width across the entire bridge and leading to the edge of the curbs. The street will be 52 feet wide and another sidewalk of 14 feet will be at the south site. Nine single electrols will provide light on the south side while along the arcade will be other lights of a design in keeping with the architecture.

Eight sluices will pass the water when the tides are on the ebb or flow and the mechanism that is to control the gates will be hidden as much as possible in order that the beauty of the bridge may not be impaired.

The sluices will barely reach the tops of the sluices. Screens will be placed out of sight in the sluice boxes to prevent rubbish from entering the lagoon.

FIRE TUG NEEDED IN LOCAL HARBOR

Burning of Vessels Causes the Shipping Men to Start Agitation.

A need for a fire tug to guard shipping interests on this side of the bay was emphasized several days ago when a fire broke out on board the steam schooner Daisy. But for the fact that the Southern Pacific company's fire tug Ajax happened to be on this side the Daisy would undoubtedly have been totally destroyed. With the Ajax in some other part of the bay, Oakland harbor is left without any material means of fire protection for shipping in the harbor. At present there are in the inner harbor vessels valued at close to the billion dollar mark. And yet the federal or state governments have taken no action to protect them. There are several firetugs on the San Francisco side but should a fire break out in a vessel on this side the vessel would be destroyed before assistance could be received from the San Francisco shore, a distance of over five miles to the inner harbor.

FIRE TUG IS SOUGHT.

Much comment has been made by local shipping men over the present dangerous condition and all are strong in their belief that the state or government should take some steps to protect the Oakland waterfront. In the several instances that have occurred on vessels in the inner harbor, shipping men have seen the vessel in question destroyed beyond possible repair.

The river steamer Trilly is a good example of the poor lighting facilities for the protection of shipping on this side.

With a fire tug on this side at the time of the burning of this craft, it could have possibly been saved and repaired enough to be put into commission again.

However, the vessel burned to the water's edge and sank. The craft was a total loss and even the machinery could not be used.

UNFAVORABLE COMMENT.

At that time the state and federal governments came in for a large amount of unfavorable comment from local waterfront men. Considerable agitation followed to petition the government for protection but was quieted down.

The burning of the river steamer Daisy several days ago, however, has opened up the question. Especially has the big salmon shipping interests interested in the affair and are beginning to take steps to have the present state of affairs brought to the notice of the law makers.

FASHION SHOW OF FASHION IS FEATURED

Lecture on "Dress and Adornment" Will Also Be Heard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The much-discussed "fashion show of the past" and the accompanying lecture on "Dress and Adornment" will be featured for the last time next Sunday at the University of the affiliated Colleges. It is planned to give the first lecture at 3 o'clock and the second at 4 o'clock. Car line number 6 runs direct to the museum via Market and Hayes streets.

On Monday the removal of the "Dress and Adornment" exhibit will commence, for it is to give place to a new revolving exhibit, which is to be opened to the public in about three weeks. Since the museum opened its doors it has changed its revolving exhibit every two months and the exhibit now drawing to a close is the sixth.

This week's novelty offering at the museum is a collection of baskets, clothing and other implements from the fast-vanishing tribe of Pugot Sound, a type of Indian distinct from those of California as well as Alaska. Owing to lack of space this collection has never before been displayed. As part of the "Fifteen-two Exhibit" a "Year" series of the museum's 20 will remain on view only from Sunday until Saturday.

HAVILAND VIEWS SITE FOR HARBOR

County Surveyor Thinks Berkeley Waterfront Plan Is Good.

That the scheme for constructing an inner harbor along the bay short in Berkeley has merit and should be carefully considered is the opinion of County Surveyor P. A. Haviland, who, in company with members of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce and interested persons, viewed the proposed site Friday afternoon.

"It would be difficult to give any definite opinion in the matter at this time," said Haviland today. "My experience has been that one cannot proceed too carefully in propositions of such a great magnitude. There are so many details to be figured and so many factors that enter into the carrying out of such an undertaking that further investigation will be necessary before arriving at a conclusion."

WOULD ATTRACT TRADE.

If the channel is dredged and properly protected by a training wall and kept open reaching from the inner basin to deep water it undoubtedly would invite many vessels engaged in the coastal trade.

"As to the cost of such an undertaking it would be impossible for me to give any figures without carefully making soundings and borings in the vicinity of the proposed channel. In the past difficulties have been encountered which have overturned estimates originally made.

In the case of the Richmond project considerable time was consumed in making borings and soundings so that figures could be obtained on which to base the probable cost.

"I have not been there interested to take up the matter with the city engineer of Berkeley and to proceed in that way. From the perspective that I obtained yesterday I feel that the people of Berkeley are on the right path in seeking to develop the waterfront and see no reason why such a project as is contemplated should not be carried out to successful finish."

According to the plans of Charles Green, who is promoting the scheme, the construction of an inner harbor would cost in the neighborhood of $700,000. The proposed site is near the foot of Gilman street. The tentative plans call for the construction of retaining walls extending from the bay shore to deep water and the creation of an area some distance within the shore line which would be surrounded by factory sites.

County Surveyor Haviland visited the site upon the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce. The party met at the Elks club and toured the district in automobiles. The Berkeley organizations behind the harbor scheme are enthusiastic over the outlook and confident that the people will support any measure tending toward waterfront development.

DEATH NEARLY COMES WHEN SHE TAKES NAP

Mrs. Etta McCord, a widow living at 1139 Kirkham street, took a nap at her home yesterday afternoon and left a small gas stove burning. The flame went out and Mrs. McCord was nearly asphyxiated when found by officers of the household. She was taken to the receiving hospital, where it was thought she would recover. Mrs. McCord is 68 years of age.

PREFERRED ROSES OF ENCINAL CITY

Wife Alleged to Have Deserted Husband to Go to Alameda.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—"If you like the smell of powder better than your wife's companionship," said Mrs. Etta McCord to her husband, Andrew Little, an employee of a powder mill at Pinole, according to testimony today. "And where do the roses grow?" inquired the court. "Where did your wife go?" "Alameda" was the reply.

Little continued by saying that he had taken his wife to live at Pinole years ago when they had first been married, but that she never liked the place and had been told by friends that some day there would be an explosion which would blow her into eternity. The court gave him an interlocutory decree.

The court gave him an interlocutory decree.

In the act which he will present to the Macdonough Theater for four matinees and nights will present Willie Ritchie, the lightweight champion of the world. He will appear in his act "A Day in the Gymnasium," in which he will execute the fine points of the art of self-defense. Ritchie's act will be given tomorrow matinee and night in connection with "The Broken Law," produced by Constance Crawley and her English company. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday matinees and night Ritchie's act will be in connection with the Beverly B. Dobbs' original Arctic-Alaska-Siberia film, "Atop of the World in Motion."

Ritchie recently won the world's lightweight championship from Ad Wells, one of the most brilliant boxing contests ever seen in San Francisco. He was a short-order in the betting, but succeeded in wearing down the champion and taking away the crown.

In the act which he will present to the Macdonough Ritchie will give a clever and interesting exhibition of the manly art. He appeared for a week in San Francisco and was the magnet which attracted thousands of persons.

STOCK PRICES LIKE PENDULUM

Alternate Strong and a Weak Tendency Shown at Session.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Stocks were alternately strong and weak in today's short session. After recording gains running from a fraction of a point in Reading early in the day the Standard issues eased off in the late dealings, closing with trifling changes. Illustrations represent the operations of professionals who dominate the market.

Specialists suffered losses of from one to nearly four points. Texas Company stock lost 3 5-8 points. International Steel Pump 2, Federal Mining and Smelting preferred advanced 1 1/2 points. American Beet Sugar common 2 1/4 points.

Lackawanna, however, scored a rise of 4 5-8 points.

Copper shares displayed a firm under-tone. Smelters closing with a fractional gain and Amalgamated with a decline of only 3/8. There was considerable steel offered after the advanced 1 1/2 points in the session with the result that it lost all the gain.

An announcement that the actual bank statement showed an increase in surplus within the year of more than $6,000,000 had a beneficial influence on sentiment at the close.

GUN AND KNIFE USED IN AFFRAY

Fatal Shooting and Serious Stabbing Occurs in the Italian Quarter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The mad infatuation of one man for the wife of another is alleged to have been responsible for a fatal shooting and a serious stabbing affray in the Italian quarter in the presence of hundreds of pedestrians shortly before 10 o'clock last night. The injured are:

Mario Clowe, a bed manufacturer, gunshot wound on right side, penetrating lung; gunshot wound through left wrist; gunshot wound through left arm; little chance of recovery.

Willie Delfrate, a can maker, employed by Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, living at 6 Portola street; severe stab wound of the left ear, deep cut in the back.

The police are looking for Adamo Glusti, a Broadway saloon keeper who is believed to have fired the fatal shot, but who has not been absolutely connected with the affair.

According to the story told by Delfrate, Clowe, a native of Italy, had been staying at a Montgomery street hotel. He declares that Clowe was too friendly with Mrs. Susie Klusti, Delfrate's sister and for that reason was ejected by her husband.

Recently, it is said, he created a disturbance at the house and was arrested.

Tonight, according to Delfrate, Clowe accosted him on Broadway and applied several epithets to him. He endeavored to avoid Clowe, but the other made a lunge at him, stabbing him twice with a knife which he clutched in his hand.

Willie Delfrate, a can maker, employed by Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, living at 6 Portola street; severe stab wound of the left ear, deep cut in the back.

He left home to find a police officer, and finally returned to Broadway again and shouted to his brother-in-law, Glusti, what had just come out of his saloon.

Immediately four shots rang out and Clowe fell to the sidewalk with three bullet wounds in his body, while Delfrate was also overcome from loss of blood.

Clowe's assailant escaped and Detectives Marion and McGraw are searching for him.

"I am not sure that Klusti fired the shot," said Delfrate. "I called to him for help and he came out and I heard the shots and I suppose he must have shot Clowe."

CHAMPION CAT CONTESTS CLOSE WITHOUT CATECLYSM

Near-Catastrophe of Start, Caused by Caustic Catapults, Ends Calmly

With a final plaintive M-E-O-W from the royal blooded mousers that would run or hide rather than shed the blood of one of the tiny house pests of which cats are vulgarly supposed to be the hereditary enemies, the second annual show of the California Cat Club was brought to a close last night at 11 o'clock when the show first opened it appeared that a cat was about to be catapulted and that it was full of various cat-nip. "She" was put through the cat-achism by the fair but disinterested cat-ologists. "She" let it be said for the benefit of those who have never set foot beyond the portals of a cat show, is the unfortunate "Ump" in this particular instance. Mrs. C. E. S. de Blin of Los Angeles and a cat expert of national reputation.

"LET THE BEST CAT WIN." "She," however, withstood the cat-achism, barking against the cages whenever the argument became intense and ready to avert cat-acts or any other interesting development that might present itself and have a tendency to mislead vision and divert her attention and best efforts to carry out the spirit of the motto, that occupied a prominent place at the head of the wall, "Let the best cat win."

Fortunately all cat-achisms were avoided and the cages were decorated in silks and satins and medals and cups won in former shows set forth the genuine worth of the furred occupants. What was the row about? A hard question, but perhaps some one's cat did not take first prize and that someone found a sympathetic in someone else's cat did not take first prize. One old says that the rulings are founded on points alone and that the prizes are not awarded by competitive worth and the other side retorts that the rules of that eminent institution, the American Cat Association, are not being followed.

WOULD BE PLEBEIAN.

By way of additional information for the benefit of the uninitiated it might be stated that the question "Is it a good mouser?" is the expression of the rankest form of ignorance. These cats trace their genealogical ancestral tree back to British royalty and to make a start after a mouse would be considered a plebeian action and not worthy of anything but condemnation. Kitten Escholtzia Warick, lovingly known as Bush, and owned by Mrs. B. Dyer, is the daughter of Lady Warick and Trophy, both champion rats. Lady Warick is direct descendant of a cat in the kennels of Lady Warick, who made Merrie England famous for its pure blooded felines. Since the days of Dick Whittington's cat it has been the aim of fanciers who commenced by making a pet of that famous poor man's friend to eliminate every trace of the mousing propensity from the cats. It might be added here that Dick Whittington's cat had a hand in the early family history of the present long-haired Persians, as was the case with the story that the Lord Mayor's shop sallet. It will be readily understood from this explanation that the reason of the fancy cat's aversion for mice is no fault of its own. The judge laughed as "she" said, "Why, no; most of them would not know the difference between a mouse and a butterfly."

WINNERS DECLARED.

At the close of the show all were agreed that some of the best cats in the country had been shown and taken all together, it would have to be declared a success.

Mrs. Joe E. Roberts, secretary and manager of the show, was thanked for her great efforts to bring the exhibition to a happy conclusion. Several of the cats were sold. Silver Princess of Avenel, owned by Mrs. F. D. Clark of Medford, Ore., went to Mrs. D. Oliphant for a handsome sum. "The Guardian of the Police," entered by Mrs. C. F. Batten, matron of the police station, received first prize. The other mice were highly rated when the news of the news. "Toddy" was given to Mrs. F. L. Simmonds, made friends as a trick cat. Fred Button's Mialys were prominent.

In the male silver championship, or open class, Rob Roy of Claremont, owned by Mrs. H. F. Eckert, and Honey Boy, owned by Mrs. F. H. Betz, were equal firsts. Silver Prince of Avenel, owned by Mrs. F. D. Clark, took third. Honey Boy also took first in the novice class, in the orange championship male class, Oakland Orange Prince, owned by Mrs. E. Davis, and Dandilion, owned by Mrs. Frank Baker, were equal second. Oak Buff Dandilion, owned by Mrs. William T. T. Kelly by E. M. Davis, Happy by Mrs. Dell Scheler and Mrs. Baker's trophy were equal third ribbon winners.

SLAYER OF FRIEND DIES FROM A BROKEN HEART

Death Ends Mourning of W. S. Cocks, Who Mistook Neighbor for Burglar

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Walter S. Cocks, who shot and killed his old friend and next-door neighbor, He wandered about the house talking to himself about it. He spells when he could not think at all, but as soon as his brain became clear he would wander off into the old story.

Hyland, who had come home late, thought the entrance to the Cocks home was his own entrance, which was at 1827 Church street, next door, and similar in appearance. He broke the glass to get at the latch and it was then that Cocks shot with a rifle.

Cocks was arrested and exonerated after his friend just before he died. Cocks' aged mother is in a critical condition as the result of the shooting and the death of her son. It is feared that she may not live long.

Cocks was 53 years of age and a native of Benicia. He was a son of the late Barzilla Cocks. The funeral will be held Monday in Benicia.

Death May Seal Mysterious Tragedy in Kentucky Hotel

CATTELSBURG, Ky., Dec. 7.—With the death late last night of James York, the man involved in the hotel tragedy here, the opinion prevailed to day that the mystery that has surrounded the case may never be solved. That Minnie Turner, the woman found dead in the hotel Ida Gullett and York were poisoned, there appears to be no doubt, but how or when is not known. The testimony in the coroner's inquest yesterday that a bottle found in the room was not there when the room was assigned to the three guests, but was found in the room of one of them, appears to indicate that the poison substance that caused the death of Miss Turner was placed in the room of the other two.

Since his employment there, the police said tonight that Rounds made a complete confession of the theft. He declared he was lured into trouble by his mother, who awoke him and told him that a burglar was trying to break into the house until he discovered that the man he shot was "Jim."

Both Rounds and his mother are dead.

They returned to the King Edward about 2:30 o'clock. On entering the room Mrs. Cawker at once surmised that Rounds had been seized with one of his fits of jealousy. She immediately began to tell her how much he loved her and that his "without her" meant nothing to him. Almost simultaneously he began to finger a revolver which he carried in his pocket, threatening both women. Mrs. Cawker was held through the night and was greatly terrified and with difficulty hurried her mother from the room. They had to break through the door when they heard the shot which killed him.

Last Tuesday morning it is said that Rounds threatened to kill Mrs. Cawker and that only the prompt interference of other occupants of the apartment prevented his doing so.

Both Rounds and the woman are dead and it is said were only waiting for the necessary legal time to elapse before being wedded to each other.

"Harry was terribly jealous of me. I couldn't take a step without arousing his suspicions," explained Mrs. Cawker following the trial, which completely unmasked her.

TEST OF LOYALTY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Rev. Father Towney, the noted Paulist, will deliver the second in his series of Advent sermons tomorrow morning at the 10:45 o'clock mass at St. Mary's church, California street and Grant avenue. His subject will be "The Test of Loyalty." Beginning tomorrow evening Father Towney will give a retreat in preparation for Christmas. Services will be held every night during the next four days.

Admission was ordered unusually early this afternoon, as several members were unable to leave the city over Sunday.

"Raymond's father was ill and deathly and I kept him away from me. She was ill and I kept her away from me. I was all over the city to find him. Finally a settlement was made and I signed some papers but that has nothing to do with the marriage, which my lawyers tell me is valid," said Raymond.

The agreement which Mrs. Belmont mentions is believed to have been a pre-nuptial agreement which Raymond signed before his marriage to Raymond's son up and August Belmont's friends say it forms the basis of the couple's separation.

FRESNO TO HOLD DIVORCE CAUSE OF CHURCH CLASH

Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association Will Manage Affair.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Work started this morning in the old Armory Hall at J and 20th streets on the task of erecting a platform for Fresno's thirteenth poultry show, which opens next Wednesday morning and continues for four days under the auspices of the Fresno Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association. The courts are being furnished by the Spratt's Limited Company of Liverpool, England, and representatives of that company were here today to set up the pens. The old Armory-Hall is to be decorated especially for the poultry show and will be attractive to visitors. An admission fee of 5 and 10 cents will be charged to keep out idlers, rather than for any desire of profit.

The number of entries is the largest in the history of the association and includes 250 pigeons of the best breeds on the Pacific coast. Following are the selections for judges:

Dr. Cobbedick, Oakland, will judge American classes, except Rhode Island Reds.

R. J. Venn, Fresno, will judge Mediterranean, English and miscellaneous classes.

J. H. Crow, Oakland, will judge Rhode Island Reds and pigeons.

The judging will begin at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning and continue all day. The show is to be opened to the public Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and the doors will be open for four days from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. It is hoped to have most of the judging completed by the time the public is admitted for the first time Tuesday morning.

One of the features of the show will be a crowing contest for cash sweepstakes. Each rooster entered in a rooster will be required to put up $1 for entrance fees. The rooster will then be covered with a blanket separately and kept in that condition for several minutes to imitate darkness. At a signal all blankets are to be removed and all the roosters, believing daylight has arrived, are expected to begin crowing the loudest and longest, or, in other words, the bird with the best pair of lungs will receive the prize.

STRUCTURAL WORKER IS INJURED IN LONG FALL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—John Carey, a structural ironworker employed by the Union Iron Works, was probably fatally injured late this afternoon when he plunged 40 feet into the hold of the steamer Sonoma, lying at Pier 21. Carey, who lives at 590 Valencia street, had been at work on the vessel and was walking along the open deck when he fell into an open hatchway. His body struck several projections. In falling and he landed on his head. At the Harbor hospital it was found that he had received a fractured skull, a lacerated scalp and internal injuries. He was hurried to the Central Emergency hospital, where an operation was performed in an effort to save his life.

LURED INTO AUTO BY WOMEN THIEVES SAN JOAQUIN GAME LAWS MAY CHANGE

Painter Taken to Secluded District and Is Robbed of His Belongings.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Enticed into an automobile by two women whom he chanced to meet while on a slumming excursion on the Barbary Coast at an early hour this morning, Henry Doerner was lured to an out-of-the-way section of the city, beaten into insensibility, robbed of his money and jewelry and then thrown into some bushes at the side of a roadway. For nearly twelve hours the man lay in a semi-conscious condition in a sort of ditch near Trocadero. When he was picked up he was taken to the Ingleside station. When his true condition was realized he was hurried to the Central Emergency Hospital for treatment for concussion of the brain and other injuries.

Birds Which Kill Fish Likely to Face Bullets' Longer Season.

MODESTO, Dec. 7.—Numerous changes in the state game laws in force in San Joaquin county were suggested at a meeting of the San Joaquin county branch of the California Game Protective Association, attended by a large number of hunters and fishermen from all parts of the county. Bounties may be placed on certain birds that are destroying fish, the hours for shooting may be changed, and in several cases the length of open and time of open season may be altered.

DELEGATES SELECTED.

Delegates were elected to a convention of huntmen from all parts of the state and game district, which convenes on Dec. 12. They are Jack

Macero, a Bouldin Island market hunter;

George Merritt, Deputy Fish and game

Robert Kelton and Robert Allison.

It was proposed that the hours during which it is lawful to shoot, from sunrise to sunset, be changed to from 6 a.m.

to 6 p.m. It was argued that at present it is sometimes hard to tell the exact time of sunset, while most men carry watches while hunting.

TO SHOW POWER OF MONEY TRUST IN U.S.

Pujo Investigation Committee Will Resume Hearings Tomorrow.

INTERESTS DOMINATE, IS PROBERS' CLAIM

Witnesses to Testify They Have Been Driven Out of Business by Clique.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Beginning where it left off early last summer, the Pujo money trust investigating committee will resume its hearings here on Monday, December 9.

While the committee picks up the thread where it was dropped last June, it is not quite the same thread. In other words, the data on which the committee will base its investigations is an entirely new set of facts which have been assembled by a new set of experts who were put on the scene after it was discovered that the $10,000 worth of material gathered by the first set of experts during the summer was much too fragmentary, generalities that it was not of much if any practical value.

This does not mean that the Pujo committee has discarded the information as to the operations of high finance, which it acquired in its former hearings at Washington and New York, but it is merely proceeding along different lines.

LIMITS TO AUTHORITY.

At the former hearings the committee was greatly hampered by the limitations affixed to its authority in the matter of forcing bankers to divulge to the committee the secret financial affairs of their respective institutions.

At the time the committee was sitting in New York, Chairman Pujo announced that unless Congress gave the committee the authority to secure this information, by adopting the joint resolution then pending before the Senate, further investigation of the so-called money trust would be futile. And it was because the committee had gone as far as it could with its limited power that the investigation was closed for the time being.

Although Congress adopted the resolution granting further powers to the committee, it is still a disputed question whether or not a banker can be forced to reveal the innermost secrets of his bank. The contention of the latter class is that the relation of a depositor with his banker is as sacred as the relation existing between a man and his doctor or his lawyer.

Samuel Untermyer, the chief counsel for the committee, has gone carefully over all data gathered by the new set of experts and expresses himself as being free of doubt as to the ability of the committee to not only uncover all the facts and conditions which have consummated in the alleged concentration of the wealth of the country into the hands of a few individuals, but will be able to recommend to Congress legislation which will make for a more equal distribution of this wealth and block all future tendencies of vast concentration.

INTERESTS DOMINATE.

The committee expects to develop in its present investigation the fact that the Morgan-Rockefeller interests alone control about 35 per cent of the nation's wealth.

This control is alleged to have been achieved by virtue of these interests dominating not only 300 financial institutions, but many other organizations in this country, stretching from Maine to California. This means that the Morgan-Rockefeller interests hold in their hands practically the financial life or death of the nation.

That the monetary health of the nation should not be in the custody of one or two private hands is the hypothesis on which the committee opened its investigation today.

During this investigation Mr. Untermyer has promised to prove that it is a comparatively easy matter for these alleged overlords of the financial domain to concentrate, in a shorter time than is required to mobilize an army, the wealth of the nation in New York City to be parceled out to favorite institutions of individuals, the rates stipulated by the contractors, while merchants and other business men in the interior of the country go begging in vain for money with which to carry on their legitimate enterprises.

NECESSARY TO BELONG.

The committee promises to go further and show that it is absolutely impossible for anyone who does not "belong" to finance any enterprise without the sanction of these interests.

The committee expects to place on the stand men who will testify that they have been driven out of business because they were unable to get money at reasonable loans at fair prices.

The committee promises to show that this is not only true of individuals, but of great financial institutions throughout the country. The attempt will be made to establish the fact that so overwhelmingly does the Morgan-Rockefeller interests dominate as to dictate the finance of this country that there are few if any financial institutions in America who are willing, if indeed able, to resist the demands of these interests.

Mr. Untermyer and his associates will undertake to prove that with the Morgan-Rockefeller chafe of banks as a basis, there is a well established understanding between the great individuals, such as the United States Steel Corporation and the International Harvester Corporation, on one side, the great railroad systems on another, and the great public utility plants on another, which enables these factors to manipulate banking conditions to their own advantage and to the undoing of all "outsiders."

MAY BUILD NEW HINTING OFFICE

APARTMENT. Dec. 7.—Assembly member J. M. Inman of Sacramento county will introduce in the legislature of 1913 a bill providing for the removal of the state printing office from the capital grounds and the appropriation of $100,000 for the erection of a new printing office building near the capitol out in the state parks.

The bill will provide for a two-story concrete structure to be built on the proposed capital extension site—the blocks next to Capitol park, not in the immediate vicinity of the capitol, but in the state park.

Prominent Woman
KLEPTOMANIAC
BARRED AS HOTEL GUEST

AN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—This very latest story about a female and her affliction, kleptomania, can be vouched for in all of its details:

She and her husband wanted to become permanent guests for the winter in one of the big hotels about ten days ago, the same as they had done a year previous.

They were told by the management it was very sorry to have to refuse them, but had to do so because the hotel was booked for the winter season with its full quota of permanents. The couple have a fat bank account and are fairly well-known in very good, if not fashionable society. Their home on—well never mind the street—is a splendid one. Last Wednesday, the husband had some angry words with the hotel manager. He knew of five people, he said, who had entered the place as permanent guests after he had applied. Two of them at his personal request had informed him they had applied the day before for the first time and were readily given winter quarters. He demanded to know why he had been lied to and discriminated against. Suavity of manner and diplomatic words fell on barren ground with this man. He consulted his attorney. The latter, friendly to the hotel, and seeking a peaceful adjustment, conferred with the management it seems and was informed, so it is said, that the hotel had a good reason for excluding his wife. The husband was far from being objectionable. On his lawyer's advice, the man has dropped the matter. As the story is whispered, last winter, while the couple had a suite of rooms in the caravansary, face and bath towels, pieces of bedding and even small rugs on the floor repeatedly disappeared from the rooms. The help was unjustly suspected. Last spring, a day or two before the couple paid up, and while wife and husband were known to be in San Mateo, an outside detective agency opened two of the wife's trunks and found them filled with the missing goods. The detectives further found that the woman was considered a kleptomaniac by one or two of the big stores and that her husband had once settled with one of them to prevent the arrest of his wife on a charge of theft. The goods secreted in her trunks by the woman did not aggregate much in value. But to avoid a repetition of such strange acts and to make sure of no scandal to the hotel from that source, the management made up its mind never to let the woman in again as a guest, permanent or transient.

It is a strange case of an absolute lack of the moral sense in the matter of property rights.

Wet Blanket Introduction

That was a wet dash of an introduction Dr. Millie Cosgrave, the bright and low-voiced sister of John O'Hara of eastern magazine fame, gave Thos. E. Hayden, lawyer and man of affairs, to an audience of ladies at the Forum Club a few nights ago. He and Earl A. Walcott, author, publicist and chairman of the Civil Service Commission, were booked to speak about the proposed amendments to the city charter. The latter had talked at length and exceedingly well. When Hayden's turn came, the petite doctress presented him with the remarks:

"Mr. Walcott having so ably instructed us, Mr. Thomas E. Hayden will now address the club about the less important changes involved in the minor amendments Mr. Walcott did not touch upon."

Hayden, gallant and not a bit disconcerted, joined in the laugh which followed, while the chairman blushed furiously and frankly admitted she had said something that "just sounded terrible."

A good, clear thinker on his feet, Hayden gave attention to the amendments by which this and that city official seeks an increased salary, including the auditor, tax collector, city attorney and chief of police. The latter wants an increase of $6000 from $4000.

"You, ladies," he concluded, "have the franchise now. You are sovereigns in your own right. I have explained the increased taxes involved in some of these salary amendments, but am not going to advise you how to vote. You must do your own thinking and pursue an intelligent, fair course. I suppose you all have been now and then in the auditor, tax collector and city attorney's offices and have got some idea of the work they do. Probably, also, some of you have been in the chief of police's office, but on that matter I am not, of course, making any positive statements, or seeking to be curious."

Falls Heir to Snug Fortune

I have not seen any mention of the fact that David Urquhart, superintendent of dining-car service for all the Southern Pacific properties, the biggest job of its kind in the country, recently came into a fortune of about a quarter of a million dollars by the death of an aunt in New Orleans and is now on a tour of Europe. Perhaps this explains recent whispers that Allan Pollok of this city, or G. M. Estabrook of Oakland, Urquhart's assistant, may soon succeed to his place. Urquhart can retain his position if he so desires, and probably will do so for a time at least. Meanwhile, Pollok is specially employed by President William Sproule of the road to suggest changes and improvements in the service. Urquhart, a native of New Orleans, was graduated in the same class at Harvard with Roosevelt, and the two men are very close friends. Whenever Roosevelt is out here the two always have a long, private chat, and likewise whenever Urquhart is in the East. It is always a case of "Theo" or "Dane." The latter is looked upon as a good executive and it is understood when Roosevelt was in the White House he was made one or two flattering offers of positions, which he saw fit to decline. In his department Urquhart has many negroes, and his effective and fair way of dealing with them on hundreds of passenger trains in the sweep of country from New Orleans and El Paso to this city, Ogden and Seattle is considered a very big asset for his employer.

Seattle Chamber of Commerce Peeved

Congressman William E. Humphrey of Seattle, chairman of the committee on rivers and harbors, "happened" in town the day of the Wolgast-Ritchie fight, like dozens of prominent Californians from interior cities and towns. Considering their arrival and the fight a pleasant, if strange, coincidence, many of the latter were finally prevailed upon by San Francisco friends to go out and see the contest. The Seattle solon was also invited, but whether he really could and did spare the time to go, I do not know. Humphrey was reelected by his Seattle district at the last election in spite of the opposition of some of the leading merchants, members of the Chamber of Commerce. Their complaint against him was that on one occasion he came to San Francisco to confer with members of the Chamber of Commerce about coast affairs mutually advantageous to Seattle and this city and permitted the local chamber to pay his expenses for the trip. President Lohman of the Seattle chamber, when he heard of it wrote a letter of protest and insisted that his organization must reimburse the local body. This latter declined to have done on the ground that its dealings with Humphrey constituted a fair and reasonable courtesy. Lohman and his following criticized the congressman severely for his action, and are said to have never been appeased. The merits of the little controversy are not known to me, but the facts about the correspondence and protest are.

The Passing of Senator Jones

Another rugged, strong character in the political and mining history of California and Nevada has passed away in the death of former Senator John P. Jones of Nevada. His advocacy of bimetallism, both in and out of Congress, and his clear reasoning of the relationship between the prices of commodities and the quantity of metallic money gave him years ago an international as well as national fame. He and Senator William M. Stewart, who were in Congress for years at the same time, ably represented their state. No Pacific Coast state has ever had in the Senate a stronger team than they constituted. At the time he was a nominee for lieutenant-governor in this state there was a very sensational campaign. He and his party were defeated. One who took part in that political struggle informs me it was made up in great measure of much abuse and vilification. Charges were openly made against one candidate for the governorship that there was in his entourage a Madame Pompadour. In the days when stagecoach drivers were plenty out here, Jones, from the time he was a California sheriff until those romantic characters passed away, knew most of them by name. In the after years of his prominence and wealth they never appealed to him in vain. His stories about and experiences with them are represented as being legion. In the Union Club here now the Pacific Union made the development of the now-famous Treadwell mining property in Alaska waters a success.

The Baron Is Still Wealthy

Many will regret the decision of Baron J. H. von Schroeder to shortly depart for his German estates to live permanently.

A handsome, courtly, cultured man of the world is the baron, with a California lady as his wife and an interesting family of grown-up children. One of the latter, a son, gives fine promise for a banking career in London, where he was taught the business by his wealthy granduncle, the late Baron Henry von Schroeder. The latter left an estate of $11,000,000, a fourth of which about two years ago fell to the baron here in part. The death of the latter's father in Germany, Baron Charles, also gave him a goodly estate, so while he has not prospered in California during the past twenty-five years as he would have liked, he is still a man of considerable wealth. The death of his father and his uncle in London left him the recognized head of the house in Germany. Those who ought to know say he has the necessary exchequer to maintain the place with dignity and in much ease, in spite of the fact that he has lost much in business ventures in this state and in Alaska during the past fifteen or twenty years. The sale two years ago to I. W. Hellman for $350,000 of his big ranch in San Luis Obispo county aided him much in straightening out some of his court business entanglements. His great trial for libel in the superior court at San Rafael against John D. Spreckels and the Call some years before the fire caused him and his much mental anguish. While the case first went against him, I think he finally did get judgment for one cent and costs, a legal vindication, and in the eyes of some people worth while a complete one. Then, and more so at this day, it would appear as if some people sought to make him a scapegoat for some affair off color at the then socially flourishing Hotel Rafael. A man of unquestioned courage, he would have challenged two men to a duel at that time had the laws of the country permitted the code of honor.

Made Money on the Election

Half a dozen men of wealth in town, I understand, are said to have won in the aggregate over half a million dollars on the presidential election, not by betting directly on any of the candidates, however. As the story has just leaked out in financial circles, these men, each acting for himself, were confident that Woodrow Wilson would win out and also that the stock market, both railroad shares and the individual stocks, would respond favorably. So they bought blocks of stock, some ten or fourteen different kinds, for a rise. It came as they had staked their money it would, and so profited greatly. A banker, a man in the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., one in Spring Valley and a wholesale merchant are said to have been among these fortunate stock speculators. The merchant is credited with having made on his investment in several chance railroads and industrials $110,000. Charles Sweeny, the new citizen here from Seattle, who has been buying heavily in real estate, was another of the half dozen. While refusing right along to make any election bets, he is credited with having cleaned up about $40,000 in the stock market. A week before the election he bought several different kinds of shares for a jump in prices on the announcement of Wilson's victory. By the way, I see that having refused to pay Antoine Borel, the banker, $150,000 cash for his fine residence, Sweeny has leased for one year at a handsome rental the furnished mansion of Mrs. C. H. Huffman at Broadway and Buchanan, just opposite the Eleanor Martin residence.

Flynn and Bourne Held Conference

Boss Bill Flynn of Pittsburgh, who led the Bull Moose party to victory in Pennsylvania, and United States Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon did have a conference at the St. Francis Hotel after all, at the solicitation of the latter gentleman. Both got out of town without anybody knowing what it was about and what it may lead to.

If Bourne bobs up at the forthcoming national conference of the Progressive Republicans at Chicago then it would seem certain that the local confab had something to do with the rumored desire of Bourne to have Flynn smooth out his differences with Medill McCormick, the leading Chicago Bull Mooser, and Roosevelt, both of whom will be very much in evidence at the Lake City powwow. Flynn will be one of the high priests at the gathering. Bourne was defeated for reelection. Snelling, Republican, beat him at the primaries. Bourne then got on the ticket at the regular election by petition. Making a triangular contest of it, his course gave Dr. Harry Lane, Democrat, an easy victory. As Roosevelt favored such tactics in the East and elsewhere, probably Flynn can get him into the holy of holies again. Bourne has a barrel and is a good spender, also. Flynn likes such men at his command, and, no doubt, Perkins, in view of the way his barrel was tapped the past six months, will not frown on the admission of the Oregon man to the Bull Moose headquarters. Flynn, a well-groomed substantial-looking figure, persuasive and compelling even in his quiet demeanor, is as happy as a boy with a Christmas toy over his victory in his state against Senator Bois Penrose and the regular Republican machine. He remarked to a friend in town:

"Collaring the best offices back home has been the habit; yes, the fashion, one as strong and unyielding as women's fashions, with a lot of fellows. Well, they won't be in the political style in Pennsylvania any more, depend on it."

Jealous Bride Awakens Bashful Bach

During a recent trip of California railroad men to Portland, there were in the party a bashful bachelor and a jealous bride. The closer the train got to Portland, the more violent became the bride's jealousy, for it had been whispered to her—and with some truth—that her new husband had had a past or two, one of which was at that time residing in Portland.

When the party reached Portland the members all went to one hotel and bashful Bach was placed in a room adjoining Bride and Bridegroom. It must be explained that Bach was a friend of Bride and Bridegroom and that he had had no past, not one. Excepting for an occasional hymn his life had been singularly free from wine, women or song.

Bride was in a terrible mood during dinner, keeping a green and glittering eye fastened on Bridegroom. But with the aid of railroad pals Bridegroom managed to fix up a tale by which his wife allowed him out of her sight, being assured that he would be accompanied during his absence by a whole regiment of dignified railroad men who would occupy their time in discussing nothing more terrible than brake shoes and road beds.

Bach, not being in on that little deal, and not smoking or drinking, had nothing to do except to retire to his lone couch. At 2 a. m. he was awakened by the telephone in his room, with the night clerk at the other end, explaining that the woman in the room next to Bach was having hysterics and that several persons on the street had heard the screaming and had rushed in to see who was getting murdered. The night clerk wanted Bach, as a member of the railroad party, to use his influence with Bride to stop screaming and thus preserve the dignity and reputation of the hotel.

Bach turned on the light. It was 2 a. m. Instinctively he knew Bridegroom was not in, but he should return while he was attempting to calm Bride—cold chills and hot flushes swept over Bach. His brain was simply turning flips when there came a rap at his door and an hysterical voice crying:

"Let me in; let me in!"

"I can't; I can't," he wailed. "I'm not dre—that is, I'm not—"

"I can't help it; let me in; let me in," accompanied by alarmingly loud rappings.

Now suppose Bridegroom returned and found hysterical Bride hanging on bashful Bach's neck? (Quick curtain over business of hanging on neck; also curtains for Bach if discovered).

The telephone bell was ringing again, the rapping was beginning to awaken the hotel. Bach was so flustered that he thought he had put his trousers on instead of merely having a death grip on them when, in desperation, he opened his door. A vision of loveliness in soft, clinging white robe de nuit and tears burst in upon him. (Business of bashful gentleman in pajamas disengaging soft arms from around neck, during which Bach discovers misplaced trousers).

When Bridegroom arrived at 2:30 a. m. Bach was in her own room, Bach having persuaded her not to go forth attired only in a night-gown in search of her husband in a strange city. He gently explained that the police might not understand.

And after all it was merely a poker game that had kept Bridegroom out so late.

And bashful Bach! He is no longer bashful nor a bachelor. That clinging arm stuff rather appealed to him, so he got a couple of his own.

Spent His Money Lavishly

Young Bluebeard, the midget realty broker, is the real puller of strings in the forthcoming auction sale of the Hotel Rafael and other Baron von Schroeder properties on the 17th instant. If ev-eral hundred thousand dollars are realized, as should be the case, his share of the commissions will be a snug sum. The Baron von Schroeder is very fond of "Blumey," as he is called, and the latter, in sales for the former during the past two or three years, has made some $13,000 or $14,000 in commissions. He spent the money like a prince, too. Part of it was used to give Maud Allan, the dancer, and a party of friends and press representatives a midnight supper at the St. Francis. He bought an auto and it was at her service at all times. He then danced attendance on Nat Goodwin and his wife at that time—Edna Goodrich—spending his money right and left in the role of a good fellow.

There was a time when he could and would talk about the modern interpretive dance and its votaries and devotees, like Maud Allan, with her "Vision of Salome"; Isadora Duncan and her Greek dancing art; Nazimova, the capricious and captivating Russian, and of La Estrella, in all the whirl of her seductive motions and Spanish draperies, and, when at times in gay abandon and with art momentarily flung aside, she would sing, "Yip I Addy I Ay."

The he went "broke" in London and Papa Blumenthal of San Rafael, the meat monopolist of the town, favorably answered his cablegram for money to get home.

Since then he has made more realty commissions, but only the tailors get part of it now. He will miss the baron as a source of commissions when he departs for the Fatherland, but in the meantime he "has arrived" with some other pretty good clients.

New Trustees for Stanford

William Mayo Newhall and Herbert C. Hoover, just named as trustees of Stanford University to bring the board up to its full membership of fifteen, take the places left vacant by the resignations of Whitelaw Reid of New York, the American Ambassador at the Court of St. James, and George E. Crothers, a young attorney, a graduate of Stanford, and at one time secretary of the board at the special request of Mrs. Stanford. It is clear why Ambassador Reid should have wanted to resign. In Crothers' case it is an unexplained matter. Reid is over seventy and in failing health because of old age. He has been a member of the board ever since Stanford was founded in the eighties and always took much interest in its growth. It was two years ago that he was on the coast and attended several meetings of the board. At that time he let it be known that he desired to give way for a younger and more active member. No explanation is made concerning Crothers' resignation, although it is known that some friction existed between him and certain influential trustees. Newhall, one of the new trustees, is a member of a very powerful family in this city, both socially and financially. It was the family, together with A. W. Foster, who prevented the Rev. Dr. John Hemphill at the height of his career from combining St. John's Presbyterian church with Calvary under the latter's name. That was a pretty church war of eighteen years ago, and only families like the Newhall and Foster people represent could have spoiled the deal. They continue to see to it that St. John's is still maintained in good style out on First avenue, while Hemphill has had to give way in Calvary Presbyterian church to the Rev. Dr. William Rader. George A. Newhall, a brother of the new trustee, was one of the first police commissioners under the new charter back in the nineties. It was he who struck terror to the hearts of saloon men who did not obey the law. He always voted to take away their licenses. The better class of liquor men approved his course and are wishing there were more commissioners like him to weed out those who bring the trade into disrepute with the public.

They Are Out of Pocket

A. W. Scott, Jr., one of the Panama-Pacific Exposition directors, and who is a pronounced success in his own business, told some merchants he was addressing the other day that he was surprised to find people here and there asking what salaries President C. C. Moore and the directors of the fair are being paid.

The directors, of course, are not being paid anything. More than that, they are all digging down into their own pockets to pay the banquet and luncheon expenses incurred in receiving accredited people from states and foreign countries who are coming on exposition business. They even paid for the banquet to President Taft when he was here turning the first shovelful of earth. Each one is out a thousand and more of dollars on this account. It is by no means a fair deal for them, but it is said they deem it the best policy to continue to defray those expenses. There was some criticism at the start about exposition funds being used for "too much banqueting." None of the funds has ever been so used. There has to be more or less of that kind of entertainment, and they decided to pay for it themselves in their own way for the good of the cause and shut forever the mouth of stupid or designing criticism. Scott has developed into a very strong member of the board of directors. Ever since the fight at Washington for the site against New Orleans he has worked hard for the undertaking. In his winsome wife he has an able second to his efforts. She was with him in Washington in the site contest. Her glorious and charming manner and her enthusiasm immediately attracted the attention of social Washington. She is still a pronounced success as a worker for the undertaking.

Her beauty and splendid gowning make her a pleasing and striking figure at all exposition functions.

James Hazen Hyde Serious

A San Franciscan just back from Paris, where he is persona grata in the American colony, tells me that James Hazen Hyde is delivering lectures in French on United States phases of growth and culture this winter before fashionable audiences of Americans, English and French in the Theater Michel, and is being heartily commended for his serious ambition by Dr. David J. Hill, former Ambassador to Germany, and other Americans now in the French capital.

This will be a decided surprise to people here, who chiefly knew Hyde for his eccentricities of both manner and dress. On his several trips to the coast he was noted at both the Palace Hotel and the Pacific Union Club for his remarkable wardrobe and his penchant for loud-colored waistcoats and huge violet bouquets. He prided himself on changing his clothes four times a day, with each change of apparel there being a different colored waistcoat and fresh bunch of violets in the coat lapel, always large enough to excite attention and provoke comment. However, my informant states Hyde is a man of culture, deep reading and a fine linguist, one who apparently has now tired of the frivolities and the role of a dilettante and has become seriously inclined. Hyde was much in the limelight during the sensational investigation into the methods of New York life insurance companies by a legislative committee. That investigation drove him and his family out of the management of the Equitable Life. His great wealth came through that company, and since the investigation he has made his home in Paris, although still retaining his American citizenship. He is a dapper little fellow, with the most aristocratic of airs, and thinking all but a very favored few utterly impossible. That was his demeanor here, and my informant says it is still his general attitude.

If you have not seen how he wears his monocle then you have really missed something at the point of artistic excellence.

I refer to the single eyeglass as worn by the very dignified Portuguese minister to Japan and China, J. Batalha de Freitas, who is in town en route to his new diplomatic post. The distinguished diplomat has been a guest at the Palace for two weeks, and, as a commissioner-general from his country, selected the other day a location for a building for Portugal on the exposition grounds. A man of refinement is de Freitas, schooled in the best society and faultless as to attire and carriage.

But about his monocle.

It is not a plaything to be wound around his fingers with its slender gold chain while in animated conversation, or in moments of contemplative study or in periods of pleasing indifference. It is intended as the window for his right optic, and there it is always to be seen, a thing of beauty, certainly; of utility, I know not, save for its being on the job all the time. A special silk handkerchief, folded and handled as only an exacting fastidiousness could dictate, at times essays to take it tenderly from its commanding station to rerub it to a fitting lustre. As back it is placed beneath a finely-shaped eyebrow, there is a gleam and sparkle, giving the suggestion that a diamond or two adorn its outer edge.

Stationed in the foreign office at Lisbon, both before and after the fall of young King Manuel, Minister de Freitas is said to have known much of the former relations between the ex-king and the beautiful Gaby Deslys and the jewels he showered her with. He is also said to know much of the recent designs of Prince Miguel of Braganza, now known as the Duke de Vizcaya, to start a revolution in Portugal in an effort to become its king. This is the duke who married Miss Anita Stewart of New York and whose mother-in-law, Mrs. James Henry Smith, refused to advance any of the fortune she got from her second husband, "Silent Jim" Smith, for any sort of a revolution. The diplomat knows all the tale, but also knows how not to talk, save quietly intimating that Mrs. Smith is a very sensible woman not to invest any of her American money in European revolutions.

Leader of Crusades for the Poor

Father Bernard Vaughan of London, the distinguished Catholic divine who is delivering a series of sermons at St. Mary's Cathedral on Van Ness avenue, comes with a splendid record for crusades in behalf of the poor and in defense of the highest ideals of society. His five sisters all became nuns. There were nine brothers. All became priests, and three rose to higher honors in the church. To his friends Father Vaughan is represented as speaking at times of his father's treatment of them when they were children, saying in part:

'He was fond of making us, even before we came to the use of reason, stand on a chair, and, no matter what guests were present, he would have us tell the company in our own simple words where we had been and what we had done. It was no use resorting to shyness for protection, for he would declare that shyness was only a polite name for vanity, and vanity in a boy was something shameful. Once while trying my best to give a good account of a fall I had had from my pony I was so dreadfully afraid of being laughed at that I actually had a second fall from the chair, but making the most of it, I lifted up my arms to the company, exclaiming, 'I fell just like that,' and scampered off to the nursery, hardly knowing whether to scream with laughing or crying.'

Business Done by Street Cars

Judging from the reports of the three different street car companies in San Francisco for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, there were carried during that time 300,000,000 passengers. The average number of people carried each month would, therefore, be 25,000,000. This would make the daily travel figure up to something like 833,333, and the average travel per hour throughout the twenty-four hours about 34,722. Figuring still closer down the line, the number traveling per minute was about 578. A comparison of these statistics with similar figures that attain in cities like Buffalo, Detroit and St. Louis would seem to bear out the conclusion that since the 1910 census was taken San Francisco has increased in population to fully the half million mark, for those competent to be considered experts on the subject say that there is a definite ascertainable relation between daily, monthly and annual street-car patronage and the total number of people in a community. Some Eastern authority has published a pamphlet on the very problem, going in his calculations into great detail. In the same way this authority shows a definite relationship between street-car travel and the census of school children, and also the registration of voters, checking one against the other and making all reach one common, plausible, mathematical goal. The idea that people in any one city in the course of a year take more short car rides than those of any other place this authority explodes as tommyrot. Some San Franciscans have made this boast of this city, presumably as indicating how little a nickel is thought of by them or the town. There is nothing to indicate that they take any more of the short car rides than the Oakland or Los Angeles man or the one in Seattle, Chicago or St. Louis. I've repeatedly heard this peculiar kind of a boast and deemed it the rankest kind of provincialism.

Retirement of Judge W. W. Morrow

The announced retirement next year of United States Circuit Judge W. W. Morrow on his 70th birthday recalls how he and two other former California congressman have for years been honored members of the Federal bench. Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Joseph McKenna and United States District Judge De Haven are the other two. McKenna left Congress to become the Federal circuit judge here. When Justice Stephen J. Field died, McKenna was appointed to succeed him on the supreme court bench. It is a matter worthy of comment that in Field and McKenna California has had one of its citizens a member of the most distinguished court in the world ever since in the sixties, when Lincoln first appointed the former. McKenna is still doing good work in his high position. Morrow became the Federal court judge when McKenna was called East. In the old Fourth Congressional District in this city, Morrow, as a Republican, was a great favorite and a tower of strength. After Morrow quit politics, James G. Maguire, Democrat, had the district in his pocket for awhile. Julius Kahn, Republican, is now the district's strong favorite, showing remarkable political vitality. De Haven came from Eureka, a region which has been prolific in producing able Californians. He was a boy there along with men like George A. Knight and James N. Gillett. The lamented McKinley always thought much of Morrow, De Haven and McKenna for their many personal and mental qualities. Morrow of late years has been brought into much close contact with Taft through his recognized work in the Red Cross Society.

Valuable Furniture of Ambassador

One of the transpacific steamship officials says his company is shortly to receive for shipment to Tokio some very valuable and heavily-insured furniture belonging to Lars Anderson, who was recently appointed by President Taft the American Ambassador to Japan in succession to Charles Page Bryan of Chicago, who resigned. Several pieces of the furniture shipment are said to consist of a chair, table and cabinet made in Prague from a log of oak fished up from the river Moldau in 1902 and supposed to be 900 years old. A little fortune is said to have been paid for these things. Former Ambassador Bryan was also a collector of old and valuable furniture and bric-a-brac, both while minister to Brussels and as Ambassador to Japan. It is understood some of his articles are being sent through this port back to his Lake City home, while others are to remain in Japan, Anderson and his wife having arranged to purchase them. A couple of years ago Bryan made several presents from his collection to several well-known society people of this city, whom he had entertained while minister at Brussels and who in turn had been their guest in Paris and this city.

Climax Spoiled It All

John A. Carson of Salem, an Oregon State Senator, wants to be president of the Senate when the Legislature, recently chosen, organizes next month. Several of his fellow Senators are in San Francisco and Los Angeles on vacation trips, and John has come to California to button-hole them and get their promises of support. His mission is represented to have been a most successful one. Carson has a fine home in the northern town, with a family which entertains much and is very popular. A youthful newspaper reporter on one occasion was sent to write an account of one of these entertainments and receptions. Having the kindest of feelings for Carson personally, the press representative was determined to make unstinted use of his pencil in describing the social event. The home, the family, the decorations and pleasant words about the head of the house and his career were all given their proper places as units in the story for a column and a half, the whole making delightful reading. The scribe then went on to amplify this and that feature of the night's doings, saying, finally, among other things:

"Later in the evening refreshments were served a la carte."

Waiter Took His Revenge

William J. "Fingy" Connors, the Buffalo newspaper owner and Democratic political boss and all-round millionaire and owner of a great fleet of lake freighters, was chatting in a group at the Palace last night when the talk turned on the question of self-control.

"Self-control is a great battle for each one of us,"

THE PASSING OF SENATOR J. P. JONES RECALLS STIRRING TIMES

remarked the Buffalo man. "But there are instances of its exercise which are explained now and then in some queer manner. For instance, in a German restaurant one night at the dinner hour sat a grouchy, irascible patron. Nothing the waiter brought him or could do for him was satisfactory. He was a smaller man than the waiter. In spite of that, he was insulting to the latter, swearing at him now and again. But bad as well as good things come to an end in time, and ere long the grouchy one finished his meal and went off. As he did so, a guest at a nearby table, who had seen and heard all, informed the waiter that he marveled at his self-control and wondered why he had not given the insulting fellow a cuff or two or the ear. The slinger of the hash and beer gave a low gurgle, as with a laughing eye and in a high-keyed whisper he explained: 'I stayed my fist and held my tongue, for my revenge was sweet. I spit in his beer.'"

End of Harriman's Project

In dissolving the Union and Southern Pacific merger, the United States Supreme Court has for the second time in less than ten years knocked to smithereens what was intended to be a crowning business and financial effort on the part of a great railway magnate operating in the west. The court's first blow knocked out James J. Hill's pet Northern Securities Company, into which he had placed the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington roads. The Union and Southern Pacific merger was Edward H. Harriman's idea and fond scheme. Many of Harriman's plans have gone by the board since his death because no one appeared on the scene big enough to maintain them and carry them out. Now that the merger has been wiped away, there is practically nothing left of his vaulting schemes as such. Whether the Union Pacific, as a result of the decision, is going to be able to buy the Central Pacific and run its own trains direct to the Oakland mole is a most interesting question. Harriman wanted to do that while C. P. Huntington was alive, but the latter would not hear of it. Harriman then threatened to extend the Union Pacific to Oakland and this city, and had Huntington lived ten years longer the two strong men would have locked horns on that subject. It was fear of Harriman and his Union Pacific crowd that caused Huntington and the Speyers, his bankers, to buy the Stanford and Crocker stocks in Central and Southern Pacific so as to keep them out of the properties as large stockholders. It was the death of Huntington and the subsequent disappointment of his widow and H. E. Huntington, his nephew, that the Speyers would not help the latter into the presidency of the Southern Pacific in succession to his uncle that enabled Harriman to get the Huntington big block of stock, and, with other shares he held, thus come into control of all the Southern Pacific properties. Their merger with the Union Pacific then followed as an easy matter. In the United States Circuit Court at St. Paul, three of the four judges declared the merger a legal one under the Sherman act. Judge Hook dissented, and in his opinion the Supreme Court follows almost identically his line of reasoning. It was Hook that President Taft wanted to appoint to fill the last vacancy on the Supreme Court, both for geographical reasons and those of probity and ability. Many protests from the Middle West, Hook's own section, styled him "a railroad and corporation man" until finally Taft selected Pitney of New Jersey for the position.

Friend of the Newsboys

Norman E. Mack, who was here a few days ago at the head of the New York exposition delegation, once gave a newsboy in an eastern city a dollar to point out a certain business block for him which he was looking for and could not find. It happened to be only two blocks away. The tale of that dollar for so short a walk has spread among all the "newsies" in the land and the active tribe in San Francisco was waiting for him and some of his dollars. The boys were on hand to point out any old thing or place for him for a simoleon. They were up against it hard, however, for the exposition people at their own cost and by auto pointed out everything Mack desired to see. But he did not overlook them by any means. Mack is a big newspaper man in Buffalo and has a warm spot in his heart for the boys. He gave them all in the vicinity of his hotel a chance by turn to sell him a morning or afternoon paper. It was always a quarter with no change wanted. It got to be a habit for the "newsies" to wait for him at the main entrance and they were a mighty sorry lot to have him depart.

The Sharons Are Royal Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharon's dinner and dance at the Palace last Thursday night, with the great ballroom converted into an entrancing garden scene, was the most ambitious and artistic indoor social affair ever given in a San Francisco hotel, or anywhere else in the west for that matter. Workmen, from carpenters up to high-priced decorators, were at work on the scheme for a week, being busy at nights for part of the time in order to see that the proper effects were there. The cost must have represented a pretty penny. Both Sharon and his wife frequently inspected the work as it progressed, so interested and determined were they to have the arrangements the very best. It is a distinct gain to the city's social life that the Sharons are spending so much of their time here instead of at Paris, as was formerly the case, for they are royal and extravagant hosts, nothing being too good for their friends. Sharon is the head of the house of that name, while his wife comes from another old family equally as prominent. She was a Tevis. Both have ample fortunes in their own right and are in a position to set the pace for social diversion among the ultra-exclusive set as they have been doing for the past two years. In the American colony in Paris they had the name for doing things equally as well. Their list of guests, like that of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker, is looked upon as meaning the true social stamp for all included in it. No regrets come as answers to their invitations.

Sympathy Won't Prevent Pain

Some dentists tell you how gentle and sympathetic they are with their patients, yet fail to realize that kindness and sympathy will keep you from suffering while getting your teeth fixed.

No matter how gentle a dentist may be, he can't bore into sensitive tooth without causing pain unless he has some means of deadening the nerves.

During my 18 years in the practice of dentistry I have tried all the so-called painless methods, which others have brought to the attention of the public, and I can say that none of them ever proved successful. My Terrysthesia method is the only one that actually makes painless dentistry a reality.

Terrysthesia acts upon the nerves of the teeth, numbing them so completely that even a careless operator could not hurt you. It does not affect the heart, nor produce any harmful results. In all dental operations, whether simple or difficult, Terrysthesia painlessly eliminates every vestige of pain.

The other day I saw an ad which read as follows: "Come in here in the morning, have your old teeth extracted free, and I'll bury them in the ground with a new set that fits perfectly."

I have a feeling of pity for the victims of such practice. Just think of a dentist in this wonderful age pulling good teeth to make room for a new set. Why, it's not less than a crime!

What is the sense in your submitting to the loss of perfectly sound teeth when you can have the missing ones replaced by my Rev. Alveo method without loss of natural tooth framework?

Rev. Alveo teeth restore the natural appearance of the face and make the wearer look and feel younger. When in the mouth they cannot be distinguished from real teeth, and they stay in the jaws as if they had grown there.

If you have two or more remaining teeth you don't require a plate. Even though you are wearing one already, you can get rid of the nuisance by coming to me.

It will only take a few minutes of your time to investigate my methods. Call and let me show you just what I can do for you. I'll gladly give you an estimate of any denture you may need. Consultation and examination free. Hours, 8:30 to 5:30; Sundays, 10 to 12.

Those who cannot call should write for the free book explaining my Terrysthesia and Alveo methods.

GARBAGE MEN START PIG RANCH; HELP! PLAN ENDLESS GASTRONOMICAL CIRCUIT

Association Leases 1000 Acres in Contra Costa County; Will Feed Swill to Pigs

"Pigs is pigs" and "swill is swill," and when you unite the two on 1000 acres of choice land in Contra Costa county within reach of barge delivery you have a combination that even J. Rufus Wallingford never conceived.

As Blackie Darr would put it: "You get 'em coming and going."

That's just the scheme, however, that has been brought to light through the leasing of 1000 acres in Contra Costa county by an organization comprising those who control the destiny of the garbage exported daily from the bay cities.

The transaction was reported from the office of a Broadway real estate firm today, though the actual leasing was done in San Francisco. The land secured is said to be some of the choicest acreage in Contra Costa county and can be reached by barge.

Never after much of the swill that is consigned to the bosom of the ocean outside the ten-mile limit will be segregated and that available for consumption by hogs will be towed to the Contra Costa ranch and used to fatten the company's pigs.

Needless to state, when the pigs have been duly fattened they will be slaughtered, shaved and dressed, and brought back to the point from which their provender originated. Thus a sort of perpetual gastronomical circle will be started which should prove highly lucrative to the inventors and satisfactory to the pork dealers. As for the pigs they will only be fulfilling the law of recompense.

The man who started the famous cat and rat farm, where the cats eat the rats and the farmer skinned the cats and sold their pelts for fur, was a "piker" beside the Garbage Handlers' Association of the Bay Cities.

SOUTH PREPARES FOR ORANGE SHOW

February Will See San Bernardo the Mecca for Thousands.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 7.—California's greatest mid-winter event will be the third national orange show to be held in San Bernardino, February 17-22, 1913, in which great interest is being manifested throughout California and the entire southwest.

Plans for this great citrus fruit exposition are being rapidly perfected and they give promise of the most comprehensive and beautiful fruit exposition ever held on the Pacific coast.

A greatly increased amount of display space will be provided in two of the finest and largest exposition tents ever built, which have been ordered constructed especially for the national orange show. An elaborate program of entertainment, amusement features and contests is being worked out, while the number and variety of fruit exhibits will be greatly in excess of last year.

Thousands of dollars in cash prizes and valuable trophies have been offered by the San Bernardino people to be awarded to the displays of the best fruit and feature exhibits.

The National Orange show, in brief, will be California's $100,000,000 citrus industry boiled down and in review before the people of the southwest and the throngs of eastern tourists sojourning in the land of sunshine at that time. Fruit growers and packers all over the state are preparing to build their exhibits on a more elaborate scale and more beautiful than ever.

MEXICO FOURTH ON GOLD-PRODUCING LIST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Mexico was fourth in rank among the gold-producing countries in 1911, according to the figures of the United States Geological Survey, the output for the year being $29,195,000.

This is an increase over the 1910 figures of more than $4,000,000, despite the unsettled conditions which prevailed in some portions of the republic during the year. With a return to settled conditions and the continued introduction of modern mining and metallurgical methods into Mexico leading to renewed development of the great metal resources of the country, the gold output may be expected to increase still more rapidly.

INCREASED IMPORTS.

A few countries show a decrease in their monthly imports—France, from $1,000,000 to $1,000,000; Argentina, from $127,000,000 to $127,000,000; Argentina, from $1,000,000 to $1,000,000; Mexico, from $8,500,000 to $7,500,000; and Russia, from $13,600,000 to $12,000,000. Practically every country increased its exports, the average monthly exportation of Canada, for example, increasing from $20,000,000 in 1911 to $27,000,000 in 1912; France, from $94,000,000 to $102,000,000; Germany, from $186,000,000 to $203,000,000; Austria-Hungary, from $51,000,000 to $61,000,000; Belgium, from $67,000,000 to $70,000,000; Canada, from $80,000,000 to $82,000,000; Japan, from $26,000,000 to $28,000,000; Switzerland, from $29,000,000 to $30,000,000; and India, from $14,000,000 to $16,000,000.

The order has been in existence in California over fifty years and numbers upward of 16,000 members.

Salaries of Superior Judges.

Bills will be introduced in the coming Legislature to increase the number of judges in some counties and lengthen the terms of the appellate judges. Without discussing the necessity for more trial judges or the advisability of extending the terms of the judges of the district courts of appeal, the Legislature should equalize the salaries of the Superior Judges.

All Superior Judges should be paid the same salary. At present they are paid salaries ranging from $3000 to $6000 a year. None of them are paid too much, and some of them are paid much too little. Judges from the small counties are frequently called to sit in important cases tried in the largest and richest counties.

It often happens that a judge drawing a salary of $4000 a year is called from the bench of his home county to sit in the place of judges drawing $5000 and $6000. Not long ago the Superior Judge of Alpine county, who is paid the munificent salary of $3000 a year, was trying cases in San Francisco in the place of judges who are paid $6000 a year. At the present time Judge Murphy of Mono county is trying cases in Alameda county. He gets $4000 a year, while the judges of the Alameda Superior Court get $5000 a year. A short time ago Judge Murphy was sitting on the Appellate Bench as substitute for one of the judges who was incapacitated by illness. The Appellate Judges are paid $8000 a year.

The theory that judges in the smaller counties should be paid smaller salaries because they have less to do does not work out in practice. Their duties are quite as important as the duties of more highly-paid judges, and they are generally kept busy trying cases in other counties. San Francisco and Los Angeles are continually calling upon judges from the interior counties to preside over their courts.

Some of the ablest trial judges in the State come from the country. Judge Dooling of San Benito, Judge Murphy of Mono, Judge Gesford of Napa, Judge Sargent of Monterey, Judge Arnot of El Dorado and Judge Mahon of Sutter can be cited as examples. These jurists are constantly being designated to sit in counties other than their own in the place of more highly-paid judges.

This is unjust. The State should not pay one man less for service than it pays another, especially when the service is quite as good and rendered by men equally competent.

The salaries of Superior Judges were fixed in 1879 when conditions were entirely different from what they are today. The only changes have been made in large counties having influence enough in the Legislature to enforce their demands. Hence the judges of the interior counties are underpaid in comparison with their city brethren. The cost of living has greatly advanced and their judicial duties increased, but they are still drawing salaries based upon the comparative value of things thirty-three years ago.

This arrangement is equally unfair to the judges and the public. Alameda, San Francisco and Los Angeles are interested in having able and upright judges chosen in Mono, Madera, Monterey and Napa counties, because the judges elected in those counties are called upon from time to time to preside over the courts of Alameda, San Francisco and Los Angeles. It is fortunate that small salaries have not resulted in small men being chosen to the Superior Bench, but is no justification for a discrimination that is unfair and unjust.

All Superior Judges should be paid the same salary. All have the same responsibility and the same powers. Let us abolish cut-rates in paying judges lest cut-rate law result. A judge should be paid a salary sufficient to support him in dignity and comfort.

There will be more Northern Democrats in the next House than Democrats from the South, but nearly all the important committee chairmanships will fall to the Southern members because they have seen longer service. The seniority rule gives them a monopoly which is not relished by the Northern Bourbons, who threaten to break the seniority rule unless the Southern members consent to a division. But there can be no division without breaking the rule, which has been an unwritten law in the usage of the House since the beginning. The Northern Democrats will be able to control the caucus, and they have it in their power to break the seniority rule if they see fit to do so. That is a situation which has not before occurred in Congress since the war between the States. For the first time since that event the Northern States have elected more Democratic electors than the South and sent more Democrats to Congress. And the Northern Democrats are not disposed to let the Southerners run the whole shooting match.

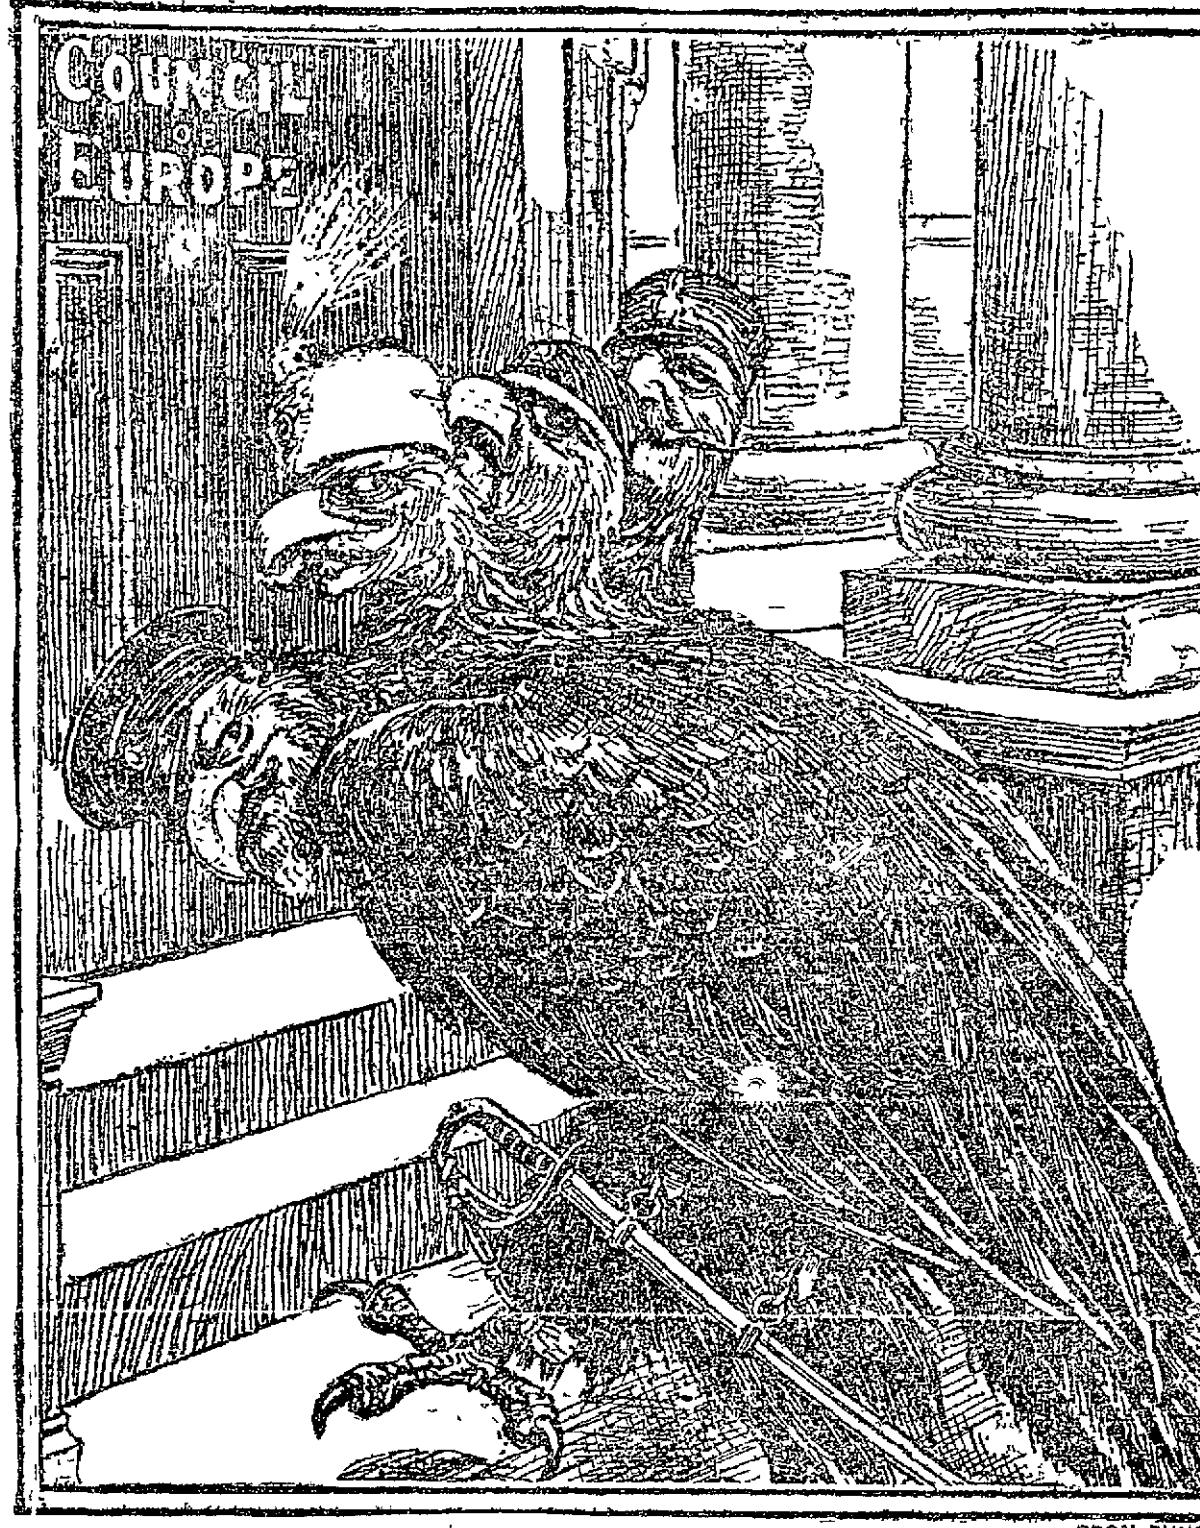

A Messenger From Gallilee.

The Methodist ministry has lost a man who honored his calling in Rev. T. H. B. Anderson, who passed away at Salinas last week. He loved his work and his fellow-man. He had the true Christian spirit—kindly, genial, sympathetic and tolerant. His presence in any community shed a benign influence. To have him for a friend and neighbor was to be enriched. Dr. Anderson abhorred evil-speaking and pharisaism, but his piety was of a robust, practical quality and his convictions sturdy and strong. His judgment of individuals was lenient and charitable, but his moral standards were fixed and high. He would never compromise with evil, but he would go to great lengths to reclaim the evil-doer. His righteousness was pitying and helpful.

Many years ago Dr. Anderson was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South of Oakland, and there are many here today who remember him with affection, he was so cheery and warm-hearted, so gentle and thoughtful, so unobtrusively kind. At various times he occupied pulpits in Fremont, Woodland, Sacramento and various other towns in this State, and was widely known for his piety and eloquence. He returned to Missouri, the State of his birth, nearly twenty years ago and spent more than a decade preaching there. But he finally came back to California to spend the decline of his life. His last pulpit charge was in Salinas. He had recently been on a visit to Missouri and was attacked with a fatal illness on his way home. He had reached the ripe age of 72.

He had helped thousands and never intentionally injured a human being. He never knowingly bore false witness against any one, however depraved, but delivered the message of Jesus in the spirit that he received it. He was the finest type of the old school itinerant clergyman—a Christian and a gentleman, sincere, earnest and genuinely unselfish. For such a man the grave has no terrors or problems, for he carried in it an honest heart and a clean soul. Thousands will mourn his passing.

THE NEW EAGLE

—FROM PUNCH.

Revealing the Pig in the Poke.

In arguing against the adoption of proposed charter amendments the San Francisco Chronicle is contradicting all the arguments it made in support of the annexation amendment to the State Constitution. It contends that San Francisco is debt-ridden and over-taxed and cannot sustain the additional financial burdens it is proposed to impose on the city.

The Chronicle indignantly repelled statements to the same effect made by the opponents of annexation. It used the short and ugly word in contradiction. It resented with heat the suggestion that San Francisco desired to annex the cities on the eastern shore to increase her bonding capacity and that at bottom her desire for enlargement was for more taxable values to help pay the vast scheme of civic improvement projected in the metropolis. While the Chronicle does not admit it was wrong in the annexation controversy, it is showing that the opponents of annexation were right. If San Francisco has at present all the financial burdens she can bear, it is, as the Chronicle says, unwise to increase them. We trust that the Chronicle draws a gloomier picture of the conditions existing across the bay than the facts warrant, nevertheless the picture it portrays should make every citizen of Oakland thankful that the annexation amendment failed to carry. It is a picture that carries its own moral.

Necessity knows no law, and the law of necessity would have been applied to the Alameda cities had they consented to annex themselves to San Francisco. Their interests and improvements would have been neglected that the interest and improvements of San Francisco might be served. This would not have resulted from a deliberate intention to inflict injustice, but because inexorable conditions would have compelled San Francisco to sacrifice the interests of the annexed communities or abandon her cherished scheme of civic development. She has done wonders for herself, but she is realizing that there is a limit to the expenditure of public money.

Her ambition is praiseworthy, but unfortunately it creates necessities which make her rapacious and unjust. In protesting against increasing the burdens of the taxpayers, the Chronicle is disclosing the reason for the intense desire to annex the contiguous municipalities. The motive can be set forth in this formula: "Make San Francisco greater by helping to pay the cost of making her splendid and beautiful." We of Oakland want her to be splendid and beautiful, but we object to paying the bills. We desire to co-operate with San Francisco on the basis of mutual benefit, but we do not wish to consolidate with her or surrender to her the control of our domestic affairs.

The proposed new charter of Los Angeles contains 20,000 words. It was defeated by a popular majority of about that number. Its provisions were regarded as too restrictive, and the concentration of powers provoked suspicion and opposition. In the public mind the new charter was too closely associated with Meyer Lissner to be popular. Lissner has developed into a boss of the most disagreeable and domineering type. The new charter was looked upon as reflecting his ideas and furthering his designs. It provided for a commission vested with arbitrary powers. The general supposition was that Lissner would absolutely dominate the city government if the charter carried. That was enough to defeat the new organic law. Meyer Lissner not only wants to be boss, but he wants everybody to know he is boss and to pay obeisance to him as such. The people of Los Angeles have revolted against this would-be Caesar. They do not propose to be ruled by him or by his deputies. In other words, Los Angeles has grown tired of being reformed according to the Lissner method and under the Lissner auspices. The Lissner voice has been thrown off because it was oppressive and hypocritical, too much of canting in public and Guy Eddy in private.

BITS ABOUT BULGARIANS

With thundering guns and superb fighting, an army in three columns is marching upon Constantinople. Were it not for grave considerations of policy the proud city of the Bosphorus might be left to suffer another fall, and the shameful tradition of the Turkish conqueror riding his horse up the aisle of St. Sophia be forever wiped out in the year 1912 A. D. Meanwhile Europe and the rest of the world are gazing astounded upon this army of admirably trained soldiers in the prime of condition, who drive Turks before them like cattle.

Is Bulgaria, then, a military power to be reckoned with—no longer to be patronized as a petty Balkan state? Europe is beginning to wonder just how many German or English troops it would take to hold their ground before these new soldiers.

They enjoy themselves in primitive and pastoral ways. On Sundays and holidays they dance on the green to the strains of pipes and fiddles. Despite all the labors of the priests, many of them believe in witches, vampires and the evil eye. Remember that before 1878 these country people had no educational system. The peasantry was profoundly ignorant and the older people totally illiterate. The present school system dates from 1891. Almost all the villages now have compulsory public schools, and there is a keen desire to learn. During the summer months, however, schools have to be closed in the rural districts so that the children can work in the fields. In 1888 only 11 per cent of the population could read and write. In 1901 the number had risen to 24 per cent and the later increase has been rapid. Over 3,000,000 of the population belong to the orthodox Christian faith. The Mohammedans come next with 600,000, but these latter are said to be diminishing fast. In 1901 there were 4500 Protestants in the country, mostly Methodists—New York World.

CATCHING MUD TURTLES

Catching mud turtles for the eastern market is not only exciting but it is extremely remunerative. For several months past hundreds of pounds of mud turtles have been shipped via the boat line to Ceylon to Philadelphia where they are placed on the market as ocean turtles. So fine and highly flavored is the flesh of the turtles caught in this locality that a great market has been opened for them in the East, where even a connoisseur of ocean turtle can distinguish them from the real turtle.

On a day when the weather is particularly fine the turtles are sure to show themselves. They will come up on top of a floating log and sun themselves. Sometimes as many as 40 or 50 will occupy one log, ranging in size from infant turtles to grown-ups. As they are not fast travelers, when driven to the shore it is not difficult to corral them, but a bite from one of them has been known to bring serious results to the one bitten. For this reason the occupation is not as agreeable as some might be, and not one to be chosen as a pastime—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

BECAUSE OF DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO. Dec. 7.—The Abbott Hospital in Richmond, Contra Costa county, the proprietors, Lottie Mabel Weed and Sheldon Perry, and a nurse, Susan Rogers, are made defendants today in a suit for $20,000 damages filed by Gabriel Vargas. The plaintiff claims that her 2-year-old daughter, Mary E. Vargas, while being treated at the hospital, died. The use of over-heated appliances on the part of the attaches is alleged, to have caused the skin and body of the baby, causing its injuries which hastened death and for that reason the damages are prayed for.

CANYON OF KERN RIVER DESCRIBED

Altitudes Range From a Few Hundred Feet to 14,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The deep Kern River canyon, in the high Sierra country of California, is interestingly described in a report just issued by the United States Geological Survey. Altitudes in the Kern River basin range from a few hundred feet at the mouth of the river's lower canyon to more than 14,000 feet on the headwaters over a hundred miles distant. More than 50 of the peaks in the basin exceed 13,000 feet in altitude, and many of the lakes which feed the upper stream are at an altitude of 11,000 feet or more.

Mount Whitney, the highest mountain in the United States, towering 14,501 feet above sea level, overlooks the northern part of the Kern River basin from the east.

Kern river rises in glacial lakelets among the high peaks of the Sierra divide and on the Kings-Kern and Great Western divide. It flows directly southward about 70 miles, then southward to the mouth of its canyon a few miles northeast of Bakersfield, where it enters the south end of San Joaquin valley. No water from Kern river has reached the San Joaquin in recent years. The water is all utilized for irrigation before it reaches the larger valley, and the Kern become a "lost river."

The principal tributary of Kern river is its south fork. The basin is divided into two lesser basins, differing greatly in topography. The eastern basin is characterized by comparatively low, flat, and irregular hills, separated by many intervening meadows, large and small. It is drained by the South Fork. The western basin is characterized by high glaciated peaks and ridges and by deep canyons; it is drained by the main stream, which flows for a great part of its length through a narrow canyon. Kern river canyon proper is about 20 miles long, 1 mile wide at the top, and 1500 to 2000 feet deep. The bottom of the canyon is several hundred feet wide and the average gradient is 100 feet to the mile.

The description of this river and of other rivers in the great San Joaquin basin is found in Water-Supply Paper 299, containing stream measurements in the San Joaquin river basin, by H. D. McGlashan and H. J. Dean, of the United States Geological Survey, just issued, in co-operation with the Water Commission and Conservation Commission of the State of California.

SUFFRAGE AID TO EDUCATION, CLAIM

Efficiency Follows Granting of Ballot to Women, Says
Mrs. Guliddin.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—That higher educational efficiency would follow the general adoption of women's suffrage was the declaration made by Mrs. Ora M. Guliddin, of Fort Wayne, Ind., a todaressess of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, which is holding its convention in this city. Stewart Reed of West Albany, N. Y., during an address, urged that efforts to educate the workingman be explained to them more fully. He said:

"The workingman today believes that industrial education is a trap to ensnare him. He thinks it is nothing more than a weapon in the hands of manufacturers to create such a demand for his position that he will himself be at the mercy of his employers. The workingman believes that you are trying to stamp out labor instead of raising its standard and the standard of his pay."

ALAMEDA

'SPIRITS' THOUGHT TO HAVE HER COIN

Alameda's Oldest Woman, at One Time Wealthy, Has Small Estate.

ALAMEDA, Dec. 7.—The last chapter in the history of Mrs. Ellen Augsburgh, Alameda's oldest woman resident and at one time one of the wealthiest of the residents of this city will close next Monday when, following services at the undertaking parlor of Smiley & Gallagher, her funeral will be held.

Rumors of vast sums of money secreted by the aged woman were ripe following her death at the county infirmary, where she was removed after being accidentally locked in a local church for several hours Wednesday afternoon. Stories of the advice given her by spiritualists to bury her gold in large stockings floated about the city and the public administrator's office made a search of her property today.

Articles of furniture, trinkets and jewelry to the woman and small nick-nacks were all that were discovered, and the entire collection was disposed of for $30 in cash. Augsburgh had been communicating with spiritualists for several years, it is stated, and it is believed that much of her property went to the "spirits." Of late she has been deeply religious, and it was while making her devotions that she was locked up in the church.

Since the publication in last evening's TRIBUNE of the story of her death and the appeal to her friends, many have come forward who were friends of the old woman when her father owned a large section of what is now the city of Alameda.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE
IN AUTO ACCIDENT

MARTINEZ, Dec. 7.—Albert and Harry Newhart, proprietors of the Martinez garage in Concord, had a narrow escape from death in an automobile accident on the Clow road near the Concord race track. The young men who were riding in the car at the time of the accident, are unable to account for the wreck but believe that the steering paratus failed and the car careered out of control into a ditch, turning, turning and rolling over several times. Both were thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped with a few bruises and cuts about the head and body.

The Messrs. Newhart, taken to C. R. Davis' automobile outfit for the garage for a trial spin after making a number of repairs and were speeding along the smooth road at a rapid rate when the accident occurred. The car, which is of the open road type, rolled over five times as rapid was the rate at which it was being driven by Harry Newhart, and was almost wholly demolished. Injured men were taken to Dr. F. F. Neff's office where their wounds were dressed.

It was a social evening for the members of the club with their husband and escorts, and Mrs. Frank Corbusier delighted the guests with several songs given in her usual charming way. The house was decorated with greens and Christmas berries.

SWIMMING COURSE IN SCHOOL IS PROPOSED

ALAMEDA, Dec. 7.—A swimming course to be operated as a part of the curriculum of the local public school system will be one of the features of the new municipal baths, if the efforts of Superintendent of Schools Will C. Wood are successful, according to his statement today. Wood declares that he will bring the matter to the attention of the Board of Education with the strongest recommendations that his plan for making swimming a part of the regular course be adopted.

Several times before the matter has been brought up by interested parties, but the chief drawback has been the fact that there was no municipal bathing place.

At one of the recent meetings of the City Council the proposition of establishing a swimming bath to be operated by the city came up and met with the hearty approval of the entire membership of the board.

Councilman William Hammond Jr. introduced a motion, which was carried, to the effect that the city engineer be instructed to prepare an estimate of the expense of constructing the baths. He said that he had no doubt that the profits of the place would soon pay for the interest and redemption of the bonds that would have to be issued.

City Engineer I. N. Chapman has completed a preliminary survey of the site at the foot of Park street and is now engaged in estimating the cost of excavation and the erection of a handsome swimming pavilion.

Wood's plan is to have a competent physical training instructor who is also a swimming teacher appointed to instruct the children in the art of swimming. The matter will be brought up at the next meeting of the Board of Education.

NEW SHIPS AT RICHMOND DOCKS

Railway Managers and Boosters Attracting Shipping Companies.

RICHMOND, Dec. 7.—A movement of the booster variety that is gradually winning big results for Richmond is that of the Belt railway and industrial commission. The combination has induced the Kosmos Steamship Company, big German and Hawaiian and American Shipping Lines, to agree to operate boats from the east coast to San Francisco and Honolulu, to load and unload cargoes at the local belt railway docks.

The experiment has proved economically successful and is gradually growing. While this work will mean much to Richmond, the greatest good at the present time will be to induce other large steamship companies to use local docks.

In fact, the Southern Pacific Company is already taking notice that it can use the local docks and secure quicker service and as low a rate as at other key locations.

Several large steamships have docked at the Belt line wharf this week, having cargoes for interior and eastern points, and find that unloading onto the cars has advantages over unloading at San Francisco and then transhipping to San Francisco boats. The Belt Line management and the industrial commission expect to in this manner increase Richmond's shipping trade materially during the coming year. Negotiations are now going on with other large shipping companies.

Among 100 of the leading citizens and big boosters of Richmond were present, among them being politicians, city officials, bankers, business men and others, and all joined in being funnies.

It was given that the new Gridiron club follows the demands that every member speak at the spread and that every speaker put a fellow member on the grilliron for a roast.

In every detail, General Conch and Mrs. McNeill served the banquet in a manner that left nothing to be desired. M. J. Beaumont of the Daily Independent and Ryan Hull of the Daily Record-Herald were the toastmasters.

PLAN CHANGE IN COUNTY ROAD

Tunnel Highway in Contra Costa County to be Improved.

MARTINEZ, Dec. 7.—A movement for a change in the route and a betterment of the tunnel road from Walnut Creek to the Contra Costa county line, which was launched some time ago, and which was recently quieted, was formally called to the attention of the Board of Supervisors when the election of O. E. Hayward and others for a change in the course of the county road in Supervisor District No 2 was voted.

The change which is desired affects that part of the road between the Fish Ranch and Bryant station, which is about one-half mile long. The road at the present time follows the bed of the creek and is hilly with numerous steep grades and on account of its location near the bed of the creek is wet for a large part of the year. The plan is to have a road built along the hill where a grade of not exceeding five per cent can be secured and for which the rights of way have been offered by the Peoples Water Company. The new road is proposed to follow the course of the old road, except where it was changed to its present location.

MAKES COMPLAINT AGAINST ROADS

C. A. Smith Lumber Company of Oakland Opposes Rates on Three Lines.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 7.—The C. A. Smith Lumber company of Oakland, filed a complaint with the railroad commission today against the Southern Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company and the Northwestern Pacific Railway company, protesting against the rate on lumber in carload lots from Bay Point to Oakland and other points over the three railroads named. The C. A. Smith Lumber company also asked for reparation from the company in the sum of $187.50.

The C. A. Smith Lumber company and Joseph L. Jones have filed a complaint against the Crocker-Huffman Land & Water company of Merced county. The Cresser colony owns approximately 3,000 acres of land which derives its water for irrigation from the Crocker-Huffman company. The complaint states that the charges for water are unjust and discriminatory, in that they are fixed at $1 an acre for some land and $2 an acre for other land, and in some instances no charge at all is made for the land of the Crocker-Huffman company.

As soon as the Happy Valley line is completed work will begin and will be rushed on the San Ramon extension from Danville. The P. G. & E. will have the right of way or more under the sole management of Marcellus C. State Executives and Other Leaders Consider Question of Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—If the Republican Governors or the Republican politicians of this country fancy that they can rebuild their party without Theodore Roosevelt as their architect they are very much mistaken.

This suggestion from Governor Glasscock of West Virginia started trouble in the meeting of the Republican Governors here when they got together for the purpose of reassembling the shattered fragments of the Republican party. Incidentally, they hope to form a defensive alliance against the raid on the party by Roosevelt which all of them expect. In the latter they were successful.

HADLEY LEADS MOVEMENT.

Governor Hadley of Missouri, who worked for Roosevelt to the last ditch at Chicago, but left him when the big fighting began, was the prime mover in the alliance. Those who attended the meeting, which was held at the Willard after the entire gubernatorial tribe had been to the White House, were Pennell of Delaware, Carl Roll of Iowa, Goldsborough of Maryland, Eberhart of Minnesota, and others like Ladd of Nevada, Teller of Pennsylvania, Vessey of South Dakota, Spy of Utah, McGovern of Wisconsin, and Clegg of Wyoming, besides Glasscock and Hadley.

NO PROGRESS MADE.

After the meeting they came out into the corridors and reported no progress. Some were for formal and an association which should be against the colonel. Many of the others took this point. Hadley was not certain as to the best course, but felt that something could and ought to be done to put the party back into the running. All of them felt confident that the Bull Moose party is but a voice in the night and will soon be heard no more forever.

It was Glasscock who started the new Roosevelt boom and who created the dissension which really broke up the meeting, although the Governors parted with peace with one another.

Speaking of the movement to revive the party, Glasscock said: "I am a Tattman or a Bull Moose, said this.

"I believe that the fact that four million who voted the Republican ticket in 1908 refused to vote it in 1912, requires a careful consideration as to the reason for their action and as to what must be done to correct conditions to which they have object."

SOUTHERN REPRESENTATION.

"One of the conditions which has been the cause of objection within the party for years has been the present basis of representation from the southern states. Another is the party's attitude toward direct primaries for the election of delegates to national conventions."

Hadley and some of the other Governors browsed around the Senate wing of the capitol this afternoon and conferred with Kenyon, Borah and other Progressives, as well as with Penrose, Crane and other reactionaries.

Borah frankly told Hadley that he believed the plan to unite Progressives and reactionaries under one party name was foolish. Bristol suggested the appointment of a committee representing both factions to decide what can be done. He suggested Roosevelt, Cannon, La Follette, Governor Johnson of California, Cumming, Lodge, Clapp and Root, which is about as thorough a mixture as can be well imagined.

ENGAGEMENT 'SECRET' TOLD TO FRIENDS
POPULAR OFFICIAL WILL CLAIM BRIDE

MISS BLANCHE S. ELY, WHO IS TO BE THE BRIDE OF L. J. KENNEDY, CHIEF DEPUTY CITY ASSESSOR.

Louis J. Kennedy and Miss Blanche S. Ely of Winters Are to Plight Troth

Friends of Louis J. Kennedy, chief deputy city assessor under George Gross, learned today of his engagement to Miss Blanche S. Ely of Winters, and of their approaching nuptials. Close friends of the two had known of the engagement for some time, but the young couple kept their plans a secret, excepting from immediate relatives, until a few days ago.

The wedding will be the culmination of a pretty romance which was started in Yellowstone National Park about a year ago, when Kennedy and Miss Ely were spending a vacation at the same time. A friendship commenced then, and mutual friends who had introduced the young people were told of the engagement when the romance ripened into love.

Miss Ely, the bride-to-be, is a beautiful society girl of Winters. She is a daughter of Benjamin Ely of that city.

Kennedy, formerly a well known college baseball player and a member of the class of 1904 in the University of California, has been with the Oakland city auditor's office for the past six years. He is one of the most highly esteemed of the city employees.

The wedding will take place Wednesday evening at the home of the brother and aunt of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Button, of Winters. The bridal party will go for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will make their home in Oakland.

Hunchback Anarchist to Be Deported From S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Recognized as an anarchist of international notoriety, Edward Laggin, a hunchback, three feet tall, will be deported on the strength of information received here today. Laggin arrived here a fortnight ago from the Orient. Because of his infirmity, he was escaped, and the Russian government sent out an international warning and a record of his case with his description was sent to Washington. There his description was found to tally with a similar anarchist who had been in the immigration office of the port of New York by the Russian government. Laggin was sentenced to Siberia as a nihilist conspirator, but escaped, and the Russian government reduced his wealth to $20,000.

If Mr. Carnegie should give away his wealth down to $1,000,000 and consider himself poor he would not be generous.

Paralysis Follows Attempt to Slay

Exciting Experiences of Pioneer Is Believed to Have Brought on Stroke.

CHICO, Dec. 7.—Harty Kauffman, who is confined in the city jail pending a protracted examination on a charge of attempting to murder Mrs. Alta Butterfield, with whom he is in satiated, and who, failing to kill her, tried to commit suicide, was taken with paralysis this afternoon in his cell.

It is believed his experience during the past three weeks have been such that it brought about his physical ruin. He can neither walk or use his arms as a result of today's attack. Kauffman would have succeeded in killing Mrs. Butterfield had it not been for the interference of a woman friend of his intended victim.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—A fractious horse which he was riding along Potrero avenue this afternoon, threw Frank Herguth, a 16-year-old lad, flying at 572½ Ninth street, causing him to break his right leg in two places. He was taken for treatment to the Mission Emergency hospital.

80-Year Old Woman Seeks Divorce From Husband Who Deserted Her.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Because she didn't want to die bearing the name of the man who had married her only to desert her, Mrs. Lulu Amelia Glatz journeyed in from the Old People's Home on Pine street this morning to prosecute a suit for divorce. Mrs. Glatz, who is an octogenarian, was 80 years of age when she married Rudolph Glatz at Mt. Vernon, Washington, in 1908. After bringing her here, she told Judge Van Nostrand, her spouse deserted her leaving her penniless, and forced her to go to a home for the aged.

AID TO FARMER ENGAGES 26 GOVERNORS

President Taft Addresses Executives on the System of Rural Credits.

Easy Exchange Between Agricultrist and Capitalist Is Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—President Taft, in a speech to 26 governors, today urged the adoption of uniform State legislation which would make possible in this country the adoption of a system of rural credits and low interest-bearing loans to farmers, similar to that in vogue in many European countries.

"We have great capital in this country and we have farming property that is producing farm products of immense value," said the President. "It would seem clear that with these two elements it would be possible to produce a third by which the farmer could get a price for the crops he should be able to give in view of what is produced and the value of the land on which it is produced, to obtain money on the faith of the land and the faith of the product which will enable him to expand his acreage and better his methods of cultivation and production."

ADVOCATES EXCHANGE.

"An easy exchange between capital and farmers with proper security, has been established in European countries where the rate of interest has been lowered, so the farmer is practically on the same basis of advantage in the borrowing of money as the business man. If this can be done here, and if abroad it can be done here, and if abroad we find that the government institutions adapted to form the connection between capitalists and farmers are successfully operating, why should we not adopt them here?"

The following committee was named to draw up a bill to credit the state with the recommendation to the State:

Governors O'Neal, Alabama, chairman; Johnson of California, Plaisted of Maine, Foss of Massachusetts, Hadley of Missouri, Harmon of Ohio, Mann of Virginia, McGovern of Wisconsin and Carey of Wyoming, besides Glasscock and Hadley.

ON MOTION OF GOVERNOR HADLEY,

On motion of Governor Hadley, resolutions of thanks to President Taft for his active interest in the idea were unanimously adopted.

Most of Us Would Be Able to Qualify

Man Who Gives and Feels It Is More Charitable Than Carnegie, Says Professor.

MERIDIAN, Conn., Dec. 7.—The charitable man who gives and feels it is more charitable than Andrew Carnegie. That opinion is held today by Professor W. C. Fisher, ex-mayor of Middletown, and instructor of political sciences at Wesleyan University, who expressed it before the Meridian Scientific Association.

Andrew Carnegie is not generous, according to Professor Fisher, and has never done a generous act in his life. "Generosity comes when the giver feels the giving," said Professor Fisher. "It has been claimed that Mr. Carnegie was worth $150,000,000. If so, his recent gift of $50,000,000 was not generosity. Mr. Carnegie has said he would never die rich and intends to reduce his wealth to $20,000,000.

If Mr. Carnegie should give away his wealth down to $1,000,000 and consider himself poor he would not be generous.

EDMUND CRINNION

MAXWELL SALES HOME IS NOW COMPLETE

Twelfth Street's Motor Row Assumes Added Importance.

(By EDMUND CRINNION.)

In the limelight among the motor car dealers of Oakland this week is Arthur C. Hull, the veteran automobile man of Oakland who is now occupying the new sales home he has built at Twelfth and Oak streets for the housing of the Maxwell and Columbia car line.

The new Maxwell car home is easily among the cleverest motor car houses in the Twelfth street row and its erection has done much to strengthen that street's claim to be the automobile center of Oakland. In fact its completion marks an era for the Twelfth street row.

The new building is a one-story, fire-proof structure, occupying a ground area of 50 by 100 feet. The salesroom which faces the Oak street frontage and has entrance on that street is 50 by 40 feet. The salesroom is finished in very bright, cheerful colors which are accentuated by the plate glass front and sides. In the rear of the new structure with entrance on Twelfth street is the shop and service department occupying a ground space of 50 by 40 square feet. In the shop, Hull has all the necessary machinery to take care of the Maxwell car owners in his territory. He also carries in this department the necessary supplies to make replacements immediately when they are necessary.

Dividing the salesroom and the service department are the office rooms and bookkeeping department. Here Hull has fitted up an office for the accommodation of his trade as well as offices for the carrying on of the clerical end of the business.

The completion of the new home for the Maxwell Sales Agency comes as a climax to a series of successful enterprises that Hull has engaged in since his entering the motor car business way back in April of 1908 when automobiles were still dubbed horseless carriages. This was almost at the very inception of the industry. At that time Hull took charge of the San Francisco end of the Cadillac service department. He was identified with the trade in San Francisco until April of 1908, when he foresaw the popularity of the Maxwell line was to enjoy and he took the agency for that line for this district, opening up headquarters at Twelfth and Madison streets.

Hull has been identified with the Maxwell line in Oakland ever since and the business interests have grown with the industry and the demand for the car line has increased.

"The completion of the new home for the Maxwell line has been my one aim for some time. It has always been my desire to place myself in a position to give a service to the Maxwell car owners that would be surpassed by no other firm. To do this I found it necessary to enlarge my quarters in order to handle the trade as the Maxwell cars in use on this side of the bay were rapidly increasing. Then again, I deemed it fit that cars of the Maxwell type should be housed in a salesroom where the surroundings were in perfect harmony with the cars themselves."

INDIAN MOTORCYCLE.

Occasioning an unusual flutter among the motorcycle enthusiasts of Alameda county was the arrival yesterday of the new 1913 Indian model, the first of its type to reach this city.

E. F. Rose, the Oakland representative of the Hendee Manufacturing Company received the machine yesterday by express and placed it on exhibition on his saleroom floor in San Pablo avenue.

The new machine has many clever features and according to Rose the only difficulty will be in getting them fast enough to take care of the Oakland boys.

HARLEY DAVIDSONS.

The new 1913 model 5-56" Harley-Davidson motorcycle made its first appearance here this week. The new type Harley-Davidson is the largest single cylinder machine ever made by this company. It is built along the same lines that have made the machine so popular in the past and with the added power and hill-climbing abilities that are claimed for the new machine it is asserted by George A. Faulkner, who handles the Harley in this district, that the new motorcycle will be a big seller this year.

Faulkner tried the new machine out on the hills around Piedmont and stated that it is a revelation for climbing abilities. He says, "I tested the new machine out in every manner possible and found it to be away ahead of even what anticipated from the factory's advance that it was building the most powerful single cylinder motorcycle on the American market."

NEW LOZIER "SIX."

The new type 77 Lozier is expected to arrive in San Francisco within the next week or ten days. Much interest is being displayed in local motorom regarding the new "Light Six" and Manager E. K. Keip of the local Lozier factory branch anticipates a busy time for the branch upon its arrival.

The branch has been veritably flooded daily with a stream of communications and inquiries and enthusiasm has been running high, and the same spirit of interest prevails throughout the whole western territory, as we are daily receiving requests for information relative to the new machine.

Our country agents report the same feel among the motorcycle trade respecting the new machine and taking all things into consideration we look forward to an unusually busy season for the "Light Six" Lozier will be made in accordance with the time when orders are placed and although we will be unable to make immediate deliveries until after January 1 we feel that in view of the fact that our factory is making special efforts to satisfy the demand for the "Light Six" Lozier we will not be able to make prompt deliveries before that date."

NEW S. G. V.'S ATTRACT CRITICS

Long Sought Shipment of New Models Reach Stewart Company.

The long expected 35-44 horsepower S. G. V. has arrived in San Francisco. E. Stewart, head of the E. Stewart Automobile Company, agent for the S. G. V., is more than pleased with this latest addition. In speaking of the new car, he says:

"We have been expecting this car for some time, but the demands made by the New York branch for cars to supply the sale in that city made it impossible for the factory to think of any other section until the present time."

"The 25-30 S. G. V. is one of the most popular in New York, and when it was announced that the factory had decided to put out a more powerful, speedier and larger car, the New York office was able to sell the output of the factory up to the present time with the assistance of a catalogue and the high esteem in which the S. G. V. is held in that city."

"In placing this high-powered model before the public, the factory has met a growing demand on the part of those of their customers who require more power for speed and touring purposes. The new car is identical with the 25-30 horsepower car, with the exception that the engine has been increased to four-inch bore and a quarter-inch stroke and a hand spark advance has been added.

The gasoline is carried at the rear of the chassis and the transmission system has been strengthened to accommodate the increased power. The wheel base has been lengthened 2½ inches, and the body length, from dash to rear of chassis, seven-eighths of an inch. The long stroke motor is of great advantage in hill climbing and especially adapts itself to slow, high-speed work in the traffic of the day."

"All touring and closed bodies, finished with the new model, are built by J. M. Quinby, Co., of Newark, using their patented aluminum construction. The bodies represent the highest type of the body builder's art, and are designed especially for use."

The new models, which have been sold will be on exhibition for a few days at the saleroom of E. Stewart & Co.

Ernest Gabel famous in San Francisco as "Gabe" the mounted policeman, has forsaken his horse for a motorcycle.

"Gabe" is famous—or at least is well known to motorists—in his capacity as "speed cop." He's got more speed now.

It is estimated that there are 20,000 motorcycles in use on German roads.

New York State has twice as many.

NEW DetroITERS SOON TO ARRIVE

Carl Christensen Is Waiting for Roadster Models From Eastern Factory.

Carl Christensen, the Detroit car distributor in this territory, is in receipt of advice from the factory stating that the Briggs-Detroit company is sending its first shipment of demonstrators of its new roadster model. This car sells at $800, the same as all the touring car models except standard "Model A"—the $850 car. The roadsters are built on the same chassis and embody the same distinctive features of construction—full floating rear axle, platform rear springs, triple disc clutch, extraordinary braking, and other valuable departures from ordinary practice which have made the Detroit touring car such a sensation during the past season. The roadster is unusually attractive in design, with the fuel tank out of sight beneath the seat, and ventilated rear deck ample in size to contain a pair of fully inflated tires and the biggest suit case made. The length of the hood is four inches greater than in the touring car model.

Fifty motorcycleists have joined the Wichita, Kansas, Auto-Motor Theft association. C. M. Tucker, a motorcycle policeman, is at the head of the association.

375 BUICKS IN ONE SHIPMENT TO COAST

Howard Automobile Co. Again Breaks Shipping Record

The Howard Automobile company and the Buick Motor company announce the largest single automobile transaction that has ever been made in the history of the automobile business. This is the shipment of a solid special trainload of Buick automobiles. The trainload is made up of 75 double decked carloads containing 375 Buick automobiles valued at practically half a million dollars, the total value in exact figures being $482,400.

The value of the cars under one bill of lading and a single draft and the amount of the entire shipment will be met by the Howard Automobile company on the arrival of the trainload. The amount will exceed the largest check ever signed by an automobile dealer in favor of a manufacturer for a single shipment in the history of the business, breaking the record for large checks, which was made by the Howard Automobile company in paying for its largest trainload last year which contained 254 machines, valued at $341,000.

Prominent railroad officials state that this trainload of Buick automobiles is the largest shipment of first class freight that has ever been handled in the United States.

This large shipment is the more remarkable as these cars are in addition to the Howard Automobile company's regular allotment of 150 machines per week, which allotment is being shipped regularly and is not held up for even one week on account of the trainload.

That this did as creating a sensation in the automobile trade is easily understood when it is stated that the freight alone on this shipment will amount to approximately $20,000.

The Buick factory's production at the present time is 150 cars to 150 cars per week, and it will be necessary for them to manufacture in the neighborhood of 40,000 cars during 1913 if they expect to take care of their trade throughout the country.

The Howard Automobile company's allotment for the coast is 10 per cent of the factory production, which means that there will be distributed on the coast 4000 1913 Buicks. One-third of this allotment will be distributed, according to C. S. Howard, with apparently an ever increasing demand.

One of the greatest problems with which the Buick Motor company had to contend in making the enormous trainload shipment was the finding of 75 automobile freight cars of uniform size at one time, there being at the present time in the East such a shortage of automobile freight equipment that automobile factories in general have trouble in getting enough cars in which to ship their production. It has taken the Buick Motor company all of 30 days to get the necessary cars for this trainload, and to care what they need for their daily shipments.

A representative of the railroad company will accompany this special train from Chicago to the coast. The two sections of the trainload will be consecutively at several different points en route, for photographic purposes. There will also be moving pictures taken of the special at different points en route.

Going to the coast in 1913 Buick cars, the special train will be rushed as much as possible, until it enters the Howard Automobile company's territory. From then on the train will be run on schedule and will be stopped long enough for exhibition purposes at the different points where the Buick is represented. According to figures furnished by the railroad people, only 25,000 people will view the Buick trainload while it comes through last spring. The big shipment is due to reach the coast Christmas week.

KISSEL DEALER TALKS OF SHOWS

Claims Service Departments of More Real Interest to Buyers.

"The approach of the big automobile shows in New York and Chicago," says C. C. Eichberger, agent for the Kissel Cars and trucks, "pictures to my mind not alone what the thousands who attend will see, but the equally important features of the industry that they will see."

They will look upon a bewildering exhibition of handsome cars, brought to the big centers of mechanical as well as athletic performance. They will try the most comfortable seats, listen to the buzz of the most silent motors, test the simplest and easiest operation, wonder at the efficiency and convenience of the new starting and lighting devices. In fact, in every feature of the invisible chassis and the visible trimmings they will note and wonder at the progress made by the car maker.

"Yet if it were possible, we would rather that the public could not be shown through the service facilities of the Kissel Kar branches situated throughout the country. While the Kissel Kar is a car to be proud of, the service facilities have been organized and developed to a remarkable degree. The car owner today is entitled to have mechanical care taken entirely off his hands, and this kind of service standing back of the Kissel Kar is an inestimable added value offered to every purchaser. It can not be seen at the shows, but the service stations located in all principal cities are the proofs of the good service is gladly exhibited and demonstrated."

HALLIWELL COMPANY ADDS TO ITS LINES

Paralleling the remarkable growth of the automobile industry, a closely related enterprise has sprung up in the motor accessories business. These dealers are in close touch with the motoring public and through them and their business an accurate idea on the larger industry itself is easily obtainable.

McElligott reported yesterday the addition of two new lines to his stock, according to D. W. McElligott, San Francisco manager for the Halliwell company. The factories where motorizing equipment is made are hard at work turning out new stuff and hardly a week goes by that some addition is not made to the appliances available to aid the motorist.

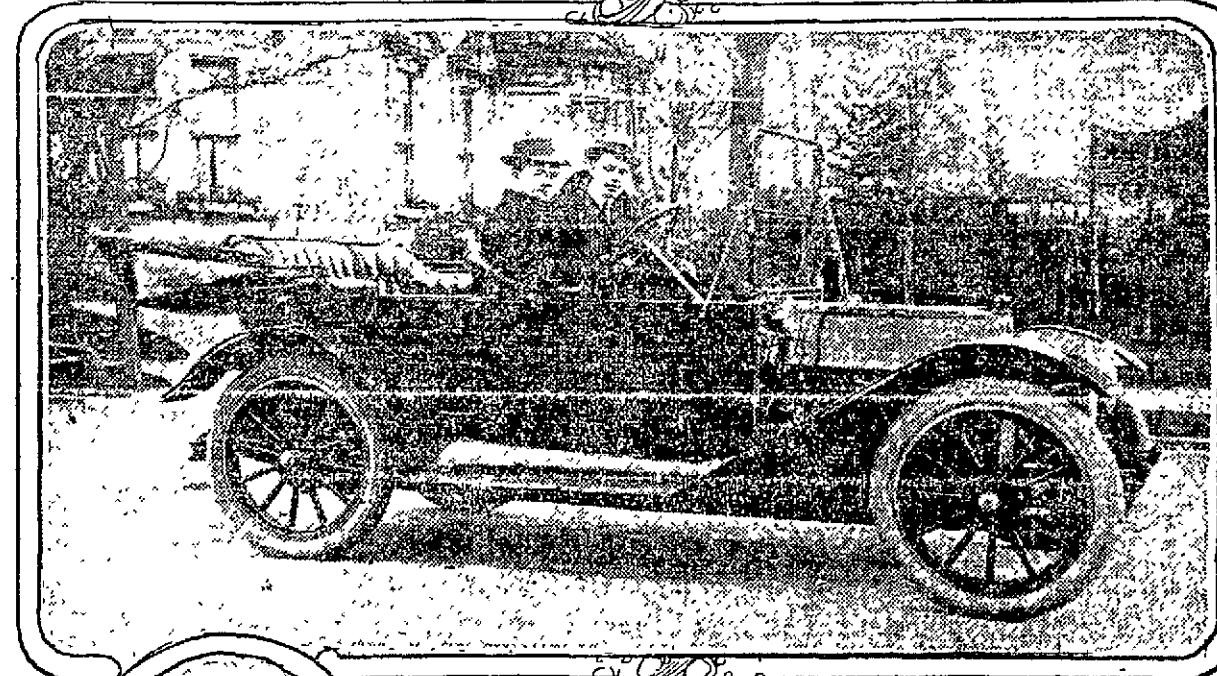

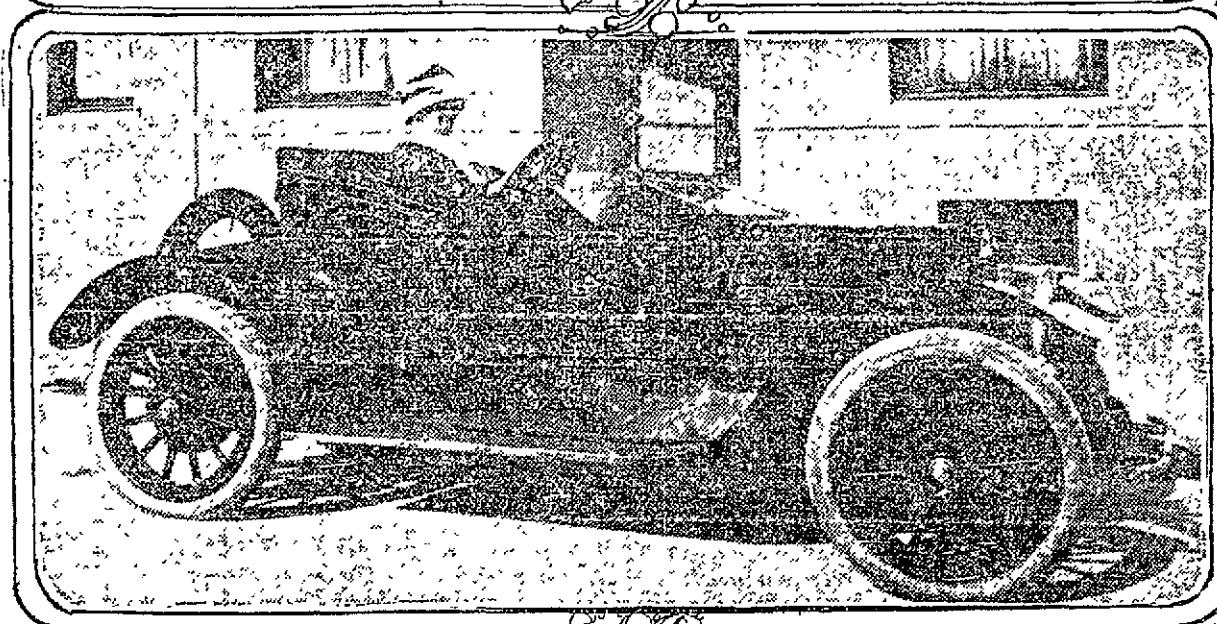

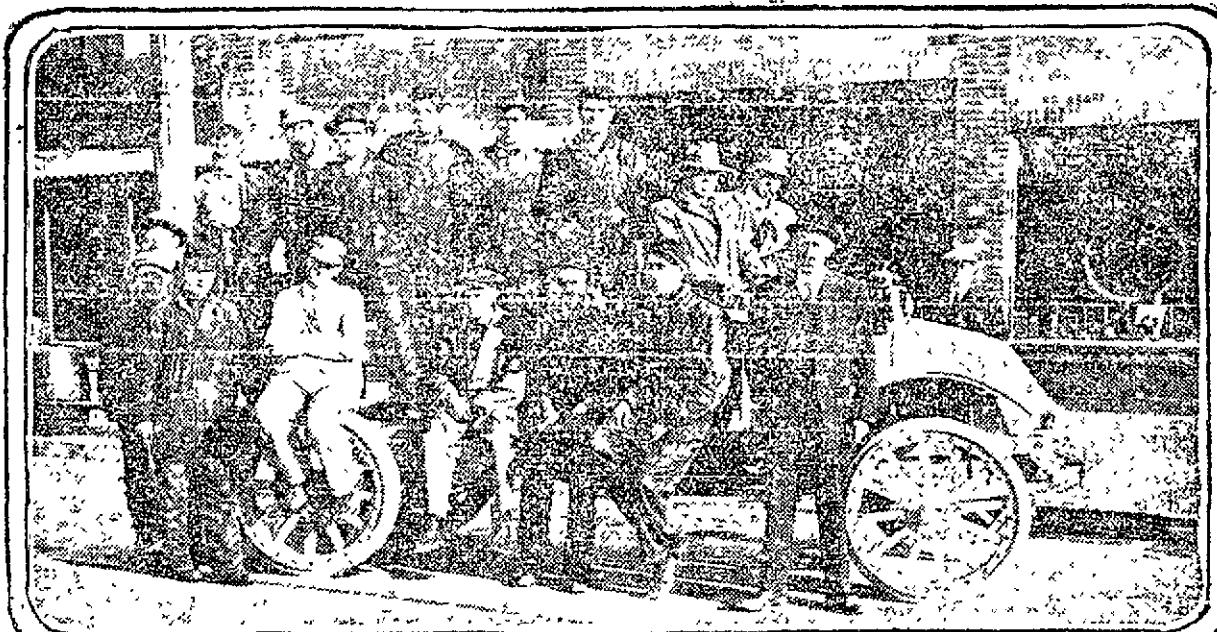

McElligott reported yesterday the addition of two new lines to his stock, the Jackson-Eno rubber tire specialties and the Greyhound battery. The latter is of the latest construction, dipped in paraffin and encased in a fine, thin, flexible, 12 gauge lead plate. The lead plate is responsible for less heat in battery efficiency.

McElligott explained, and the new line and zinc protection eliminates any chance for fog, rain or moist heat to interfere with the cells.

1913 WILL HAVE MILLION MOTORS

Chapman Gives Out Some Very Interesting Figures on the Industry.

If there are more than 700,000 automobiles in use in the United States now, and more than $300,000 more now building, it looks as though next year would see something over a million machines in the country. It is almost impossible to get exact figures, but the million mark is hit in statistics supplied to S. G. Chapman of this city by the Hudson automobile factory for which he is local distributor.

Chapman believes that the gigantic increase in the number of cars this year is directly due to the lowering of prices. He pointed out yesterday that while it is possible to pay $25,000 for a car and get one that is so palatial that it looks like a private railway car or a land going yacht, it is also possible to get a serviceable machine for from $1000 to $2000.

The New Model "D" Has Arrived

This car develops 44 horsepower and is built on the same low lines of the 25-30 horsepower car, but having greater power which means more speed on the road and hills.

The low center of gravity of the S. G. V. Cars makes them the safest cars on the market to drive. There is no skidding on dusty roads or wet streets.

Through the courtesy of the owners of the new Model "D" Cars, which have just arrived, they will be on exhibition in our salesroom from noon on Monday, December 9th. It will pay you to inspect them.

NEW TYPE CLEAR VISION ELECTRIC

New Detroit Electric Models Are Both Sensible and Luxurious.

Another 1913 model has reached Oakland. The latest is the Detroit Electric clear vision brougham. These cars have been received by the Detroit Electric automobile company, the agent in this city.

A. R. Swanson, the head of the local house, says in speaking of the new arrivals that this model fits every need of the motorist. It is suitable for all occasions. He says:

"It is driven from the front seat, all seats facing forward. You not only have a clear vision of the road ahead, but in addition, you have a clear view at either side or the rear as there are no corner panels to obstruct the view. This is a clear departure from these rear corners, formerly built of wood.

"After years of effort, we have solved the problem of a standard body design that is destined to be a classic of the comfort, ease of handling and appearance. The Detroit Electric clear vision brougham must appeal to the buyer as being fundamental, right. It's the most natural, sensible, logical—yes, and lawn-like electric automobile for the congested traffic of city streets.

"By this I mean that it is merely a question of time until all of the cities of the United States adopt ordinances allowing the local use of the Detroit

GREYHOUND SIX SIXTY MAKES DEBUT

Has Been Tested for Two Years.

The new six-cylinder 60 horsepower Oakland has been received in San Francisco, and for the past few days has caused a wonderful amount of flattering criticism. The 1913 model "40" was a revelation, not only to the buying public, but to the trade, and this genuine surprise has been more marked in the new six-cylinder.

The Oakland this year has followed up the success of last season by producing a car that is distinctly Oakland in design and finish, and the indications are at this early date that the popularity of last season will be more marked before another year is past.

General Coast Manager Henry L. Horberger, in speaking of the latest Oakland says:

"The Oakland Six-Sixty will be known as the 'Greyhound Six-Sixty,' and will be naturally home to the car after the many strict, severe tests to which it was put. These trials have been gratifying; they had to be satisfying. In speed and in its long, low, racy appearance, the new car rivals its namesake."

The marketing of an Oakland Six was no small undertaking. We couldn't afford to market an experiment. It had to be a "Six" that not only would be entitled to a place alongside the rest of the Oakland line, but be leading and have enough superior points of its own to be able to claim more than passing attention. In other words, the new car had to be as distinctive in comparison with the other Sixes on the market as have been our Fours.

"It was no easy task and it has required time. The factory started working on the 'Greyhound' two years ago. The work is finished. The first Sixes are coming through the factory, and model has come out to claim recognition. There is a place for such a car among the Sixes on the market today. It has given a good account of itself in many strenuous tests. It has been driven, summer and winter, on every sort of road. Through the snow and ice, from Pontiac to Buffalo and return, was one of the trips; from Detroit to Indianapolis and return. In record-breaking time, was another. Thousands of miles were covered over the hard roads of Michigan. All this has been done with but one thought—that of finding a single weakness.

"And the car proved itself equal to every demand made. Artistically, the car is a beauty. The body is of a graceful design, roomy, and is sure to meet the approval of the careful buyer. Being equipped with an electric lighting and ignition system, and a self-starter, it contains every necessity for the fullest enjoyment of the car. The body is in keeping, makes it luxurious for extended touring. Colors, blue or gray. There will also be built on this chassis a racingabout for two, which will sell at the same price. They are distinctive, beautiful models and deserve the consideration of prospective purchasers of motor cars."

"The most striking features of the 'Greyhound Six-Sixty, four, five, and six-cylinder' are the following: 4½-cylinder cast in pairs. Axles, front, 1-inch; rear, full floating type. The brakes are 16 inches, double internal; clutch, cone leather faced; pressed steel frame, double drop pattern. Lubrication is by splash system. Springs, front, semi-elliptic; rear, three-quarters elliptic. Tires, 34x1½, front and rear. Wheels are 24-inch. Standard equipment includes: leather upholstery, electric lighting and ignition system, self-starter, German silver radiator, V-shaped."

"There have been 252 motorcycle license issued this year in Lima, Ohio. This is double the number of machines from last year."

NEW STUDEBAKER IS CLEVER AUTO

The Electric Self-cranking and Lighting Device a Marvel of Power.

Just as the experts were lamenting the lack of style in motor cars in the new crop of major cars, along comes the Studebaker corporation with a feature so obviously good that everyone is wondering why it hasn't been in general use.

The innovation is a sealing arrangement which, while accommodating six adult passengers, instead of the conventional five, presents a rakish, graceful line. The interior is attained only by high-powered, four-cylinder motor.

The new Studebaker body is narrow, graceful and long, and avoids the high, flaring rear seat, common to the popular touring car. The ample room in the tonneau is occupied by four facing seats, the front pair of which, not in use, fold compactly and pivot against the sides, out of the way. This body will be the standard equipment on the Studebaker "35" and the Studebaker "38".

Another Studebaker novelty is an electric self-cranking and lighting device, declared a marvel of power and simplicity. It consists of a small motor connected with the motor by means of a silent chain. When the car is running, the electrical apparatus stores up current. The cranking operation is governed by a cable which is attached to the motor chain. With this cable held taut, the electric motor cranks the car indefinitely—for a half hour, if necessary—at a speed of 50 revolutions per minute.

ECONOMICAL CARS.

Sales Manager Benson declares that the new line enables Studebaker dealers to fill every possible want of their customers.

"The Studebaker '35' is a tremendously capable car, developing wonderful power with all the light slush out.

"The '38' is a large high-grade touring car, styled after every convenience and comfort. It is remarkably light for its size and power, and has gone through the toughest sort of tests with flying colors."

"The '35' represents just what every one expected a six-cylinder can put out by Studebaker. Like the other cars of the line, it has received a thorough test. Its flexibility is wonderful. It affords the greatest comfort and convenience in the car."

The three new Studebaker cars have similar radiator contours and are finished with dark, "Studebaker" blue bodies; chassis are black, bright parts are all silver. All have high-speed motor, equipped with a constant-level system of lubrication, a feature of which is a sight gauge on the dash, through which the oil flows constantly. A fore-and-aft steering device, a unique one, is standard. The cars are equipped with demountable tires carrying Goodyear tires—30x3½ for the Studebaker "35" and "38" and 32x3½ for the Studebaker "35" and "38". They are marketed with the equipment, including the "Silent" and "Jiffy" starters.

The relationship between the cars is emphasized on an unusual degree in a series of interchangeable features. Cylinder sizes of the "35" and the "38" employ the same chassis, back of the motor, including the full floating rear axle.

The Studebaker plants are completing the work of furnishing branches and dealers with a complete line of parts involving the production of 5,000 cars. As soon as all are supplied, delivery will be begun on the thousands of retail orders for these cars, already on the books of the corporation.

OSEN & MC FARLAND MOVE TO NEW HOME

The latest automobile company to leave the new civic center is the Osen & McFarland Automobile company, agent for the Mitchell cars. The new home is at 601 Golden Gate Avenue, and is ready to receive the public.

Mr. O. C. McFarland has decided to move to a new home, and installing it as it is moved, thus keeping up the efficiency of the noted Mitchell service. From word received from the factory, and under the present plans of moving operations, the new home will be just settled by the time the 1913 models arrive. They are on the road, and should reach this city sometime this coming week.

HAYNES COMPANY HAS NEW BRANCH

Los Angeles City Has Kokomo Factory Representation for Car Owners.

Los Angeles automobile row has an new member. A big factory branch, fully equipped and ready to meet the demands of the amazingly rapid growth of the automobile business in Southern California, was opened last week and its business is already under way. This time it is the Haynes Company which has realized what Southern California means to the automobile men. President W. B. Cochran of the Haynes Auto Sales Company, concluded his arrangements for the factory branch a day or so ago and at once set it a-going with C. F. Fletter in charge. It is located at 1226 South Olive street, and replaces the Haynes Agency of other days.

The change was brought about because of the increasing number of Haynes machines sold throughout this territory. So great have become the demands of the local agents that the attention of the factory was directed toward this field and Mr. Cochran hastened negotiations for the purchase of the interests of T. W. Brotherton Jr., former Haynes agent, and clear the way for the branch.

Mr. Cochran is enthusiastic over the outlook. He plans to make the expense to make the new establishment worthy of the regulation the car already has started itself. A full corps of mechanics trained in the Haynes factory will be added to his regular staff and the full advantage of factory knowledge and experience will be placed at the disposal of Haynes users therabouts.

This will be accomplished largely through the service department which has been organized for the new branch. Every possible contingency has been provided for in the way of extra parts and fittings and not a tap of work will be done in the department except by men who have had the business under the eyes of engineers who designed the car.

Cochran said yesterday that he was in line with the policy of the Haynes Auto Sales Company throughout its territory. Factory responsibility and factory service, he said, had proved the best way for owners and makers to agree as to the machines. The makers then are satisfied that owners will be given proper instruction as to their cars before they take them out and will be assured of expert service whenever they require it. Much of the reported motor trouble often to reach any factory, he said, is often due to a lack of knowledge of the construction of the car. The manufacturers have had to bear the blame when in reality an inexperienced mechanic was at fault. All that, the factory representative believe, is obviated by the branch system and service department.

The Haynes line this year is unusually complete. The car has been refined in many respects, every portion of it having received the attention of the engineers before the new models were allowed to leave the factory. The electric self-starting device with which all models are equipped, has been fully demonstrated under most trying conditions time and time again. The company has yet to hear of a failure.

All Haynes cars are electric lighted throughout in the 1913 models. In the closed cars, the lighting fixtures have been given especial attention from an artistic standpoint, harmonizing perfectly with the elegant lines of the cars. Already a tremendous business in the closed cars has been reported from San Francisco and elsewhere.

LEE TIRE MEN ARE POPULAR OFFICIALS

The announcement last week of the Lee tires being taken up by Chanslor and Lyon Motor Supply company, Pacific Coast Distributors, has met with favorable expression from the users, who favorably know the service policy of the firm which represents the factory on the coast.

Henry D. McCoy, head of Chanslor and Lyon Motor Supply company, in speaking of the new arrangement, said:

"While Mr. Lee is as well known as a manufacturer of rubber goods, yet connected with the company as the general selling agents, are two other noted men in the rubber industry. They are Charles F. Kelly and Harry E. Field. Kelly, the former president and organizer of the Kelly-Racing tire company, has been one of the best known tire men ever since bicycle days; being connected earlier with Hodgeson Rubber company, and B. F. Goodrich, Harry E. Field, who is at present president of the T. B. Jones company of New York, was previously vice-president and general sales manager of the Hartford Rubber company."

The Oakland

"Six-Sixty" Greyhound $2,700 Is Here

The Most Beautiful Car in the World

THERE are hundreds and more of various makes of automobiles—all similar in appearance—and there are the Oakland models—particularly the "Six"—cars so different, so beautiful, so individual, that if you saw every car made, you would pick the Oakland as the car of the group.

The Oakland is the first of the new era in motor car construction. To appreciate the full significance of this statement you must see the 1913 "Six."

But we do not stop here. We are not satisfied in producing the most beautiful car in the world.

We give you beauty you cannot see—beauty you can feel—beauty of construction—for the Oakland is as true inside, mechanically, as it is true outside artistically.

The Oakland is making automobile history and our platform and message for 1913 are so vital and important that everyone interested in automobiles should be acquainted with them.

Our platform is modern—progressive—for we have incorporated electric lighting and self-starting. The last of the motoring worries are over. In the 1913 Oakland they have been banished. You are trouble free—no more inconveniences—not even little ones.

1912 was a great Oakland year. 1913 promises greater things.

The Oakland car for 1913 warrants making this statement. We are building bigger cars and making improvements in refinements, in luxuries, in riding qualities and for the comfort of the passengers, but in the matter of principle of construction we stand "pat."

We are launching an Oakland six-cylinder chassis and also building a popular-priced car which will be known as Model 35.

These are being built in touring and runabout styles.

We are convinced that the universal satisfaction given by 1912 Oaklands proves that the simple plan of construction adopted by us last year is true, both mechanically and in efficiency. No single car during the past year received the unstinted praise which was given the Oakland. No car displayed such wonderful progress, especially in the matter of body design, each model representing individuality and beauty found in but few cars.

AUTO INDUSTRY HAS UNUSUAL SEASON

Chalmers Plant Not to Spare Time for Its Inventory.

The automobile industry is finding the 1912 season one of unusual prosperity, as evidenced by the reports of some of the leading companies. The presidential election seems to have had no effect on business conditions generally. Reports from all parts of the country are highly optimistic.

The Chalmers Motor Company, in writing to P. P. Birnegar of the Phoenix Automobile Company, says: "Sales were never so good. In August we had the largest single month's business in its history. September and October ran very closely, behind August, and November is looking good."

Especially do the 1912 motor car sales indicate unusual prosperity among farmers. Nearly all of the big agricultural districts show increases in sales of from 50 to 100 per cent.

Most of the cities are also well ahead of the same period of the 1912 season in actual sales.

Chalmers' business in general shows an increase over 1911 of nearly 45 per cent for the first four months.

"A single fact of the 1912 season is that the auto manufacturers are increasing their plant capacities."

The winter season, generally regarded as the slow season, finds few of the larger builders reducing. The Chalmers company, for instance, is running full capacity with many departments working a night as well as a day shift. The Chalmers plant will not even be shut down for the winter, it is said.

A most interesting feature of the 1912 business is the great advancement of the Pacific Coast and the Southwest as an automobile market. Of course, the western players are not in the same class of sales as the two territories, but the actual sales reported from California, Oregon, Texas, Missouri and Kansas indicate the truth of the statement. In the West, as in the East, the list of actual sales, the Chalmers company reports these ten cities in the lead: San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Antonio, New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City, St. Louis and Detroit.

"Foreign shipments are unusually strong. The American car that is expected to be in the company's line is the most popular. While representation in such points as Australia, New Zealand, Brazil, Argentina, Venezuela, South Africa, Ceylon and Phillips is strong, the Chalmers' foreign department is in close touch with export conditions. Shipments to those points are said to show an increase of about 75 per cent over 1911. Even though the car is doing a better business business than in 1912."

"Especially encouraging is the brilliant opening of the winter season. The Chalmers company has more cars ordered for winter delivery than ever before."

SEVENTY-EIGHT IS DRIVER'S AGE

Regal Owner Is Enthusiastic Motorist Despite His Years.

Automobiling is generally considered as a young man's occupation and pastime, which, if true, means that all automobileists are young men. San Francisco has an enthusiastic automobileist who is 78 years young. He is William J. Hardwick, who may be seen daily riding on the streets of San Francisco and surroundings for business and pleasure in a Regal Underwood touring car. Hardwick first became interested in motoring some four or five years ago, and at that time he entered a school and gained both a mechanical and general education, automobile. To use his own words, Hardwick says: "When I first became interested in automobiling I decided to enter the Healds school. Afterwards I looked around and examined several makes of cars with a view of buying. The Regal Underwood appealed most strongly to me for various reasons, and when I compared it with other cars I concluded that I was getting the most and the best for my money. The car had a good record and I had never had any trouble with it, and I go anywhere and everywhere I want to and I can take a hill with ease. Of course, I don't attempt to break any speed records, but neither do I loiter much on the way. I am in no danger of being arrested for obstructing the highways." Hardwick is a native of Alabama, but came to California from Missouri. He has lived in and around San Francisco nearly 50 years, and is as enthusiastic over California as any native. Some time ago he made a trip to Mexico, and was there at the outbreak of the late war. While there he met ex-President Diaz, of whom he speaks highly. He thinks that country has great possibilities and that the southern republic will shortly make great strides and believes the trade with this country, and especially San Francisco, will vastly increase.

KELLY TRUCK IS POPULAR. A brisk business in motor truck sales is forecasted by C. W. Broderick after a week's work with his Kelly-Springfield truck, the first car of that make to reach the Pacific coast. Buyers from several states and provinces now consider the purchase of motor trucks have called upon him and he believes that the motor truck business will become a gigantic one before many years have passed.

Broderick's claim of accessibility for his trucks carried great weight with the prospective buyers. He has been able to show that any portion of the mechanism, even the transmission, can be easily removed without difficulty and always met with close attention during his demonstration. The fact that the governing device on the car, which prevents the driver from shifting the gear, is sealed and cannot be tampered with on the road also has attracted attention.

Organ is expected this afternoon. His last stopping place was Denver. Horgan has been the king among the three-cushion players for some time. He won the title from the San Francisco player, Graney.

EASTERN CRITICS ARE AFTER M'FARLAND AS A QUITTER

Thinks He Sidestepped Match With Young O'Brien Fear-ing a Good Licking.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Philadelphia fight critics declare Packey McFarland is a full-fledged welterweight and that he has no right to pose as a lightweight boxer any longer. This assertion is the result of Packey's refusal to make reasonable figures for which O'Brien's brother, who is known in the ring as "Young" O'Brien, the contest was scheduled to take place last week, but it will not be held on account of McFarland's demands concerning his weight.

"Young" Jack O'Brien is not a legitimate lightweight boxer, but fights his best at 136 and 138 pounds. He had negotiated for a bout with McFarland and expected to be paid to make the figures mentioned. Terms were agreed and the bout and the fight was stated to come off this week before Jack McGuigan's club.

Young" Jack O'Brien is not a legitimate lightweight boxer, and is seeking a match with Ad Wolgast for the championship. They wonder how McFarland can ask O'Brien to meet him at 145 pounds when he is a bona fide lightweight fighter.

It is also reported from the East that

RACE WAXING WARM FOR PENNANT IN CITY LEAGUEYoungsters Playing Fast Ball and Scouts Are Looking Them Over.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The race for the championship of the City league is getting red hot so much so that the four managers are scouting the bushes for new players. Brooklyn is hot on the trail of Gekken and Hausey of Berkeley since "Swede" Riesberg failed him last Sunday.

Bart Burke has officially signed the two newest players, but they refused to report for winter ball. The report now is that both San Francisco and Port-Jane magnates want this pair to show their benders next Sunday. All the managers and officials of the Pacific Coast League will be attending the Sunday game prior to their departure to the Coast league meeting at Sacramento Monday next.

Gleiverson, the speed marvel of St. Paul, will play for Artie Benham, will appear in the Fraser Photos group on Sunday against Tony Blanco of Vallejo for Joe Solar's Ral-Nuts.

If the photographers can defeat the Candy Kids and the Jewels, can defeat the clowns, the four teams will be tied for first place. Probably this accounts for the efforts Burke and Brooklyn are making to stiffen their flinging force.

The Laird of the photo boys will not play any more ball this winter on account of stone bruises. He will spend the winter working on his father's mine in Humboldt county.

O'Hearn, the Clartons and Harper of the Fraser Photos are playing winter ball in Bakersfield. These are two good men. Harper has signed with Sacramento and O'Hearn has signed with Missoula. This makes room for two new comers.

Harry Hellman of the Fraser Photos has had numerous offers at a good, large salary to play professional ball. Hellman will not play the game for a living until he has a trade or is willing a deaf ear to the big league magnates.

"Swede" Riesberg has received a communication from Harry Hogan telling him not to listen to the tales to the effect that he had given up his right to the release of his contract still on the pension reserve list. There is no question about the release, as the "Swede" carried a letter from Hogan to that effect. It is pretty certain that Riesberg has signed a contract with the Clartons since his failure to show in the City league.

It is whispered that Nick Williams has signed young Walters, the hard hitting Clarion player, and Shortstop-Captain Sill.

Next Sunday's game between the Ral-Nuts with Captain Marty Murphy in command, vs. the Fraser Photos, with Captain Bart Burke in command, will be a hotly contested game. There is a great deal of pride involved in these two teams, and every inch of the way will be hotly contested.

The Morris Sweeney Indians, and the Squires with Splash Kennedy in charge, is sure to be great game. All the teams will have their star twirlers in line.

COAST LEAGUE MEN

BIG STICKFormer Californians Were Well
Up in Averages of Major League.

The Toronto team, winners of the International League pennant, captured the team batting honors for the season with an average of .292. The Baltimore team finished in second place, with the average of .283.

Outfielder Murphy of the Baltimore team had the highest individual batting honors in 122 games and made 394 hits in 61 times at bat.

Among the old Pacific Coast players, Fred Beck, the former San Francisco, with .300, and Eddie Schmitz, also of the Buffalo club, and who will be an Oakander next year, batted .313 in 104 games.

Jack Fournier, formerly of the Northwestern League, batted .306 in 106 games for Montreal. Cy Seymour, another player who is going to Los Angeles, hit .300 in 124 games for Newark. A fair average for the former veteran slugger of the National League.

Tommy Madden, the 1908 Portland catcher, batted .286 in twenty-seven games for Montreal. Arthur Bues of Buffalo, but once of the Seattle club, in 1911, found the going harder with Buffalo, bating .282 in 154 games.

Truesdale, who used to play with Oakland, but once of the Northwestern League in 1911, found the going harder with Buffalo, bating .282 in 154 games.

Ole Johnson, the home run hitter of the Portland 1909 team, only batted .264 for Newark in 171 games. Dick Green, once with Washington, batted .260 in 113 games for Jersey. Harry Schmitz, an old-time Oakander, batted .282 for the club. Jakey Atz, now of Providence, but a few years ago of Portland, batted .261 in 155 games. Harry Tracy, a former Sacramento player, batted .266 in 61 games for Providence.

Bob Vickery of Baltimore, an old Senator, played in 187 games for Washington to New York and then to the N.Y. in a few weeks batted .227 in 22 games for Providence. Minnelli, who closed the season with Sacramento, batted .197 in fourteen games with Buffalo.

NAPL LET OUT FOUR PLAYERS.

Four Cleveland American league players have been released. Captain Nauer, Artie Walter, Eddie Hunter, and Eddie Nash, the former Brown university shortstop, to Toledo, Ohio.

GATHERING OF WHITE HOPES FOREBODES WAR IN SOUTH

Rynn and McCarty Are Ready, While Al Palmer Will Gaze On From Ringside Next Tuesday Night

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—The white hopes are gathering and Los Angeles looms up prominently on the pugilistic map. With the arrival today of Al Palmer this city becomes the headquarters of three of the four Caucasians who are regarded as the men best entitled to strive for the laurels which public opinion has forced Jack Johnson to relinquish.

At that it is scarcely correct to refer to all the big men who have an eye on the championship as white hopes. The term white hope suggests that the fellow who is designated as such has not been born to the ring, but has sprung from the provinces well. Lester McCarty, Al Palmer and English Bomber Jim Wells are white hopes beyond any chance of argument, but Jim Flynn of Pueblo is really a white hope.

Flynn is to box McCarty at the Vernon arena Tuesday night. The affair is spoken of as the first great struggle in the white hope war, but as a matter of fact it will be fought between a white hope and the most formidable trial horse in the heavyweight division.

If Flynn triumphs the next big match will be a white hope-trial horse contest. If McCarty defeats Flynn it will be fought between the two who have not been confined to the white hope division.

Flynn and McCarty are practically through with their training. Flynn has followed the same course of preparation as McCarty, but the former is as full as zip as an India rubber ball and is as rough as ever with his sparring partners. It isn't that he wants to be mean, but because he loves to crowd up the small and has never learned to differentiate between practice boxing and boxing for purses.

FANS LIKE LUT MCARTY.

That McCarty has impressed the fight followers of this section is shown by the betting. Ordinarily when a proven man like Flynn is to go against a comparative novice the odds are 10 to 1, but in this case McCarty is in favor of the old timer. In this instance McCarty, on the strength of his work alone, was installed first choice at odds of 10 to 8 and held that position in the market until a day or two ago. Tonight the heavyweights are selling even.

The belief that McCarty has the punching power of the John L. Sullivan of the early eighties has had much to do with his popularity. The fans like him again his condition, pleases the crowds who visit the training camp at Venice. For a big man he shows a wonderful fondness for work. He is as lively in the closing moments of an afternoons work as he is in the early morning and after particularly close observation the experts have concluded that big Luther is wind perfect.

But is his wonderful punch may be a factor, but there is another in their favor to Flynn, argues that McCarty has a poor defense. They say Flynn will keep the big man off his balance from going to work and will beat him.

There is no secret about Flynn's weight. Manager Jack Curley says the Flynn is 185 pounds, but he weighs 190. Flynn does not look it. He gave it out at Las Vegas that he was 185 pounds. In his training with Johnson, he is lighter, not than he was in New Mexico and the chances are he does not weigh more than 185 pounds.

McCarty will probably weigh 205 pounds when he faces Flynn. In addition to this advantage he will tower over the flyman several inches.

The arrival of Al Palmer and his manager, the veteran Tom O'Rourke, caused quite a commotion in sporting circles. Palmer is a boyish looking thin his photos suggest.

It is O'Rourke's intention to select some secluded training camp where Palmer can train for his New Year's day match with the winner of the Flynn-McCarthy affair.

Palmer is a good athlete, but he is only a youngster and not much of a boxer," explained O'Rourke.

"Besides, he is still schooling him in some of the tactics used in boxing and I want to have as much privacy as possible."

Palmer at the present time weighs 220 pounds. He fights at 220. He stands six feet three inches, having an inch and a half the year.

"Now with Johnson out of the way the white hopes will have a great time deciding the championship," said O'Rourke. "It was a lucky thing that the white hopes that Johnson was forced out of the business. I want to say that Palmer never side-stepped Johnson. Al would fight Johnson any time but would not do it for money. Palmer is the fastest big man we have seen in many years and naturally I look for him to win the world's championship."

ST. MARY'S CHAMPIONS TO GET REAL TEST ON BATTLEFIELD

Coach Rittler Will Have His Charges in Double-header at Campus Today.

St. Mary's college will play a double-header baseball game today at St. Mary's campus. At 10:15 the college team will meet the crack Monarch nine of East Los Angeles. In the afternoon at 2:30 they will stalk up against the College Outfitting Company nine. Graduate Manager Russell will send a light team against the Monarchs in the first game, and an all-out team in the afternoon contest with the Independents in the second. The Catholic college has participated in five games in the past couple of weeks and has made a clean sweep of the bunch, coming out with the long end of the score in each. In the Monarchs' case, the Indians will find worthy opponents and followers of the game will not be doing an injustice to go out and witness the teams in action.

As already stated, McCarty was favorite on a day or two ago. It is said that Nat Goodwin was responsible for the run on McCarty in the first place.

The famous comedian placed a commission of $500 on McCarty's services, but with instructions to let the money be his best advantage. Quite a number of small bettors followed the Goodwin lead but now the market has settled with the men selling at even money.

THEY REMEMBER FLYNN.

The belief that McCarty has the punching power of the John L. Sullivan of the early eighties has had much to do with his popularity.

When he comes to town again his condition, pleases the crowds who visit the training camp at Venice. For a big man he shows a wonderful fondness for work. TO OCCUPY NEW CITY HALL IN FEBRUARY

GRANITE WALLS OF MUNICIPAL STRUCTURE ARE COMPLETED

Contractors Are to Hasten Work of Putting in Temporary Offices to Be Occupied Early in New Year

Granite work has been completed on the new City Hall and workmen are busily engaged on stonework and other portions of the interior of the building. The first three stories are being fitted to be used as temporary headquarters for the municipal departments now housed in the old City Hall.

The completion of the main portion of the exterior stone work of the building has been put through in record-breaking time. In setting the stone the masons worked at two levels at the same time, which has not before been done on any building on the Pacific Coast. Stone work was being set simultaneously at the seventh and fourteenth floors just as far from the time the excavation for the foundations of the municipal skyscraper was commenced.

TO REMOVE CELLS.

It is estimated that the departments housed in the old city hall, the mayor's office, the city clerk, the office of commissioners of public health and safety and of public works, the office of the chief of police, civil service board, city expert accountant, and the city jail, will be moved to the new city hall by the middle of February. The old hall will then be torn down, and it is figured that this obstacle to the opening of Washington street will be removed by March 1.

TO MOVE IN FEBRUARY.
The temporary offices to be installed in the first three floors of the City Hall will be ready for occupancy early in February. If the present plans are carried through, in many cases this will mean that the walls will not have been plastered and that tongue and groove or wood panelled walls will be used for the offices.

Commissioner of Public Works Harry E. Anderson has instructed contractors to hasten the work of putting in the temporary offices, as merchants of Washington streets are anxious for the removal of the old City Hall which now lies in the path of the opening of Washington street north to San Pablo avenue. As soon as the temporary offices are ready, the departments will be removed with as great expedition as possible from the old building and the work of razing the old ramshackle structure to the ground will be commenced. The Dunn building at Fifteenth street and San Pablo avenue is now being wrecked to permit of the extension of Washington street.

It is estimated that the departments housed in the old city hall, the mayor's office, the city clerk, the office of commissioners of public health and safety and of public works, the office of the chief of police, civil service board, city expert accountant, and the city jail, will be moved to the new city hall by the middle of February. The old hall will then be torn down, and it is figured that this obstacle to the opening of Washington street will be removed by March 1.

TO REMOVE CELLS.

One of the problems that has faced Commissioner Anderson in planning temporary headquarters in the new City Hall has been the housing of the city prisoners. The old jail will hold about 150 prisoners, and the average in the cells runs from 85 to 115. In the new City Hall space has been left for headquarters for the fire department, but as the fire department is now taken care of in various outside firehouses, this will not be called into immediate use for its ultimate purpose. It is planned to use this space for the temporary city jail.

The cells now in use in the old city jail will be taken in sections, removed to the new headquarters, set in place and bolted down. The prisoners will then be removed.

IN OUR CITY

Demand for medium-priced properties by outsiders and Oakland investors is one of the satisfactory tendencies of the local realty market. It is reported by brokers that there are enough of these inquiries to make the movement an important one, and that numerous sales are being made. The scramble for advantageous locations in or near the new retail district is fairly on, and many merchants who are not erecting buildings or having them put up are leasing modern business accommodations. The leasing action has been unusually marked during the autumn months. There is still a scarcity of suitable business and office structures, but the numerous buildings now under construction, or planned, will aid greatly in filling the demand.

An increase in mortgages and deeds of trust, embracing real estate loans in the county, is reported for November. The loans amounted to $2,649,566.72, as compared with $2,682,661.93 for October.

As marked as the continued improvement of the Grand Avenue and Vernon Heights districts at the hands of the builder is the guarding of the interests of the localities by improvement organizations. There are two of these bodies north of Lake Merritt, and both have outlined betterment campaigns that will require enterprise and energy to follow up. Adequate lighting is one of the principal objects of effort on the part of the Grand Avenue club members. A "spotless town" crusade has been started by the Vernon Heights residents. The women are taking an interest in the affairs of this organization.

Charles G. Yale, known as the father of improvement clubs in Oakland, is an avowed enemy of the weed in the vacant lots in front of dwellings. He declares that the weed is one of the greatest deterrents to any district and one of the first problems with which the improvement body has to deal. Trees that hang over the sidewalks, and broken fences and sidewalks are also branded as eyesores by Yale, and he declares that residents should combine in their efforts against them.

Real estate men of Oakland are taking notice of the fight against the billboard in this city, which has been taken into the City Council through the introduction of an ordinance, which has been declared too drastic by that body. Petitions are now before the voters of the city. There are residence sections of Oakland that would prove far more attractive to home-seekers and investors if freed from gaudy signs.

Of even greater importance than park creation and improvement in the residence districts is the extension of car-lines, in connection with the upbuilding of outlying portions of the city. The trolley is demanded first, and it is not until a section has been well built up that a park is regarded as essential. The improvement of ferry railway transportation in East Oakland is being followed by periodical extensions of car-lines, which are fast threading this rapidly growing region of the small-home dweller. The latest extension to be announced is that of the line on East Sixteenth street, which is to be built eastward on that thoroughfare from Thirteenth avenue to Talcott avenue, to Twenty-fifth avenue; to the Foothill boulevard, to Courtland avenue, to Igacado avenue, and terminating at Park Avenue. An advantage outside of offering better accommodation to suburban visitors will be the removal of many street cars from crowded East Fairmont street.

West Oakland, in the vicinity of Sixteenth street, has increased in importance as a residence section on account of the recreation advantages offered by Fremery Park, which is under the direction of the municipal park commission and playground authorities. The club-house, in the center of this breathing spot, is to be the center of neighborhood life, and many homes, especially on the north side of Sixteenth street, near the Southern Pacific depot, will profit by the addition of parks and training of the children during play hours. Every new park established in the city improves the quality of home life in the nearby neighborhoods.

The Realty Syndicate is having made an unusual map of the city of Oakland, upon which work has been in progress for almost a year. The map is about three-fourths finished. The map will show every business building in Oakland in bird's-eye perspective, and is costing the Syndicate several thousand dollars.

The roof material is being poured on the Kahn arcade department store building on San Pablo avenue, Broadway and Sixteenth street, which is to be completed next summer. The entire steel frame will soon be covered with an outer facing of ornamental brick similar to that used in the Hotel Oakland.

Demolition of experts but ancient buildings to make room for modern structures is becoming an ordinary proceeding and shows the value of building sites in the down-town district. The Bell theater structure has just been razed to furnish a location for the Frank J. Woodward building, and the work of demolishing a three-story frame lodging house has been completed, and excavation begun on the site for the seven-story Newell estate building at the northeast corner of Twentieth street and San Pablo avenue. A two-story building was torn down where the Layman's three-story modern business structure is being completed on the east side of Broadway, adjoining the Security Bank and Trust Company building on the corner at Eleventh street. Of course, no building will replace the Hotel Merritt, a landmark, which is being demolished at the northeast corner of Fifteenth street and San Pablo avenue to allow the extension of Washington street, but on the Dunn estate property of which the hotel and land was a part, a thirteen-story office building is to be erected by the United Cigar Stores Company, which has leased the corner of Fifteenth and Franklin and Twelfth streets, which originally cost a large sum but which had to be torn down to give way to a more modern building.

A decrease in the amount of realty loans is shown by the report of County Recorder G. W. Bacon for the week ending Wednesday evening. The total of mortgages and deeds of trust was $607,125 as compared to $687,966 the week previous. There is an increase, however, over the figures for two weeks ago, which were $573,936. The nearness of the holiday season is held accountable for the decline in loan transactions.

Police officials say that the decrease in crime by juveniles has been remarkable since these playgrounds were established. Oakland believes in caring for the health and morals of its future citizens. This is an expression of one of the basic ideals on which Oakland has been built as a distinctive city. It is worth while to preserve the individuality of a community with such ideals.

The report for Ahmed's report, compiled by George W. Austin for the month of November and October, 1912, is as follows:

November was another record month for building in Oakland, the cost of construction as shown by the building permits issued, being $987,294, as compared to $810,046 for the corresponding month of 1911. Of the total sum there was spent $751,978 for new construction and $235,216 for alterations, additions and repairs, 235 permits in all being granted. Several contracts for new city buildings were awarded in November. One was also awarded for a seven-story reinforced concrete office building costing $75,000 and a reinforced concrete school building to cost $150,000. BUILDING IN FUTURE TO BE ON A LARGE SCALE

BACCUS FAVORS OPENING OF JEFFERSON STREET

After telling the Downtown Improvement Club about street improvements at a meeting held Thursday evening, Street Commissioner William J. Baccus referred to other benefits to the district bounded by Market and Fallon streets, the esplanade and Twelfth street. On the subject of street openings, he said:

"If we expect to make this business district we must make it accessible to the other parts of the city. The opening of Washington street has been a great benefit to parts of this district. This will show clearer with in the next few months, when the Dunn building and the old city hall are torn down and the extension is paved. It seems to me that the opening of Jefferson street to San Pablo avenue would also help this district nearly as much as the opening of Washington street."

"Besides the street improvements recently made or that should be made, are several in progress that are of great benefit to this section. First, might mention the City Hall and the Auditorium, both of which have been located on the edge of the district instead of being placed farther out, as many people suggested. I consider the final location of both buildings to be the best solution of the question."

"Another improvement of great importance is the quay wall along the esplanade. The city engineer tells me that the contractor are making good progress and will be thorough with the wall next spring."

"Within a short time after that date the dredging will be done between the wall and the government channel, the street and the railroad track back of the wall will be built and by next fall freight can be handled. The location of this wall, recycling and discharging freight so near the heart of the city, will surely be a tremendous benefit."

BUILDING LIVELY ON ROCK RIDGE

Home Construction Follows
Beautification of Park of Artists.

"One thing that always arouses the favorable comment of people who visit the Rockridge properties is the careful attention that has been paid to detail in the working out of the development scheme of the tract," said F. E. Reed of the Layman's Real Estate Company this week. Thousands of dollars have been spent on little things here and there, in order that Rockridge might go before the public as a finished piece of work in residence park development. That this policy has been successful in every way has been proved by the steady record of sales.

"The time has gone by when a few streets, a few blocks of sidewalks and a few flowers planted here and there were all that was necessary in the way of preparing a residence property for sale. Especially, where a piece of high-class foothill property like Rockridge is concerned, the people have come to know the difference between a development plan that is based on a sincere desire to bring out the full value and beauty of a property and a plan that is devised merely to satisfy casual inspection while the agent talks of the prospect. This fact has been recognized in Rockridge, where the work of preparing the property for sale to home-seekers has been made an art in itself, and that has done much toward advertising Rockridge as a place of beautiful homes built in the midst of a splendid residence park.

"Every home that has been built in Rockridge has been distinctive. The character of the homes is guaranteed by the restrictions, which are a part of the deeds to the lots out there. Those same restrictions insure in a dozen other ways the perpetuity of the property as a beautiful residence park and nothing else."

"Building on a number of homes is going actively forward. The beautiful home of Captain McClurg on Prospect Drive is about ready for occupancy, and that of Mr. Wessell, on the same street, is being finished in record time. Other houses on the eastern side of the tract are nearly completed, and plans for setting up new ones are being drawn, to be finished about the time the Oakland and Antioch begin its twenty-minute service to San Francisco."

HEALTH TO ACT AS DIVORCE CHECK

After Pedigrees of Our Descendants.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. Dec. 7.—"When American life is guided by a standard of health rather than a standard of wealth, as we see it today, we shall have 'pedigreed marriages,' marriages which I believe will solve many of the perplexing questions of our so-called modern civilization."

This interesting prediction was made here today by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University in discussing the future of a department of national health, which measure is before Congress for action.

As president of the committee of 100 on national health, composed of the most noted men of the country, which has for its chief object the establishment of this department, where human health may be made a matter of equal importance to the health of animals, Fisher has made an exhaustive study of the subject.

"When public opinion has been sufficiently developed on this point," said Fisher, "we shall take as great a pride and as great an interest in our own pedigrees and the pedigrees of those whom our sons and daughters marry as we do today in the blue ribbon history of our dogs and horses."

"Human heredity is now dependent on haphazard selection. Little attention is paid by those who contemplate marriage as to how much stamina, how much physical beauty shall be transmitted to the next generation."

"Health marriages, or marriages where the health of both parties has been considered before marriage, I feel sure, will result in a decreased number of divorces."

The athletic girl, the intellectual girl today has a better chance to marry than the pale-faced type who lolls around all day reading novels. The girl who rolls up her sleeves and plays golf is preferred by men today to the vapid type of girls. Athletic marriages are rapidly increasing in this country.

"As a result of a fashion where health is an essential endowment to matrimony, a larger percentage of healthy persons will marry, leaving a larger percentage of unhealthy persons single."

FACTORY COMMITTEE BUSY ORGANIZATION

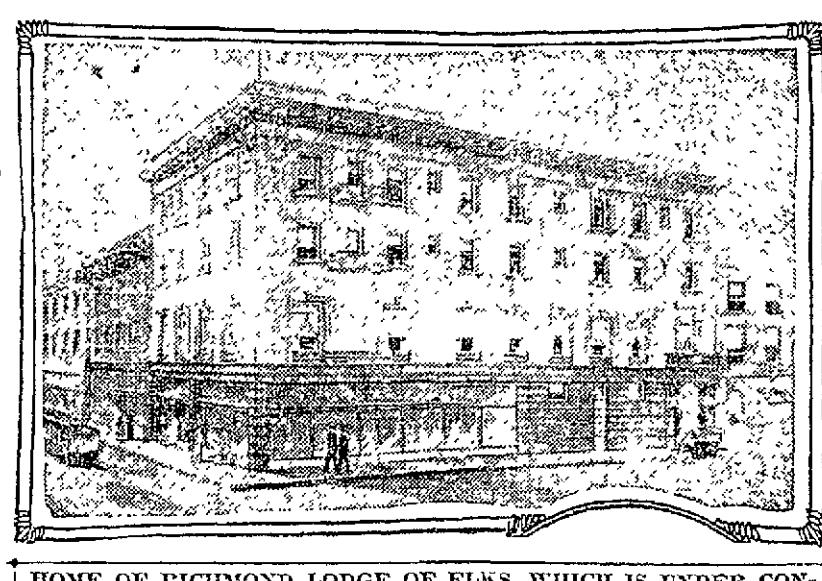

The activities of the manufacturers' committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, for the year, are shown by the following from the report of the secretary of the committee, Frederick Boogier Jr.:

"The work of the committee has included various visits to local manufacturing plants, banquets and lectures; the fight for home industry in the expenditure of bond issues; a successful effort to secure a direct steamship connection with northern points through the establishment of the Charles Nelson line; a readjustment of freight rates within local corporate limits; distinct improvements in postal facilities; an agitation to secure entrance into the territory of the Northwestern Pacific railroad; the securing of preferential clearing of local specimens; 1,000,000,000 in local pledges favoring home industries and labor from builders and a compilation of all the industrial statistics of county to be published in the near future."

$780 IS RECEIVED FOR WASHINGTON AUTOGRAPH

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—The sum of $780, which was paid for an autographed letter of Martha Washington, was the highest price realized at the sale of Danforth Autographs, which concluded today at Freemans. Although the collection embraced many fine letters of General Nathaniel Green, Colonel Henry John Paul Jones, John Adams, Ralph Izard, George Washington and Martha Washington and the correspondence of Edmund Charles Genet, minister from France to the United States, and James Campbell, postmaster-general, the sale was made at a rate of $1,000,000 and about $4000 was realized from it.

RICHMOND ELKS MAKE RECORD BUILDING HOME

HOME OF RICHMOND LODGE OF ELKS, WHICH IS UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT RICHMOND, CONTRA COSTA COUNTY.

RICHMOND, Dec. 7.—Richmond Lodge of Elks is proud of its new building, in course of erection, and of its record in building a home within a year after organization of the lodge. The structure, which is located on a prominent corner, will soon be completed, and there will be a joyous house-warming event.

The lower floor is to be divided into stores, which have already been leased. A large banquet hall and grill will be located in the basement. James T. Narbett of Richmond is the architect.

PROGRESS PARAGRAPHS

(FROM OAKLAND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BULLETIN.)

A good place to begin to teach loyalty is at home. Teach your children to love My City, Oakland.

Some men are born great, others achieve greatness by striving for the welfare of their city. If the printing used in Oakland was done in this city, there would be five hundred more homes here.

It's easy enough to be pleasant when you are an Oakland booster.

Patronize home industries and contribute to home development.

Is the man who is a traitor to his city less reprehensible than a man who is disloyal to his country? Professor Seely says that in the Greek mind the city and the state were so identified that loyalty to one involved loyalty to the other, and true patriotism meant devotion to both.

Lincoln once said, "I believe that a

THREE JAILED IN VICE CRUSADE

Witness Who Fled From Portland Is Captured in Vancouver.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 7.—Captures considered of immense importance to the juvenile court in the prosecution of the vice clique have been made in Vancouver. E. C. Roy Kadel, formerly a mail carrier, and Fred Clark, employed as a bookkeeper at a furniture store, are now on their way to Portland in custody.

Kadel was one of the first who commenced the crusade, he implicated a dozen others, and was given his choice of "turning states' evidence" at the coming trial or being a defendant.

He promised testimony and was released. He immediately disappeared. Clark's baggage was captured when he fled and photographs among his effects have assisted the authorities in identifying a number of suspects.

Del V. Monger was arrested today and held in default of $2000 bonds. Monger has been implicated by Howard Bateman, one of three suspects brought from Seattle yesterday.

WOULD REOPEN TOLLS DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—President Taft today received from Benjamin E. Wheeler, president of the Oregonian, a petition signed by Mr. Wheeler and many other Californians importuning the President to reopen the Panama canal tolls dispute between the United States and Great Britain.

When asked tonight if he would move by the petition he said that the case would not be reopened, as the government would not enter into a discussion of the tolls question, his attitude regarding the petition is regarded as indicative that he will not need any protest Great Britain will make. The former British protest is expected to be presented soon.

POWER COMPANY WILL ENTER SAN JOAQUIN

STOCKTON, Dec. 7.—The company which is preparing to enter San Joaquin county to supply electric power for power and lighting has filed an application with the supervisors for a blank franchise for a pole line in this country. The supervisors advertised the same.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Frank J. Krause, the world's professional motorcycle champion and holder of the American title for twelve years, successfully defended his title tonight at Madison Square Garden when he decisively beat Joe Barker of Brooklyn, and Gordon Walker of Australia in the final heat of the mile race which was the big feature of the two night's carnival which preceded the annual six day race.

Charlie Stein, the intrepid motor cyclist, undaunted by his narrow escape of Friday night, was again on the track in a return race with Jimmy Hunter, but was beaten in a two-mile race because of motor trouble.

Lloyd Thomas of Salt Lake captured the one-mile professional handicap.

Edith Root of Boston won the two-mile professional race in two straight heats. Time 3 minutes, Percy Lawrence of Salt Lake was second.

DRIVES ALONG ROAD WITH AUTO ON FIRE

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 7.—Transmissions that big auto manufacturers have been making to the public, that the car will not catch fire, have been proved to be false.

John Paul Jones, John Adams, Ralph Izard, George Washington and Martha Washington and the correspondence of Edmund Charles Genet, minister from France to the United States, and James Campbell, postmaster-general, the sale was made at a rate of $1,000,000 and about $4000 was realized from it.

TWO STABBED IN FIGHT ON TRAIN

Half Dozen Men Engage in a Rough-and-Tumble Combat in Key Route Car.

Resenting an insult to his wife on a late Key Route train from San Francisco last night, Ernest Crabtree, a resident of this city, started a fight which involved half a dozen men in a free-for-all and resulted in two men being badly cut and in one of the passengers in the train. The men fought in a battle with knives and fists and clubs, knocking each other across seats and pursuing one another down the center aisle of the train. Several women were slightly injured in escaping from the frantic fighters and the whole car was placed in a turmoil.

Frank Flores, a Mexican from Bakersfield, received the most dangerous injuries, knife wounds in the head and wrist. Flores was taken to the Receiving hospital suffering from the wounds and from a heavy loss of blood. He was unconscious at a late hour and unable to make a statement to Captain of Inspectors Lou F. Agnew, who visited the hospital to question the man.

SEARCH IS BEGUN.

The police were notified of the stabbing affray, and after giving orders for the removal of Flores to the hospital, engaged in a lively manhunt in West Oakland to capture the other participants. Captain Charles Bock caused the redlight signal to be flashed to the patrolmen, and received word that Crabtree and David Brooks, a friend, had left the train at Twenty-second and Adeline, and had taken a car.

The two men attempted to block the pursuit by changing from car to car, but they were finally arrested by Captain Bock and his men on a Fourteenth streetcar on their way down town. Crabtree and Brooks were taken to the city prison, where they were placed in separate cells. They will be held in definite pending an investigation of the circumstances of the case.

Mrs. Crabtree, it is understood, was taken to her home in Oakland by a friend. Crabtree, before starting on his run to evade the police, made arrangements to have his wife taken home.

CRABTREE WOUNDED.

Crabtree was trailed easily, as he was suffering from several knife wounds said to have been inflicted by the Mexican and his friends. Cuts across the left wrist and arm and a slash across the back of the right hand were suffered by Crabtree. Brooks received only minor bruises from mixing in the stabbing affray.

The cutting occurred on the Key Route train in its way from the pier to Oakland about 11 o'clock last night. A large crowd was coming from San Francisco, and Crabtree, who was with his wife, became involved with a rowdy group of men as he was leaving the ferry to take the train. One of the men lured into Mrs. Crabtree, and Crabtree gave the man his elbow and sent him staggering to one side of the apron.

The trouble continued on the train, where Flores is said by Crabtree to have insulted his wife. The fight started suddenly, and in a moment drawn clasp knives were flashing in the air, and the men were engaged in a hand-to-hand stabbing duel. Friends of both interceded but not until both men had received severe injuries.

GUTS DOWN U. S. APPROPRIATIONS

Fowler Has Items Stricken From Legislative, Executive and Judicial Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The house today nearly completed consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial bill and it is expected the bill will be passed Monday.

Representative Fowler of Illinois succeeded in having stricken from the bill the item providing an assistant chief clerk of the war department at a salary of $4,000 and chief clerk and solicitor of the judge advocate general's office at a salary of $2,500. Fowler contended that there are no such positions. He also obtained a reduction of $250 each in the salaries of the chief clerks in the offices of the surgeon general and chief of engineers. The clerks will get $2,000 a year each.

Representative Stephens of Texas, chairman of the House Indian Affairs committee, reported the Indian appropriation bill, carrying a total of $8,132,028.35. This is about $1,000,000 less than the appropriation of last year. No provision is made for new Indian schools.

Representative Kinkaid of New Jersey introduced a bill to amend the National Bankruptcy act.

In the senate Senator Clapp introduced a bill to limit the expenditure of national committees in presidential and congressional elections. It provides that the funds shall be expended only for speakers, literature and advertising and no money shall be sent from one state to another to advance the candidacy of any person.

The senate again considered the omnibus bill without reaching an agreement.

It was announced that Jacob H. Schiff and C. A. Pugsley, president of the National Bankers' association, will be called before the Money Trust investigating committee on Monday and Ambassador Myron T. Herrick will appear before the house sub-committee on banking and currency next week to give his views on currency reform.

AUTO DEMOLISHES FRONT OF STORE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The entire front of the store of H. Schrin, 2592 Polson street, was demolished by an automobile which crashed into the premises this morning. The machine swerved at the corner and ran upon the sidewalk, shattering the plate glass window and knocking down boxes in the interior of the establishment. Before anyone could interfere the man at the wheel backed out, turned his car around and sped away.

ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—M. Simon, of 319 Grant avenue, secured a warrant from Police Judge Deasy today for the arrest of William Newman. The accused is alleged to have embezzled $50.

Quick Action Prescription Cures Colds in a Day

The best and quickest prescription known to medical science for colds and coughs is as follows: "From your drug store get two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globus Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). Take these two liquids home and mix them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake it well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age. Be sure to add a few drops of Clove Oil to the Compound (Concentrated Pine). Each half ounce bottle comes in a thin screw-top sealed case. Any druggist has it on hand or will quickly get it from his wholesaler. It is a much more cheaper preparation of large quantity but it doesn't pay to experiment. This treatment is certain cure. This has been published here for six winters and no reader says it has no equal.

SECOND-STORY MAN MAKES ANOTHER RAID

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The Richmond district porch climber moved in a little nearer to the heart of the city last night and raided the premises of Arthur Conlon, 714 Broderick street. He climbed an electric light pole, which was in the back yard of the residence, and leaped to a second-story window. The family were on the lower floor, but Conlon heard the man at work. He hurried upstairs only to find that the burglar had locked the door from the inside. The thief leaped again to the pole and slid to the ground and safety. He had gathered up $30 in jewelry.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FOLK

The Butterfly Ball

EDGE DEAREST: If you had seen your little sister last evening, you would have rubbed your eyes and looked again—unable to believe that plain little I was I in all the gorgousness of a new gown, in the exquisite setting provided by Mrs. Ashton by her now famous butterfly ball.

You will be interested to receive accounts of it I am including, clipped from various newspapers. It was indeed "brilliant social success," as the society reporter has aptly put it. It was even more; a distinct novelty in the way of entertainment and the most colorful spectacle I have ever witnessed.

Imagine, if you can, a large ballroom covered end to end in a garden by the use of palms and greenery, and literally alive with brilliant-hued butterflies, which quivered and thrashed in the flower-scented air as if they were actually alive, flying about on their gossamer wings from one honey-laden blossom to another.

They were reallyunningly made of rice paper and chenille, then suspended from the ceiling by the finest of twisted wires, which allowed them to sway in the air like living things.

All the decorations were butterflies; the dance cards were of satin lettered in gold; even the ices were replicas of butterflies clasping some lovely flower.

But I must hasten and tell you about the lovely gowns I saw there, for I think every woman has her favorite.

Our hostess wore a French model (she confided to me that it had just arrived from Paris) of intensely blue charmeuse, and black satin. The bodice was slightly draped into a high girdle of satin, revealing a V-shaped vest of the same. It was fastened with numerous buttons which was certainly a most smart pannier draperies effect. This drapery had a wide border of cut jet, laid on in even rows, and the same effect was carried out on the lower portion of the charmeuse overdrapes. The under-skirt was black satin.

A deep red velvet poppy added the brilliant touch of color that is distinctly Parisian.

Dorothy's frock of maize-colored chiffon had an overdrapery of a deeper-hued satin, forming points on each side of the front, then falling in a short pannier over the hips. Note how strong is the pannier mode—and it is growing in strength every day.

Small rolls of lace bordered bands of embroidered trimming which encircled the skirt, joining in front with bows and short festoons of beads. It was one of the smartest frocks for a debutante that I have seen this season.

Colored gloves have come into their own again. Gloves that match the gown, with few exceptions, were worn at the ball, as they will be throughout the winter.

Elsie was charming in pale-blue silk tissue over a pastel shade of charmeuse. The outlining girdle on the bodice was of narrow black velvet, and the skirt was draped up on the side with a narrow strip of tissue headed with jet.

She is indeed a picture girl, and I must know about my own gown. It is flame-colored chiffon over white satin, with a deep hem border of black. Both bodice and skirt are draped toward the side—but just how is impossible to explain. You will have to see the gown.

It is a lining of black around the neckline gives my neck and shoulders that creamy loveliness as much to be desired. It has lace sleeves and a black girdle. More I cannot tell you now, for Robert, Sr. is calling me and I must hasten to administer to his needs. That is my wifely duty.

An revolt, sister mine. Let me hear soon from thee and thine.

ELEANOR.

BONAR LAW NOT SUCCESS AS LEADER

National Convention Takes Action in Turning Down Politician.

Simply Floor Leader of Lower House; Younger Men Only Follow Him.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—At the autumn conference of the National Unionist Association, when the platform of the Unionist Party was confirmed, it was made very clear that should there be a change of Government in the United Kingdom, the task of forming the cabinet would fall upon the shoulders of Lord Lansdowne and not upon Bonar Law.

During the past few months, as all the fighting has been in the House of Commons, and attention has been attracted to that house more than to the House of Lords, Unionists as well as Liberals have come to regard Bonar Law as actually, if not technically, leader of his party, as well as of that part of it which sits in the House of Lords. At the moment, however, it was Lord Lansdowne, not Bonar Law, who was chosen to make the important announcement in regard to the policy of the party, a duty which invariably falls to the leader of the party. Law, it will be remembered, was chosen leader of the party. In the American sense he is simply floor leader in the lower House, and he obtained that position because the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionist elements of what is now known officially as the Unionist Party could not control their differences and elect either of their leaders, Austen Chamberlain or Walter Long, to the place.

Bonar Law has not been a great success as a leader, and therefore the action of the national convention in turning down his claim to be the leader of the party in the country. Law's direct manner pleases and arouses the younger element in his party. The great bulk of the old-line Conservatives, however, prefer the old quiet style of which Mr. Balfour was the exemplar, and while they do not openly oppose, they privately object to the somewhat exaggerated views expressed by Law on what will happen in Ulster if Home Rule is passed, for example, or his support of the noisy interruptions in parliament, who the other evening pelted the Prime Minister with paper and in other ways acted in a manner unbecoming members of parliament.

The opposition by Lord Lansdowne or the leadership of the party also indicates that his health, which last summer was feared had broken down, has since greatly improved.

SILENT ON REFERENDUM.

It was also rather marked that at the convention no motion was made of the referendum, which was to precede the introduction of tariff reform, or tariff for revenue only, should the Unionists be returned. During the last election Mr. Balfour, who is not a very ardent tariff reformer, was induced by what is known as the advisory committee of the party, consisting of three London editors, to say that should the Unionists succeed in the election the question of tariff reform should be referred to a vote of the people. Bonar Law, who at the time was running for a Manchester constituency, where tariff reform is not popular, and generally all the leaders and active members of the party took up the idea and in this way brought Unionist free traders back into the fold. Joseph Chamberlain, the chief apostle of tariff reform, and his son, Austen Chamberlain, were the only prominent Unionists who repudiated the idea of a referendum, and declared, so far as their influence went, the return of the Unionists would mean the immediate introduction of a measure embodying the policy for which they had fought. Now the party in convention has adopted their view of the matter.

PLANS OUTLINED.

The other planks of the party platform were thus outlined by Lord Lansdowne:

Restoration of the British Constitution, by which he means the repeal of the Parliament act, which deprived the Lords of their power of veto and the substitution of a measure reforming the upper House.

The maintenance of the Union with Ireland, coupled with the continuation of a generous policy to Ireland, part of which remains part and parcel of the upper House.

Men so Scarce That Hostesses Pay for Their Presence at Afternoon Affairs.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)
(By CHESTER OVERTON.)
LONDON, Dec. 7.—Men are so scarce at afternoon tea parties that their presence has to be paid for. Astonishing disclosures regarding this growing practice, among the fashionable hostesses have been made by Miss Cecil Marx, who is noted as an authority on all social matters.

No men who are men can spare three hours two or three afternoons every week in order to attend these parties. The necessity for having men in attendance, however, is so great that a regular business has grown up of supplying men.

According to Miss Marx, the social agent who lures those sometimes unsuspecting victims to functions has the following scale of charges which hostesses may:

One man equals $1.50, one baron $3, one Duke $150, one peer $1,000.

"Just a few days ago," said Miss Marx, "a Russian noble woman visiting London was given a reception in the afternoon. You can imagine how terribly annoyed and shocked she was when an English Duchess wrote to her offering to supply ten young men and the same number of women, all bearing titles, as guests, for the sum of fifty guineas."

"Young Englishmen, younger sons of Lords and the like, have been imposed upon as well as foreigners by these guest providers. The noble, pernicious business, which is beginning to distract many people, is due to the ridiculous afternoon tea party system, which some people insist on maintaining at all costs."

HIRE THEMSELVES.

Many impudent continental young men, prettily dressed and with exquisite manners, lend themselves to this guest providing business for a consideration. Aside from the regular fee which they receive for their services there is also a chance that they will be able to catch an American heiress, which is not the least among the inducements offered them.

Society's latest mania is boxing, and, as women cannot stand bouts at the National Sporting Club, boxers are induced to give private exhibitions. There is also a healthy tendency among the gilded youth of London to take up boxing, and there is consequently a growing demand for the services as instructors of ex-pugilists.

PRIVATE BOXING.

One of the smartest private boxing exhibitions was given last week at the Cavendish hotel, quiet little hostelry in Jersey street, purchased over by Miss Lewis, who is one of London's characters. Miss Lewis has met all sorts and conditions of men in her time, from crowned heads downward, and many numbers of the peerage who wish for their various reasons to remain incognito have taken shelter under her hospitable roof.

The dining room at the Cavendish was cleared and some very gory matches took place between lightweights from the East End. As a climax to the evening "Embarde" Billy Wells gave an exhibition with his boxer. The newly married Miss Wells, who is only 17, looked very well in an evening gown.

The affair was arranged by Sir William Eden, husband of a once famous society woman, and among others present were Lady Brooks, daughter-in-law of Lady Warwick; Miss Eden, Lord Fitzwilliam and Lord Ribblesdale.

MAKES SPEECH; LASTS 46 HOURS

Beats "the Everlasting Law Case," Which Took Ten Sittings.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A new record in forensic eloquence has been set up by the Solicitor General, Sir John Simon, in the arbitration between the Postoffice and the National Telephone company.

On Friday he concluded his speech for the postoffice, which had lasted nine and one-half days, or forty-six hours in all.

This beats the previous record, held by the Attorney-General, Sir Rufus Isaacs, whose speech in the Appeal Court in the famous financial case of Wyer vs. Lewis, known as "the everlasting law case," extended into the tenth sitting in the same litigation. Sir Edward Carson spoke for eight days.

In the period covered by Sir John Simon's address he also delivered long political speeches in the House of Commons and at Bristol and Manchester. Except for a slight hoarseness Sir John was none the worse for his feat.

The telephone arbitration may be concluded in about ten days.

HOW DOES PRINCE GEORGE KNIT SO BEAUTIFULLY?

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Prince George's wooden scars were the subject of heated discussion between visitors who looked to the Imperial Institute recently to see the clothing collected by the London Seedsmen's Guild for distribution among the poor.

The scars, which were the work of Prince George himself, were of a warm green color, as even as a billiard table surface and brightly finished with red tassels. The question which kept ringing out like a minute gun was:

"How did he do them so beautifully?"

With knitting needles of ordinary one composition? With wooden frame and pegs? Or how?

It was their ill-informed doorknobs came claiming their looking no love that the question was finally settled in a slight majority in favor of the peg-and-frame method.

DRESSMAKING BILLS NOT CHANGED---OH, NO!

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Dec. 7.—At the reunion of the "Alliance Française," a lecture was delivered by M. Dupont of St. Malo, on "Le Mont Saint-Michel" or see Leopold.

It narrated many of the quaint and most improbable stories associated with the famous Mont. But what had me in the greatest awe was a reproduction of the famous "Mona Lisa" which had me in the greatest awe.

ORPHEUM

This week the Orpheum will offer an exceptional bill. Comedy will be a feature and when one is looking for beautiful young women, here will be the place to find them. The varied talent offered makes the combined acts one of the most attractive vaudeville shows that the Orpheum has had the pleasure of announcing. This bill starts at today's matinee.

Ethel Green, the headline feature, a winsome little comedienne, with ability far in excess of her size, is admitted a most popular favorite. Miss Green sings a song or two, and tells us many stories. She is a fresh young woman and her appearance is particularly charming. However, it is not so much material as method that counts and Miss Green's method has never failed to please.

The first Oakland appearance of Miss Adele Augarde will be made in a new one-act comedy, "A Matter of Duty," written by Mrs. Richard Burton, wife of Professor Burton of the University of Minnesota. Miss Augarde is famed as the boss of the best musical comedians in America. She is a charming actress, having a style and manner that is particularly pleasing. She is noted in the little play by some clever actors, and the story is one of intense interest as well as very funny.

The intimitable delineator of broad comedy, Mr. George Felix, and the charming Betty Girard will unfold their unique irresistible attraction. Their vehicle is limited principally to convey their individual accomplishments. It gives Mr. Felix splendid opportunity for the brand of comedy in which he excels and affords the two girls a chance to sing, dance, chat and look well. Mr. Felix is one of vaudeville's favorites.

GILFOIL IS WELCOME.

A familiar and always welcome character impersonation is Harry Gilfoil's capable creation, "Barmy Bands," which will be here for the first time in vaudeville. During the period of the Hoyt farces-farcas were invariably written for Mr. Gilfoil, and he remained under the Hoyt direction for seventeen years, playing in practically every one of the farces turned out by that famous author-producer.

No exponent of broad comedy is as quick or more complete than changed from one character to another than Caesar Rivoli. In his playlet, "A Scandal in a Restaurant," he plays seven different roles, each widely contrasted to the other. Rivoli has been called the man with one hundred roles and "the man who changes his clothes quicker than a woman changes her mind." Following the prologue sketch, Rivoli takes his place in the orchestra pit, conducting in the disguise of many celebrated leaders and composers.

The man of independence of a bulldog makes it one of the hardest animals to train. Once, however, this learning has been acquired he makes the best animal actor. This is partly due to the fact that Mr. Bull commands respect and does his stunts because he likes to. Al Rayno is one of the most successful trainers of bulldogs before the public and the pupa used in his present performance show unusual intelligence. "A side for life" and "a football game" are two of the features of his act.

Rivoli's Marionettes, pronounced by all as the best act of the kind ever seen in this country, will be on the bill.

Goldsmith and Hoppe, that humorous pair, who burlesque good music and get fun out of a description of what music is, will make a big place for themselves. This is an act that would be great on any year.

The latest motion pictures, and the concert by the Orpheum orchestra with a special feature in an oboe solo by Gustav Apel will make this an unusually attractive bill.

PANTAGES

The appearance of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer at the Pantages this week is regarded by theatrical men as one of the greatest booking achievements ever accomplished in vaudeville. Doctor Cook will positively appear at each performance of the regular Pantages program, giving a lecture on "My Attainment of the North Pole." The noted traveler was signed up by Charles L. Cole of the Pantages circuit through the offices of Manager Ely of the local theater, who saw the possibility of the explorer as a vital attraction for his patrons. Doctor Cook has not appeared in vaudeville before, and it was his desire to address the mass of people that induced him to accept the offer of the management.

No controversy in history has perhaps equalled that concerning the discovery of the North Pole. Lieutenant Peary has made charges against Dr. Cook, and the doctor in turn claims to have in his possession absolute proofs that the assertions made are false. Dr. Cook's narrative, as he will unfold it to the patrons of the Pantages, is one of the most absorbing and engrossing tales in history. In his story of vindication, Dr. Cook will unravel the mysterious of the bitter wranglings that kept him in oblivion for the past two years.

Aside from the prominence that the engagement of Dr. Cook's lecture brings, Manager Ely has booked an exceptionally good show. The long-heralded scenes from Robert Hichens' fascinating romance, "The Garden of Allah," will be shown. Harry O'Connor will explain the views, and beautiful incidental music and songs are used in the act. The scenes were taken by James P. Read, who the permission and approval of the Liebler company, who produced the original play, which is acclaimed as the biggest success that the American stage has known in many years.

Mobile Moore's "Stage Door Johnnies," with Trix Oliver in the leading role, is one of the best little musical comedies that has played the Pantages circuit this season. Miss Oliver is a charming actress, with a magnificent wardrobe.

The stage johnnies are a clever dancing and singing sextet, with a splendid comedian, Harry Norwood, who enacts the part of a colored waiter. The production is in three scenes, with special electrical effects.

Maybell Fonda and her troupe of club-tossers have the novelty act on the bill. Miss Fonda is the champion button swinger in the business, and has arranged a quartet of hustling jugglers.

Abrams and Johns have a dramatic sketch dealing with the Emperor and his marshals, the actual scenic settings were carried out most perfectly. A wonderful creation brought to a polished finish by music permeating every scene throughout—harmonious and appropriate for that epoch.

The story in part follows:

Helen Mason, beautiful, high-strung and self-willed, prefers the love of Victor Gardier, a young artist, to the attentions of Henry Pendleton. The latter declares his love for Helen and asks her hand in marriage, but she refuses. The young artist visits Helen, but instead of proposing, he acquaints her with the fact that his uncle offers him an opportunity to complete his art studies in Paris. She begs him not to leave her, but he turns a deaf ear to her pleadings and, after his departure she gives way to her anger and disappointment and in retaliation she promises to marry Pendleton. They are married, but not mated.

They visit Paris and Helen conceals the joy to her of a visit to the artist's studio, and her vanity is flattered by a request to have her portrait painted. She appears for the first sitting, when Victor arrives to furnish her with enough laughs to last throughout the holidays.

The plot of "The Jolly Widow" amounts to little or nothing. There is so much else to occupy your attention, you have no time for plots. There are laughable complications, and amusing situations by the score. Mike and Ike on a tour of Paris have their hands full. They try to break into society and you can imagine with what result. They meet the "jolly" widow, who takes a fiendish delight in showing them the sights, at their own expense, of course. It's a merry riot of fun, from start to finish, and is guaranteed to furnish you with enough laughs to last throughout the holidays.

Dillon and King will essay the roles of Mike and Ike respectively. They will be assisted in the joy making by Charlie Reilly, Maude Beatty, Ernest Van Pelt, Maxie Mitchell, Al West and Francis Tallerand.

The musical program will contain many songs hit. At "West" will introduce the latest Broadway craze, "Geo. But I Like You." With My Heart, while Eddie Williams and Eddie Valiant will be heard in "Just a Little Bit of Love." Charlie Reilly and Manda Beatty have a pleasing duet in preparation. Lillian Morris and Marjory Shaw will present the novel Irish number, entitled "My Kearney Rose." "Where You Goin'," a popular minstrel melody, will be sung by Julia Grassell and Trixie Lench.

The management takes pleasure in announcing the special engagement of the well known English comedian and singer, Harry Davis. Davis hails from London, with a repertoire of the most successful British comedy songs. Special attention has been paid to the scenic and costuming end of the production, which will continue through the week with the usual shows.

YE LIBERTY

The Bishop players have another comedy in preparation for this week— "The Heir to the Hoorah," considered by many competent judges the finest Western comedy ever written.

It is from the pen of Paul Armstrong, who wrote "Salomy Jane," "Alias Jim," "Valentine," "The Deep Purple," etc., and is really the play that started him on his remarkably successful career as a playwright. Although the play tells a love story of tender interest, its four acts are crowded with the most wholesome, unctuous comedy imaginable, forming a combination that has never failed to appeal to all classes of theatergoers.

Armstrong's characterization is the charm of the comedy, and the cast to appear in it next week will be adequate to any request. The people all but five or six, are the people of

"JUST A LITTLE FORETHOUGHT WILL PREVENT A DOUBLE CHIN"

BY
LILLIAN RUSSELL

"MANY WOMEN GIVE ATTENTION TO THEIR FACES AND NEGLECT THEIR THROATS ALTOGETHER—THE RESULT IS A FLABBY, YELLOW, WRINKLED THROAT THAT SCREAMS RIDICULE AT THE PINK AND WHITE FACE ABOVE IT," SAYS

Lillian Russell

[Copyright 1912 by Lillian Russell]

A BEAUTIFUL throat and neck is a blessing that must be carefully guarded. No portion of the anatomy is so inclined to become so perversely unmanageable. It is only with the greatest care and attention that a woman can retain the contour, outline, and firmness of her beautiful throat and neck all through her life.

Many women give attention to their faces and neglect their throats altogether; the result is a flabby, discolored, and shapeless throat. Many beauties are celebrated for their necks alone. Of course, a perfect neck means also perfect shoulders.

When bathing, the flesh brush should be used vigorously around the throat—behind the ears and down the back. And after the bath, when a little cold cream is used upon the face to counteract the effect of soap, the and at its narrowest part should have twice the circumference of the wrist.

Through the neck the great vessels pass to the head, and the spinal column conveys the sensations of all parts of the body to the brain, where resides the intellect. Therefore the neck is of marked importance in reading character, and reveals much to not only the physiognomist but to the physician.

The care of the neck is as necessary as the care of the face and head, and the woman of 40 who does not exercise will find a lump of fat accumulating at the top of her spine which indicates age more certainly than any wools.

One common defect in the contour of the neck is owing to the irregular action of the muscles drawing it to one side, or to the peculiar swelling of the glands known as goiter.

In this country, fortunately, that disease is little known. In Germany there are whole towns afflicted with goiter, caused by the condition of the water they are obliged to drink.

LOVELY WOMAN AND HER RAIMENT AS SEEN BY SUZETTE

66 A WOMAN and Her Raiment"—on that theme could a most fascinating and interesting volume be written. But the greatest arraignment women have had in regard to their gowns in recent years is from the pen of Ida M. Tarbell. First she attacks the Standard Oil Company and now she contributes to the world a message entitled "A Woman and Her Raiment." And it is with interest that we read:

"What it all amounts to is that the instinct for ornament has gotten the upper hand of a great body of Americans can women. We have failed so far to develop standards of taste, fitness, and quality, strong, sure, and good enough effectually to impose themselves. There is no national taste in dress; there is only admirable skill in adapting fashions made in other countries. There is no national sense of restraint and proportion. It is pretty generally agreed that getting all you can is entirely justifiable. There is no national sense of quality; even the rich today in this country wear imitation lace. The effect of all this is a bewildering restlessness in costume—a sheeplike willingness to follow to the extreme the grotesque and the fantastic. The very general adoption of the ugly and meaningless fashions of the last few years—peach basket hats, bobble skirts, slippers for the street—is a case in point. From every side this is bad—defeating its own purpose—corrupting national taste and wasting national substance.

"Moreover, the false standard it sets up socially is intolerable. It sounds fantastic to say that whole bodies of women place their chief reliance to social advancement on dress but it is true. They are, or are not, as they are gowned! The worst of this fantasy is not only that it forces too much attention from useful women, but that it gives such poise and assurance to the ignorant and useless. If you look like the women of a set, you are as "good" as they, is the democratic standard of many a young woman. If for any reason she is not able to produce this effect, she shrinks from contact, whatever her talent or charm. And she is often not altogether wrong in thinking she will not be welcome if her dress is not that of the circle to which she aspires. Many a woman indifferently gowned has been made to feel her difference from the elegant she found herself among. If she is sure of herself and has a sense of humor, this may be an amusing experience. To many, however, it is an embittering one!"

"There is a gleam of light in the darkness, however, for Miss Tarbell admits that the American woman has evolved our present useful and probably permanent type of street suit.

"In this particular the American woman has achieved a genuine democratization of her clothes," she says. "The experience of the last two years—fashion's open attempt to make the walking suit useless by tightening the skirts, and bizarre by elaborate decorations, has in the main failed. Here, then, is a standard established, and established on one of the great principles of sensible clothing, and that is fitness. It shows that the true attack on the tyranny and corruption of clothes lies in the establishment of principles.

"The fitness of dress depends upon the occasion.

"The beauty of dress depends upon line and color.

"The ethics of dress depends upon quality and the relation of cost to one's means.

"A girl can be taught through this matter of dress, as directly perhaps as through anything that concerns her, the importance of studying human nature. They would not exist if there were not at the bottom of them some impulse of nature, right and beautiful and essential. The folly of woman's dress lies not in her instinct to make herself beautiful, it lies in her ignorance of the principles of beauty, of the intimate and essential connection between utility and beauty. It lies in the pitiful assumption that she can achieve her end by imitation, that she can be the thing she envies if she looks like that thing."

MRS. SHARON'S GOWN GREATLY ADMIRER

sense, will never seriously affect the clothes problem. Women are bound to be beautiful; they are going to live up to the best possibilities which lie in an inheritance of passable good looks, for only the very few are beautiful. So we are evolving most wonderful gowns and many of our well-known women are such charming studies that any artist would love to paint them.

The most beautiful gowns seen in San Francisco in many a day were those worn at the Sharon ball, which was given across the bay for Miss Louise Jenin on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Sharon's gown is being discussed everywhere among the smart sets on both sides of the bay. It was a most unusual gown, made in straight lines after a classical design.

The gown was of brocade, of very heavy material, the pattern worked out in large oak leaf designs, in heavy gold thread. The skirt opened over a petticoat of rare chantilly lace over chiffon. About the bottom of the skirt was an arrangement of seed pearls, crystals and gold beads.

The corsage was quite wonderful. Mrs. Sharon spent many years abroad and her collection of laces is unusually fine. The lace on the corsage of her ball gown was of a rare Venetian pattern, embroidered in seed pearls and tiny gold beads. Her jewels were her famous emeralds and two strands of diamonds fastened in her hair a yellow Bird of Paradise.

Most of the debutantes this season are wearing gowns showing silver effects. Miss Janin's very beautiful gown was of silver brocade on white satin, with a band of silver, outlined with seed pearls, trimming the skirt and also forming a part of the bodice.

Pretty Genevieve Cunningham wore a green and silver brocade trimmed in silver lace, and Miss Newhall was in rose colored satin also trimmed in silver lace.

Mrs. Walter Hobart, after an absence of many months in Europe, has returned to California, and at the Sharon ball she wore a gown of white satin trimmed in orange.

Mrs. William H. Crocker and Mrs. Hearst were both beautifully gowned, and both have very exquisite taste in the selecting and in the modeling of their gowns.

Among the very pretty girls from our side of the bay were Miss Ruth and Miss Esther Sharon, both of whom are cousins of the hostess. Mrs. Fred Jenin.

Mrs. C. O. G. Miller was beautifully gowned, and Mrs. Dixwell Hewitt (Kato Clement) wore a handsome gown which she brought with her from Paris a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Herbert Moffit was much admired in a gown of French blue and gold brocade, and her sister, Miss Virginia Jolliffe, was in pale yellow satin.

One noticed many original designs at the ball, and the most unique effects were those in Mrs. Newhall's costume. Her gown was of dark blue velvet over red satin, and she wore red stockings and red slippers. Mrs. Gertrude Atherton was among the guests and her gown was of pink satin, with gold embroidery and black lace.

The most conspicuous gown at the ball was that of Mrs. Henry T. Scott. It represented a very magnificent costume of red velvet veiled in gold net and heavily embroidered in gold.

Mrs. William Jenin was one of the most popular matrons across the bay, very sweet and sincere, made a most charming study. Her gown was of white and rose chiffon, beautifully studded in rhinestones, the latter carrying out a most elaborate pattern.

The great ball will go down in history a companion chapter to the one given last year at the St. Francis by Mrs. Templeton Crocker.

It is not a new saying, but it is a true one, that Americans are the best dressed women in the morning, the French the best dressed women in the afternoon, and the English the best dressed women in the evening. But one hears that the Californians are changing all that. It is said that the women, especially in our part of California, are better gowned than those one meets in Vienna, or in the much-praised Paris. And surely no gowns could be more beautiful than those worn at the Palace on Thursday evening by California's lovely women.

READING AT EBELL.

Under the auspices of the Twenty-second District California Congress of Mothers at Ebell clubhouse, on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Laubrie will give a dramatic interpretation of "The Pigeon."

The reading is of keen interest for Mrs. Laubrie is said by competent critics to possess remarkable ability and to be an artist of rare attainments. She is more than a reader, being an interpreter of the dramas of the modern school.

It is a well-known fact that there are many illiterate women than men among the immigrants, and the club women have not been slow to see the danger in admitting such to citizenship, nor slow in finding the remedy and applying it regardless of the work it entails and no remuneration for their labor.

This is not the first time that the Oakland club has pioneered county work. In May, 1904, the club started the probation work in Alameda county, being responsible for the salary of the probation officer for nearly four years, when the county assumed the obligations.

The following women were appointed upon the executive committee of the county of Alameda to act with the president in this new work:

Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Mrs. George Daniels, Mrs. W. S. Peters with Mrs. L. P. Crane as chairman of the board.

HOME CLUB.

The Home Club met on Thursday evening and listened to a very delightful program, when the members of the dramatic section of the Claremont Club presented a farce entitled "What Happened to Jones." Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dabney were host and hostess for the evening. The cast for the play was as follows: Jones (who travels for a hymn-book house) H. A. Thornton Whenever Goody (a professor of matronity) E. B. Foster Anthony Goody (D. D. Bishop of Bellaria) Ernest S. Tanner Richard Heathcote (engaged to Marjorie) Roger D. Sinclair Thomas Holder (policeman) W. F. Kett Williams Bigbee (an inmate of the Asylum) J. J. bought the palace from the Riccardi family a century and more ago, has never cared to give it back its rightful name.

The description of the Florentine pictures are truly wonderful. One can linger long over the lovely Madonnas, where else has their loveliness been so well portrayed.

Of the Annunciation we read:

"The hands are the most beautiful in existence, and the landscape with its one and its fairy architecture is a continual delight. The virgin not only recognizes the honor but the doom. Here is tragedy. The painting of the Virgin's head dress is marvelous. We want to linger long in the Uffizi palace with its wonderful pictures, and forget all else in the world besides."

Or the "Flight into Egypt" we read:

"Everything here is joyous, and (in spite of the terrible course of the journey) here is the sunny light of the age of innocence; the landscape, Joseph, younger than us, is fair and absolute, and dismays by the curious turn of his fortunes; and Mary, with the child in her arms, happy and pretty, seated securely on an amiable donkey that has neither bit nor bridle. It is when one looks at Fra Angelico that one understands how wise were the Old Masters to seek their inspiration in the life of Christ."

Nothing could be more beautiful than this new book on Florence more appropriate for the holiday time, or more imbued with the reverence, joy, and happiness of the holy Christmas season.

The real name of the Duomo is the Cathedral of St. Mary of the Flowers, the flower being the Florentine city. Florence herself is called the "City of Flowers."

Of Fra Angelico and Michael Angelo he writes:

"How it came about that between the years 1300 and 1500 Italian soul—threw up such masterpieces as these—will never be able to explain. But there it is. In the history of the world two centuries were sufficient given absolutely to the activities of Italian men of human genius and as suddenly the divine gift was withdrawn. And to see the very flower of these two centuries it's to Florence we must go."

FEELING OF MYSTERY.

And further in the chapter of the Duomo we read:

"Austerity and immensity join forces. When all is said the chief merit of the Duomo is this immensity. In its vastness it overpowers. Three or four of the churches of Florence could be packed into this one. And were size with all right and a savour of elegance is enough to carry the religion. The world is left out. A former exercises the same spell among the people as one feels it; but in such a cathedral as the Duomo one feels it for perhaps most of all, for it is the work of man, yet touched with mystery and wonder, and the knowledge that man is the author of such a marvel adds to its greatness."

The emptiness of the Duomo is another of its charms. Nothing is allowed to impair the vista as you stand by the western entrance; the floor has no chains; the great columns rise from it in the gloom as if they, too, were rooted. The walls are bare save for a few tablets."

One will not soon forget the beautiful Easter service at the Duomo, nor the picturesque Italy Thursday procession, wending its way through Florentine streets. There is a magical human interest woven in the book, and a sense of humor which adds its lighter touches. Artists are men after all—the divine spark makes the difference.

One likes to read intimate personal notes of great people, and there are many beautiful paragraphs in the book.

There is one story of Leonardo da Vinci and Andrea del Sarto which makes one smile. They had dining club, the members of which dined with each other in devising curious dishes.

Andrea del Sarto, for example, once brought as his contribution to the feast a model of this very church, the Baptistry. The floor was constructed of jolts, the pillars of sausages, and the chandelier of cold veal, which the choristers were roast thrushes."

Again we find ourselves face to face with the Medici family, so famous in Italian history, and a whole chapter is devoted to the Ricardo Palace.

"Such is an outline of the history of this wonderful family, and we leave their ancient home built by the greatest and wisest of them, with mixed feelings of admiration and pity. They were indeed lovable, they were often despicable; but when they were great they were very great indeed. But Florence, although it rode of "The Heather Moon" against the plans of the authors.

According to the story that is being whispered in literary circles in London, it was like this: The Williams started with an entirely different idea for "The Heather Moon," but before they had gotten very far a girl called Barbiel MacDonald seemed to appear before them and insist on having her story written, instead of the story that the authors had planned. They resisted: "Barbie" persisted; and at last she conquered.

But the only way to console the authors for giving up their cherished first plot and making over the rest of it was of a thing like "Barbie" was to put into the new story two distracted motor novelists who had to write what they didn't want to write, and in the process (quite to their own surprise) turned into full fledged villain and villainess.

MAN WHO CAME BACK.

John Fleming Wilson, the author of "The Man Who Came Back," has taken his place as one of the few story-tellers who have a really national popularity.

Readers of the foremost magazines will need no introduction to him. This tale tells of a young man spoiled by great wealth and thwarted in love by the opposition of socially ambitious parents, who wander over the world and drift into a wild and reckless life. At last the young prodigal, penniless and irresponsible, strikes bottom in a low slum in Shanghai. How, with the help of a devoted mentor of the music halls, he took up hope, won his own way to success, and solved the hard problem of his life and his love—how in a word he "came back," bringing the fatted calf along with him is the subject of this moving story.

It is published by the Sturgis & Walton Company.

MISS WEALTHY, SHERIFF.

"Miss Wealthy, Sheriff," is one of the most successful of the Stokes books of the year.

Last spring there sprang up in all the literary columns a discussion of the exodus to the country which most of the important writers have been making, after years of the theory that trolley clanging is necessary to lively inspiration.

A new adherent of the theory that the country is the thing is Elizabeth Neff, author of "Miss Wealthy: Deputy Sheriff," and "Altars to Mammon." Now Mrs. Neff, though she prefers to live in the little Ohio town of Gates Mills, most of the years, is no mean authority on what cities mean, for she has been a settlement worker in the most congested parts of Cleveland, for years, guiding thousands of girls in vocational work. But as to the city—Well, Pa Pergolis, the silver-skinned gentle old country sheriff whose bustling plump daughter "Miss Wealthy" is the leading character in Mrs. Neff's new novel, remarks:

"Me go to the city? Why, son, I've been. No. I don't like it. There's such a lot going on that it makes me dizzy-like, the rattlin' and the rushin' on the roarin'."

Miss Neff keeps a body from thinkin' in. A man feels so sorry for them pore little children sellin' papers on the hot streets an' mis-able ole women pliekin' up rags, that he couldn't take no pleasure in anything.

He never sees a thing in the city to enjoy. Je's jenni walls like a prison and stone streets and everybody clutterin' along like they had to scramble for enough to eat that day. Nobody has time to stop an' pass the time of day—no, the city's an awful lonesome place."

SUCCESSFUL BOOK.

Of Flora Annie Steel, whose latest book the "King Errant," is so successful, one reads:

Though for years she lived in India, where she got the material for her new novel, "King Errant," Flora Annie Steel now gardens and dreams in an English country house, where, now a woman of fifty-five, she lives with her seventy-five year old husband. She is a small woman, but as active, ambitious, as flushed of eyes as a girl, says an English interviewer who visited her upon the issuance of her new novel, "King Errant."

She is devoted to her grandchildren, her animals, her garden.

Occasionally she rises up to town for a night to speak at some dinner good judges say that she is one of the best after dinner speakers in England—flashes of wit, a vivid personality, is welcomed by her many friends, and retires to her holly-hocks.

She says that she agrees with Professor Nettlefold of Oxford, who declared that there are but two certain ways to fame: one of them, to write a cookery book; the other, to invent a new religion.

Mrs. Steel did the first, because she is an expert on East Indian cooking, and declares quite solemnly that she is by no means certain she won't do the second.

In the first place, she could put into "King Errant" the fires of the loving, fighting, rhyming days of the Great Mughuls.

Mrs. Steel has been called "A Lady Militant" as well:

Upon the recent announcement that Beatrice Hildraden has gone out actively for militant suffrage, an English reporter asked Flora Annie Steel, author of "King Errant," her opinion of suffrage, and Mrs. Steel, woman of sixty-five though she is, declares not only that she has been led into suffrage ever since she saw the shiftlessness of men men, in the custom houses of India, but also that she believes in using force, if necessary, to get the vote.

"In fact," she confessed, with a shadow of a regretful grin, "I once did thrash a man! It was in India—he was a hideous native who had been mistreating horses. I cuffed him good, while his fellow servants stood by and said, 'Well done Memsahib, well done!'

"The cities where people amuse themselves as you know, and particularly the great seaports, are hostile to every reform tending to protect women. San Francisco voted against the women to such an extent that after the first voting, their defeat appeared to be crushing. But the rural precincts corrected the votes of the metropolis, and defeat was changed into victory. There is a lesson that will not be lost! The masses in which the woman is submerged are against her rising, the country where she is mistress of the farm or the home, is for her. Women are still more interested than men in the maintenance of peace and in the organization of justice. Whenever the fisher in troubled waters work to meet war or panic, the influence of the women by he depended on to counterbalance them. That struck one especially in San Francisco, where the one admirable progress of this is to be seen too often in danger of being compromised by the enterprise of a few adventurers.

"In the West I learned the lesson of simplicity. Above all in the West I have seen our old prejudices fall to the ground, and natural conceptions take their revenge on traditions of your old world that would have no sense in the new. In traveling over the world I have remodeled my own education. And I have learned this: In new countries a place is assigned to the woman and the child, and the newer the country, the higher the plane."

PREOCCUPATION OF DRESS.

It is hard on industry, however, for the wage earner who can afford to take six of eight dollars, pulls down the wages of other thousands who support not only themselves, but others.

"This ugly preoccupation with dress does not begin with the bottom of society.

It exists there because it exists at the top and filters down. In each successive layer there are women to whom dress is a mere fancy as it was for the poor little girls I quote as above. It is a vice quite parallel to that of gambling among men. Women of great wealth not infrequently spend princely allowances and then run accounts which come into courts by their inability or unwillingness to pay them. It is curious comment on women in a democracy that one is sometimes inclined to wonder if it is not the real "woman question."

Certainly in numbers of cases it is the rock upon which family happiness splits. The point is not at all that women should not occupy themselves seriously with dress, that they should not look on as a means to success, as any other.

The difficulty comes in not mastering the art, in the entirely disproportionate amount of attention which is given to the subject in the disregard of sound principles.

"The economic side of the matter presses hard on the whole country." It is not too much to say that the chief economic concern of a great body of women is how to get money to dress, not as they should, but as they want to."

It is to get money for clothes that drives many girls into shops, factories, and offices.

THE BABY GHOST

That Haunts The Wicked Landlord

"For More Than Three Weeks the Plaintive Wail of a Young Baby Was Heard Every Night. Sometimes It Was Near 1 O'Clock, Sometimes as Late as 4 a. m., Never Before Midnight Nor After 4 in the Morning."

HANNIBAL residential apartments, one of the finest and most exclusive apartments in the Riverside drive district of upper New York, is experiencing a ghost scare. Standing at the curve near the corner of the drive where it sweeps along the Hudson in great curves, in the midst of perhaps one of the finest apartment building districts of the entire city, the magnificent Hannibal apartments are going begging for tenants. With the hundreds of thousands seeking homes, with rentals advancing at all points, and waiting lists growing longer for apartments in the better buildings, the Hannibal, even with reduced rents, is unfilled and begging for tenants.

The condition has existed for more than seven months, and in spite of the efforts of the owners and the agents to hide the facts, the strangest ghost story of the decade has been circulated among the tenants, has spread through the neighborhood and reached the ears of prospective renters. It has driven away servants and janitors, which is a nice distinction in upper New York.

The Hannibal apartments are haunted by the ghost of a baby. It sounds incredible that a seven story apartment building, with forty apartments, a building in which no children ever have been permitted, should gain such a reputation. Yet go among the neighbors either on the drive or along One Hundred and Fifty-eighth, One Hundred and Fifty-ninth, and One Hundred and Sixtieth streets, and even a block or more toward the top of the hill, and the story of the ghost baby will be told.

* *

Owner Said, "No Children."

There are scoffers, of course, for few persons in these days of realism believe in spirits; but there are those who shiver when the ghost baby is mentioned, and many more who merely shake their heads and admit that there is something strange and inexplicable about it. The agents, the manager, the janitor, and all the others scoff at the idea of ghosts, yet offer the apartments at a rental, on an average, of nearly $10 a month lower than they asked a year ago, offer to redecorate, never argue against more steam, or fuss when tenants demand new shades or more lights.

Of course there isn't any such a thing as a ghost—and, if there were such things, a baby ghost. But to facts.

The Hannibal apartments were completed about three years ago. They are seven stories tall, and contain forty apartments of two, three, four, and five rooms, besides the base height apartments occupied by the janitor. The first rule of the owner was "No chil-

The rentals were high, as the district is a choice one and the view of the Hudson and the curving drive is magnificent. There is a little park down along the riverside, where the children may play and where the young couples may sit and look over at the Palisades.

The apartments were filled almost as soon as completed, and there soon was a waiting list of applicants. There are scores of such

"No One Has Been Able to Explain. The Owner After January 1 Intends to Change the Rules to Permit Babies to Live in the Flats. Whether He Thinks to Propitiate the Ghost or the Joker He Does Not Say."

the whisper went through the building that another baby was living in the apartments, in violation of the rules. In a short time it became the custom of the men, meeting in the elevator in the morning, to ask each other if the baby's crying kept them awake. The women, after cautiously reassuring themselves that they were not addressing the mother, inquired.

Ghost Baby Story Circulates.

For more than three weeks the plaintive wail of a young baby was heard every night. Sometimes it was near 1 o'clock, sometimes as late as 4 a. m., never before midnight nor after 4 in the morning. The janitor, sleuthing through the building, tried in vain to locate the cry. He lost sleep and he lost his temper.

A young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCulloch, had taken the apartment vacated by the Higgins family after the baby episode. They had lived there only two months. Late in July, one hot night, the wailing of the baby was heard. The janitor, slipping from floor to floor noiselessly, listened at every door. He reached the door of the west front apartment on the fifth floor. The sound seemed to come from within. He pressed his ear against the door and listened until he was certain. Then he beat noisily upon the door. McCulloch, in his pajamas, rubbing the sleep from his eyes, opened the door. The janitor angrily accused him of having a baby in the apartment, and demanded to know whether or not he knew he was violating the rules.

It happens that Mr. McCulloch is large and athletic. He replied with a straight right to the nose and followed it with a left hook, then proceeded to kick the janitor down the hallway, informing him between kicks that they only had been married four months.

That encounter brought several other tenants to the hallway, and it served to help circulate the story of the ghost baby. The gossip spread. Every tenant in the building admitted hearing a baby crying somewhere. Some said it was in one flat, some declared it seemed to come from the elevator shaft, others avowed that at times it seemed as if the baby were crying in a closet of their own apartments. Mrs. McCulloch grew nervous, and they canceled their lease and moved. The janitor spent many nights hunting the baby—and without success. Twice he accused tenants of harboring it, and declared he heard the crying inside their apartments.

Detective Is Employed.

Then came the rumor, which was not substantiated, that the Higgins baby had died shortly after leaving the apartments, and that the cause of death was a cold contracted by moving into a new house after being ejected from the Hannibal. The story that the Hannibal was haunted by a baby ghost spread through the entire neighborhood. The tenants commenced to leave. The janitor, after a long search, became so frightened that he quit. The worried agents employed a detective to discover the cause of the mysterious wailing, and the detective spent every night for three weeks in a vain endeavor to locate the noise. He heard it, he says, on the second, fifth, sixth, and seventh floors.

The yarn of the ghost baby was hurting the value of the property, and the agents made desperate efforts to solve it. They offered a reward. They charged that some one, out of revenge, was playing a joke on them. They even accused one couple, acquaintance of the Higgins family, of abetting the plot, which they denied.

* *

Phonograph Record Blame.

The detective evolved a theory that some one, unknown, had caused a phonograph record to be made of a baby's crying, and was setting it off to annoy other tenants or possibly to revenge the Higgins family's wrongs. The agents searched the building. Only two phonographs were owned, and their possessors showed all their records and declared the idea ridiculous.

In October the crying ceased suddenly and was not heard for more than two weeks. The detective was summoned again, and traced every one in the building, to see whether any one had been away during that period. No one had. The crying recommenced then, and has been going on almost every night since.

And thus far no one has been able to explain. The managing owner of the building declares that after Jan. 1 he intends to change the rules so as to permit babies to live in the flats. Whether he thinks they will drown out the wallines of the ghost baby, or whether he thinks to propitiate the ghost—or the joker—he does not say.

The Hannibal Apartment Building, Where Cries of the Baby Ghost Are Heard great apartments that have sprung up in the last six years, and the Hannibal merely was a type of the better class and more select. A little more than a year ago there came to New York from Oneida a young couple, Leroy Higgins and his wife. Higgins had secured a position in New York. It happened also that among his acquaintances was one John Townsend, who, with his wife, had possession of a four room apartment on the fifth floor west of the Hannibal apartments. The Higgins went to live at a family hotel on the heights in Brooklyn while looking for a place of abode. About that time Townsend's firm transferred him from the New York to the Chicago office, a promotion. Townsend was eager to sublet his apartment, and it was arranged that Higgins take it. The arrangement was carried out.

Complications set in within a few days, when the janitor received a complaint that the Higgins family had a baby. Who complained is uncertain. Of course, all those in the adjoining and nearby flats denied it.

The women thought the Higgins baby the cutest, most adorable, most wonderful baby in the world. They cuddled and kissed him, and told his mother how they envied her, so, of course, it could not have been one of them.

But, anyhow, the janitor ascended one morning when Mrs. Higgins was giving little John his bath, rapped in lolly fashion, and in awful tones accused her of harboring an infant.

The mother admitted it. The janitor sternly informed her that she was transgressing the law, disrupting the peace, disturbing the quiet, and damaging the reputation of the apartments, and that she would have to get out. She protested and showed her lease. She demanded sarcastically whether the janitor wanted her to throw the baby out the window or take it down to the Hudson and drown it. He replied that he didn't care which—but that the baby had to go. Mrs. Higgins grew indignant, then she grew angry, then she wept, and finally she called her husband and sobbed hysterical messages that brought him hurrying homeward.

It was illegal in police court next morning that Higgins wiped up the boiler room floor with the janitor, cracked his head against the boiler, and otherwise maltreated him. The judge was sympathetic. He let Higgins off with the costs, but ordered him to keep the peace. But there was no peace to keep. The condition continued for two weeks, then the lease was canceled and the Higgins family emigrated.

Baby Heard Crying in Night.

The incident almost had been forgotten when one morning shortly after 2 o'clock the plaintive cry of an infant sounded through the fifth floor. It was heard also on the fourth and sixth floors, and, oddly enough, on the first floor. Just what night the first cry was heard is uncertain. Some of those who were tenants then declare they heard the crying several nights before any one else spoke to them about it. Evidently no one cared to be the first to mention the fact that they heard a baby crying. Perhaps it was a week before
